Molotov May Have Hurt Own Peace Move; Soviets, India Favor Formosa Surrender

Both Seek Seat in UN For China

Document Bans Nuclear Weapons

Moscow, June 23 (AP) — The premiers of Russia and India came out jointly today for a ban on nuclear weapons, a UN seat for Communist China and the surrender of Formosa to the Chinese Reds.

The declaration was signed last night by India's Prime Minister Nehru and Soviet Premier Bulganin, and published this morning at the end of Nehru's 17-day visit to the Soviet Union.

The statement contained little that the two men or their governments had not said before. But it was the first time they had said it together.

NEHRU AND BULGANIN called also for a "simultaneous and substantial reduction of conventional armaments" with "effective international control." They cited the recent Soviet disarmament proposals as a "substantial contribution to peace."

The document was published less than three hours before Nehru boarded a plane for Warsaw to spend three days before pushing on to Belgrade, Vienna, Rome and London.

The crowds which lined the streets this morning to see Nehru off numbered far less than the estimated million which turned out for his arrival in the Soviet capital.

NEHRU WAS accompanied to the airport by Bulganin, Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev, Deputy Premier Georgi Malenkov, Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov and other Soviet leaders.

Bidding the Indian leader farewell, Bulganin hailed the joint document as "a solid basis for further development between our two countries and as an example to the rest of the world of peaceful coexistence."

IN ADDITION to championing Red China's cause and echoing Russia's disarmament ideas, the declaration:

1. Reaffirmed the five principles of international coexistence which Nehru drew up with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai at their conference last year and which Yugoslav President Tito later espoused.

2. Urged full implementation of the Indochina armistice pro-

New Arterial Plan Is Cited

Information from engineering sources today indicated that a "rotary" or traffic interchange system would join Hurley and Washington avenues if the state decides to eliminate the viaduct on the latter street.

"We are making studies to see what can be done, if we can get the authorization for elimination of the viaduct, to improve conditions from Washington and Hurley avenues to the thruway," one source said.

THE ROTARY or small-scale traffic circle would eliminate the need of a light and sharp turns at the intersection.

The changes would be made as part of the state-planned arterial route system for the city which is now under study and planning. Work on the system is tentatively due to start next year, and the planning is being done by a Binghamton firm of consulting engineers.

Surveys were in progress from points north of Hurley avenue to the Route 28 thruway interchange about a month ago but an engineer at the Poughkeepsie district office of the state public works department, said he knew of no authorized surveys in conjunction with the arterial plan at this time.

TRAFFIC COUNTS have been under way for some time in the city and vicinity as part of the arterial route study.

Tentative plans for the arterial route system as presented to Mayor Frederick H. Stang last year, call for the building of a traffic spur northwest of the city to connect the Route 28 interchange and main city traffic arteries.

This would extend from a "rotary" or small traffic circle at Broadway, St. James street and Albany avenue, to the interchange area, and would have a connection with Fair street extension.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD now that new studies might require several changes in the design of

Two Are Arrested As Police Probe Point Park Case

Investigation of a reported assault and abduction in the Kingston Point Park area last week resulted in the arrest of two young men yesterday.

Police were notified early Saturday that Walter Baschnagel, of Salem street, Port Ewen, had been beaten up by two unidentified men, and that his automobile and a girl who was with him were taken from the scene.

ARRESTED yesterday were Edward Reilly, 22, of 37 Stuyvesant street, by Baschnagel on a third degree assault charge, and Gerard Diers, 24, of 283 West O'Reilly street, by Detective Clarence Brophy, on a charge dealing with the unauthorized use of an automobile.

Reilly pleaded guilty before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today to the assault charge and was fined $5. Diers case was put over until Friday to permit him time to obtain counsel. Attorney Thomas F. Saccoman represented the district attorney's office.

AUTHORITIES SAID that Baschnagel complained he was in the car with a girl when the others came up and molested him. The two arrested, they reported, said "they wanted to have fun," and pulled up behind the car.

Baschnagel got angry and a scuffle followed, they said. After allegedly assaulting Baschnagel, authorities said, Diers got into his car and Reilly got in the Diers car, and they both drove away.

SATURDAY'S report said that one of the men put the girl, Dolores DeLong, of 107 Henry street, from the car at the Fireside Tavern, West Park, apparently unharmed, but described as "shaken up." Baschnagel reported the incident to the po-

Ministers Elect St. James Pastor As New President

The Rev. Kenneth Neal Alexander, DD, pastor of St. James Methodist Church, was elected president of the Kingston Ministerial Association for the year 1955-56 at a meeting early this week in the First Prebyterian Church.

Other officers elected were Everett E. Herron, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, vice-president, the Rev. Forrest R. Prindle, pastor of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, secretary-treasurer, and Louis H. Schafer, general secretary of the YMCA, corresponding secretary. All elections were unanimous. The Rev. Donald E. Brown presided.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Bonthius, chaplain of Vassar College, spoke on campus life and religious activities of students at the college, explaining that Vassar conducts a daily chapel service and services on Sunday but that attendance was voluntary.

HE SAID the congregations of students were gratifying in size and interest. In addition to salaries for professors in the department of religion, Vassar also has a budget of $40,000 for the advancement of religious and spiritual life. The speaker was introduced by the Rev. William J. McVey, host pastor.

Dr. Alexander announced the following committees: Reformation Day Service, the Rev. Everett E. Herron; institutional ministry, the Rev. Harry E. Christiana; social action, the Rev. Donald A. Ebel; program, the Rev. Clyde H. Snell; radio and television, the Rev. Mr. McVey; scouting, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd; liason Community Chest, the Rev. David C. Gaise; book distribution, the Rev. John L. Riebhoff; public relations and publicity, the Rev. Mr. Brown.

The first meeting of the association for the ensuing year will be held at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 27.

Hurley Dental Clinic

A dental health clinic will be held at the Hurley School July 1 for the first examination and sodium fluoride treatment for pre-school-age children. Appointments may be made by calling Mrs. John Gill or Mrs. Claude Palen.

Parade to Top Ellenville Fete

A "mammoth" parade will be among highlights of the sesquicentennial celebration of the village of Ellenville during the week beginning July 10, it was announced today.

Among organizations already scheduled to parade are the Chandler Fife and Drum Corps, Newburgh, Port Ewen Fife and Drum Corps, Continental Drum and Bugle Corps, Newburgh, the McCarthy All-girl Orchestra and the 56th Regiment Drum Corps, both of Newburgh. Clayton's Military Band of Ellenville will also participate.

THOSE WHO HAVE pledged to furnish floats are the Ellenville Savings Bank, the Home National Bank, New York Telephone Company, First National Bank and Trust Co., Wawarsing Sportsman's Association, Isaac Walton League, Noonday Club, Cook-Taylor Post, American Legion, Women's Christian Temperance Union, Nevele Country Club. Taylor Stresses Importance Of Japan in Far East Plans

New Army Chief Outlines Program During Welcome

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, arriving in Washington to become the new army chief of staff, was greeted ceremoniously today by top level officials of the army. Outgoing Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and outgoing Chief of Staff Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway were included.

Taylor told newsmen the problems with which he expected to deal included determination of the "proper role and contribution of the army" to national defense.

TAYLOR SAID he just heard by radio while flying here this morning of the resignation of Stevens and the nomination of Wilbur M. Bruckner to succeed him.

He said he regretted the departure of "my old and respected friend" Ridgway. He also said that "I regret the departure of Mr. Bob Stevens, my friend, but welcome the opportunity of working with Mr. Bruckner."

Taylor said "I had a lump in my throat on leaving Japan and Korea, particularly Korea" where he served in combat with his troops. He said that Japan "requires our most careful consideration" in the plans for the Far East.

IN THE WELCOMING group at the airport were Ambassador Iguchi of Japan and the American ambassador to Korea, Ellis O. Briggs.

The army turned out a full-dress ceremonial reception for the arrival of the new chief.

A 17-gun salute from a battery, the traditional "ruffles and flourishes" of the army band and snappy salutes greeted Taylor after he descended from the big, four-engined air force plane which brought him here. He made an inspection of the honor guard, stopping once to speak to a soldier he may have recognized.

Taylor came here from his former command in the Far East over a 16,000-mile route which took him through the Middle East and Spain.

HE SAID he conferred with many American officials and government representatives of the countries through which he

Panel Favors Salk Vaccine

Decision Is Made 8-3 To Continue Program

Washington, June 23 (AP)—A panel of medical experts voted 8-2 today to continue the present program of inoculating youngsters with the Salk polio vaccine.

The vote was taken at a meeting of the medical men before a House commerce subcommittee.

IN ADDITION TO those present and voting, there was a letter from Dr. William McB. Hammon of the University of Pittsburgh, who was not present, favoring a halt to the program. Counting it, the vote was 8-3.

Four of the 14 panel members present did not vote on the controversial question which was raised by Dr. Albert Sabin, of the Children's Hospital Research Foundation, Cincinnati, who said the present vaccine is potentially too dangerous for use.

AMONG THOSE present, Sabin drew support only from Dr. John F. Enders of the Children's Hospital, Boston.

Among those voting to keep the program going was Dr. James A. Shannon, associate director of the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., and Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., of the School of Public Health of the University of Michigan, one of the leading forces in getting the Salk vaccine program underway.

DR. JONAS E. SALK, developer of the vaccine, elected not to vote. He said he regarded himself as an investigator and did not wish to get involved in the round table vote which was asked by Rep. Wolverton (R.-N.J.).

Dr. Sabin expressed the view yesterday that inoculations

Rhee Warns Of Aggression

Seoul, June 23 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today "the Chinese and North Korean Communists are making all-out preparations for another aggression like the one in June, 1950."

The 80-year-old president of South Korea gave his warning just two days before the fifth anniversary of the Korean war's outbreak in a budget message to the National Assembly.

Rhee asked the United States for more military and economic aid to "deter another aggression from the north."

Approval Is Asked For New Bridge South of Albany

The New York State Thruway Authority has applied for Department of the Army approval of a bridge to be constructed across the Hudson river about 10 miles south of Albany, it was announced today.

The proposed bridge would cross the river about 400 feet upstream from and parallel to the existing New York Central Railroad bridge in the vicinity of Castleton in the counties of Albany and Rensselaer about 135 miles above the mouth of the river.

THE APPLICANT proposes to construct a fixed highway bridge providing at least vertical clear-

Stair Firm Buys Shokan Property

Fred Vanacore, president of Long Island Stair Builders, Inc., has purchased a tract of land at Shokan and expects to begin manufacturing operations there in September or October.

The property, containing over 27 acres with dwelling house and workshops, was transferred by Neil R. Windrum and Ellen D. Windrum, his wife, to Fred Vanacore and Agnes Vanacore, his wife, by deed filed with the Ulster county clerk. Prior to its sale to Windrum last year, the property was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Dibbell.

Clifford C. Little of Kingston was the real estate broker handling the transaction. Legal matters were handled by Attorney Lloyd R. LeFever.

Vanacore, whose firm manufactures wooden stairs, became acquainted with this area when he was named supplier for one of the housing developments here. He said operations here will begin sometime in September or October, but he was unable to give the exact date at this time. The number of persons to be employed here was not given.

Old Issues Speech Is Warning

Remarks Jolt UN to Reality

San Francisco, June 23 (AP)—Western diplomats said privately today that Russia's V. M. Molotov may have dealt an unintentional blow to his own peace offensive by raising anew all the major cold war issues.

Some small countries were plainly disappointed, but one western diplomat expressed the belief that the UN's anniversary meeting needed something like Molotov's speech yesterday to jolt it back to reality.

OF THE 30 delegates who have addressed the meeting, most had voiced optimism that the end of the cold war might be in sight at last. While all agreed that tension certainly has diminished, a few western leaders felt that some were hoping for too much.

As the session opened its fourth day, there still was little public comment on the Soviet foreign minister's speech.

French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay was second on today's list of speakers, but there was no indication whether he would comment on Molotov's challenge to the west to make the next move.

IT WAS ALMOST certain, however, that Molotov would get a blast from Nationalist China's Foreign Minister George Yeh on his demands that Red China be seated in the UN and that Formosa be handed over to the Peiping regime. Yeh was to speak late in the day.

Among the first to comment was Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, who said:

"The entire tone was conciliatory and the speech is certainly worthy of the west's attention."

OTHERS SAID privately, however, they felt Molotov would have been much more effective if he had stuck to his peace bid and omitted any reference to controversial issues. They also felt he made a mistake in blaming the west for the cold war.

Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines said Molotov's speech was "the same old broken record." He said he thought Molotov had violated the rules of the anniversary session by raising controversial questions and criticizing other nations.

SECRETARY of State John Foster Dulles said:

"I will save my reactions to Mr. Molotov's speech for my own talk on Friday."

In the midst of all this, the news reached San Francisco that Indian Prime Minister Nehru and Soviet Premier Bulganin had issued a joint declaration calling for the peaceful surrender of Formosa to the Communists.

The declaration also urged the seating of Communist China in the UN and the banning of "production, experimentation and use of nuclear and thermonuclear weapons of war."

ALL THESE are among the cold war demands which Russia

Directors Are Elected At Red Cross Meeting

Certificates of appreciation were awarded to three workers and new directors were elected during the annual meeting of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, Wednesday night at the Fair Street Reformed Church.

The certificates were given to Mrs. Gerard W. Betz, Mrs. Fred W. Schwenk and Frederick Hoffman. These certificates are awards which may be given volunteer workers in appreciation of service.

ELECTED TO serve as directors were Edward C. Craig, Mrs. Milton Friedman, James H. Fraser, Mrs. Ralph D. Harper, Richard Roth and Mrs. Lester E. Sanford.

Election of new Chapter officers is scheduled to take place during a meeting of the board of directors Monday night, it was announced.

REPORTS of the officers were received and Treasurer Oscar J. Lawatsch reported receipts in the recent fund campaign to date were over $25,000. Some districts have not as yet completed their report.

Mrs. Betz has served the chapter as a member of the Home Service Committee for approximately 12 years, as Home Service Chairman since July 1952, as a member of the board of directors since July 1952 and as a member of the executive committee from July 1952 through June 1953.

Mrs. Schwenk has given hours of loyal service to the chapter since World War 2 as a member of the Motor Service, she has also served as a member of the board of directors and been active in volunteer work in numerous fields.

Peron Pushes Drive on Opponents

Roundup Is Ordered Of All Rumormongers

Buenos Aires, June 23 (AP)—Backed by new pledges of military and political support, President Juan Peron pushed a dual campaign today against those who tried to overthrow him in last week's bloody revolt and persons spreading rumors of upsets still to come.

To counter one persistent rumor that Army Minister Franklin Lucero had supplanted Peron as Argentina's strong man, a government spokesman predicted last night that the President soon would end Lucero's special post-revolt powers as temporary chieftain of all armed services.

GEN. LUCERO himself in a broadcast last night saluted Peron as "the president of the nation and commander in chief of all the armed forces." The general called on the troops to "obey loyally and permanently the mandate of the sovereign people."

Statements pledging loyalty to Peron were issued yesterday by the six-million-member General Labor Confedration (CGT), the president's chief political bulwark, and by both the men's and women's Peronista parties.

The roundup of rumor mongers followed repeated statements by Luvera that numerous false reports were circulating and should be ignored.

Federal police announced 14 persons were arrested for spreading untruths in Buenos Aires province, which surrounds the capital city but does not include it.

THE PRO-GOVERNMENT newspaper La Epoca reported at least six arrests in the capital, one of them turned over to police by a taxi driver and another by a barber.

Saugerties Votes Centralization

Centralization was carried by 83 votes when the final vote was tabulated about midnight at Saugerties High School where the vote from 13 districts of the town of Saugerties was reported. The ballots showed 1,578 votes cast in favor of centralization and 1,495 votes against. There were 44 void ballots and one blank.

The 13 districts voting at SHS cast a total of 2,454 votes. The outlying districts cast 664 as follows: Katsban 78, Cedar Grove 49, West Saugerties 106, West Camp 91, Flatbush 115, Blue Mountain 102, Quarryville 60 and Saxton 63.

ALL OF THE districts had reported in at 10:30 o'clock following the closing of the polls at 10 p. m. and the count was completed shortly after midnight.

Robert N. Coughlin of the Bureau of Rural Administrative Services supervised the election for the State Education Department.

Two voters cast ballots marked both in favor and in opposition and there were numerous ballots which were declared void because the voter used a pen instead of pencil. There was only one blank.

Harriman Blocks Firing State Workers Over 70

Albany, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—Gov. Harriman has blocked the Public Works Department's plan to fire employes aged 70 and over who lack job protection under the law.

Harriman yesterday directed Superintendent John W. Johnson to suspend the proposed policy pending further study, "including the human factors involved in connection with the over-age employes."

Johnson, who was in Massena yesterday, said he had complied with the governor's instruction.

The firing edict was disclosed Tuesday. It would not have affected war veterans or exempt volunteer firemen, whose jobs are protected. Harriman said he had learned of it that afternoon.

The department said employes who would have been involved had been kept on the payroll because they did not have civil service retirement benefits. The department felt, the spokesman said, that now that they were eligible for social security payments they should be released.

Thruway Shows Excellent Safety Record

Tolls Over $7 Million, Road Is Boon to Industry

Albany, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—The state thruway will complete its first year of toll operations tomorrow with an estimated $7,050,000 in the revenue coffers.

The Thruway Authority said today the year had shown "a healthy and continuing rise in revenues and an excellent safety record."

Bertram D. Tallamy, the authority chairman, asserted that there was "substantial evidence" that the cross-state expressway had speeded growth of industry along the route.

HE SAW the thruway as "a major factor in the development of more than $150,000 worth of new and expanded factories, truck terminals, warehouses and similar enterprises." These businesses, he said, employed about 30,000 persons with an annual payroll of more than 100 million dollars.

The first stretch of the thruway, a 115-mile section between Rochester and Utica, was opened to toll traffic last June 24. The expressway now is open for 395 continuous miles, from Buffalo to Hillburn, near the New Jersey state line.

IN A REPORT summarizing the first year of toll operations, the authority estimated that toll revenue would amount to $7,050,000. The number of vehicle trips for the first year was placed at 8,700,000 and the number of miles logged on the highway at 522,000,000.

The authority reported also that the superhighway's fatality rate stood at 2.78 per 100 million miles of travel. This, it said, made the thruway "one of the world's safest roads."

THE SOUTHERNMOST terminus of the thruway will be extended one mile to Suffern by July 4, the authority said. Sometime this fall, the agency said, "probably in October," the road will be extended further across Rockland county, across the Tarrytown-Nyack bridge on the Hudson and into Westchester county.

The final stretch of the main route, into New York city, is slated for completion early in 1956. The New York-Buffalo route will run 427 miles.

Meanwhile, the authority reported, construction is progressing on the Niagara, Erie and New England sections of the thruway. It said construction of the Berkshire section, from a point south of Albany to the Massachusetts state line, would begin early next year.

Four Steel Girders Set On West Bridge Approach

Four heavy steel girders are now in place on the west-side approach of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, and two more girders, larger than the others have arrived, engineers said today.

Work was due to continue this week on the erection of a traveling derrick to haul the steel units in place, and construction is expected to move along faster when it is ready for full operation, probably next week.

The two larger girders which recently arrived in the north yard of the West Shore Railroad are 127 feet long. The four in place were 101 feet long. It took two flat cars each to ship the first four, and those which recently arrived required three cars each.

Work is progressing toward completion of final land-pier work on the west side, and is now well under way on the east side piers as well as on all piers in the river.

AMONG THOSE present, Sabin drew support only from Dr. John F. Enders of the Children's Hospital, Boston.

Among those voting to keep the program going was Dr. James A. Shannon, associate director of the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., and Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., of the School of Public Health of the University of Michigan, one of the leading forces in getting the Salk vaccine program underway.

DR. JONAS E. SALK, developer of the vaccine, elected not to vote. He said he regarded himself as an investigator and did not wish to get involved in the round table vote which was asked by Rep. Wolverton (R.-N.J.).

Dr. Sabin expressed the view yesterday that inoculations

Rhee Warns Of Aggression

Seoul, June 23 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today "the Chinese and North Korean Communists are making all-out preparations for another aggression like the one in June, 1950."

The 80-year-old president of South Korea gave his warning just two days before the fifth anniversary of the Korean war's outbreak in a budget message to the National Assembly.

Rhee asked the United States for more military and economic aid to "deter another aggression from the north."

Stair Firm Buys Shokan Property

Fred Vanacore, president of Long Island Stair Builders, Inc., has purchased a tract of land at Shokan and expects to begin manufacturing operations there in September or October.

The property, containing over 27 acres with dwelling house and workshops, was transferred by Neil R. Windrum and Ellen D. Windrum, his wife, to Fred Vanacore and Agnes Vanacore, his wife, by deed filed with the Ulster county clerk. Prior to its sale to Windrum last year, the property was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Dibbell.

Clifford C. Little of Kingston was the real estate broker handling the transaction. Legal matters were handled by Attorney Lloyd R. LeFever.

Vanacore, whose firm manufactures wooden stairs, became acquainted with this area when he was named supplier for one of the housing developments here. He said operations here will begin sometime in September or October, but he was unable to give the exact date at this time. The number of persons to be employed here was not given.

Approval Is Asked For New Bridge South of Albany

The New York State Thruway Authority has applied for Department of the Army approval of a bridge to be constructed across the Hudson river about 10 miles south of Albany, it was announced today.

The proposed bridge would cross the river about 400 feet upstream from and parallel to the existing New York Central Railroad bridge in the vicinity of Castleton in the counties of Albany and Rensselaer about 135 miles above the mouth of the river.

THE APPLICANT proposes to construct a fixed highway bridge providing at least vertical clear-

New Army Chief Outlines Program During Welcome

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, arriving in Washington to become the new army chief of staff, was greeted ceremoniously today by top level officials of the army. Outgoing Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and outgoing Chief of Staff Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway were included.

Taylor told newsmen the problems with which he expected to deal included determination of the "proper role and contribution of the army" to national defense.

TAYLOR SAID he just heard by radio while flying here this morning of the resignation of Stevens and the nomination of Wilbur M. Bruckner to succeed him.

He said he regretted the departure of "my old and respected friend" Ridgway. He also said that "I regret the departure of Mr. Bob Stevens, my friend, but welcome the opportunity of working with Mr. Bruckner."

Taylor said "I had a lump in my throat on leaving Japan and Korea, particularly Korea" where he served in combat with his troops. He said that Japan "requires our most careful consideration" in the plans for the Far East.

IN THE WELCOMING group at the airport were Ambassador Iguchi of Japan and the American ambassador to Korea, Ellis O. Briggs.

The army turned out a full-dress ceremonial reception for the arrival of the new chief.

A 17-gun salute from a battery, the traditional "ruffles and flourishes" of the army band and snappy salutes greeted Taylor after he descended from the big, four-engined air force plane which brought him here. He made an inspection of the honor guard, stopping once to speak to a soldier he may have recognized.

Taylor came here from his former command in the Far East over a 16,000-mile route which took him through the Middle East and Spain.

HE SAID he conferred with many American officials and government representatives of the countries through which he

Remarks Jolt UN to Reality

San Francisco, June 23 (AP)—Western diplomats said privately today that Russia's V. M. Molotov may have dealt an unintentional blow to his own peace offensive by raising anew all the major cold war issues.

Some small countries were plainly disappointed, but one western diplomat expressed the belief that the UN's anniversary meeting needed something like Molotov's speech yesterday to jolt it back to reality.

OF THE 30 delegates who have addressed the meeting, most had voiced optimism that the end of the cold war might be in sight at last. While all agreed that tension certainly has diminished, a few western leaders felt that some were hoping for too much.

As the session opened its fourth day, there still was little public comment on the Soviet foreign minister's speech.

French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay was second on today's list of speakers, but there was no indication whether he would comment on Molotov's challenge to the west to make the next move.

IT WAS ALMOST certain, however, that Molotov would get a blast from Nationalist China's Foreign Minister George Yeh on his demands that Red China be seated in the UN and that Formosa be handed over to the Peiping regime. Yeh was to speak late in the day.

Among the first to comment was Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, who said:

"The entire tone was conciliatory and the speech is certainly worthy of the west's attention."

OTHERS SAID privately, however, they felt Molotov would have been much more effective if he had stuck to his peace bid and omitted any reference to controversial issues. They also felt he made a mistake in blaming the west for the cold war.

Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines said Molotov's speech was "the same old broken record." He said he thought Molotov had violated the rules of the anniversary session by raising controversial questions and criticizing other nations.

SECRETARY of State John Foster Dulles said:

"I will save my reactions to Mr. Molotov's speech for my own talk on Friday."

In the midst of all this, the news reached San Francisco that Indian Prime Minister Nehru and Soviet Premier Bulganin had issued a joint declaration calling for the peaceful surrender of Formosa to the Communists.

The declaration also urged the seating of Communist China in the UN and the banning of "production, experimentation and use of nuclear and thermonuclear weapons of war."

ALL THESE are among the cold war demands which Russia

Directors Are Elected At Red Cross Meeting

Certificates of appreciation were awarded to three workers and new directors were elected during the annual meeting of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, Wednesday night at the Fair Street Reformed Church.

The certificates were given to Mrs. Gerard W. Betz, Mrs. Fred W. Schwenk and Frederick Hoffman. These certificates are awards which may be given volunteer workers in appreciation of service.

ELECTED TO serve as directors were Edward C. Craig, Mrs. Milton Friedman, James H. Fraser, Mrs. Ralph D. Harper, Richard Roth and Mrs. Lester E. Sanford.

Election of new Chapter officers is scheduled to take place during a meeting of the board of directors Monday night, it was announced.

REPORTS of the officers were received and Treasurer Oscar J. Lawatsch reported receipts in the recent fund campaign to date were over $25,000. Some districts have not as yet completed their report.

Mrs. Betz has served the chapter as a member of the Home Service Committee for approximately 12 years, as Home Service Chairman since July 1952, as a member of the board of directors since July 1952 and as a member of the executive committee from July 1952 through June 1953.

Mrs. Schwenk has given hours of loyal service to the chapter since World War 2 as a member of the Motor Service, she has also served as a member of the board of directors and been active in volunteer work in numerous fields.

THE AWARDS to Mrs. Betz and Mrs. Schwenk were present-

Harriman Blocks Firing State Workers Over 70

Albany, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—Gov. Harriman has blocked the Public Works Department's plan to fire employes aged 70 and over who lack job protection under the law.

Harriman yesterday directed Superintendent John W. Johnson to suspend the proposed policy pending further study, "including the human factors involved in connection with the over-age employes."

Johnson, who was in Massena yesterday, said he had complied with the governor's instruction.

The firing edict was disclosed Tuesday. It would not have affected war veterans or exempt volunteer firemen, whose jobs are protected. Harriman said he had learned of it that afternoon.

The department said employes who would have been involved had been kept on the payroll because they did not have civil service retirement benefits. The department felt, the spokesman said, that now that they were eligible for social security payments they should be released.

Thruway Shows Excellent Safety Record

Tolls Over $7 Million, Road Is Boon to Industry

Albany, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—The state thruway will complete its first year of toll operations tomorrow with an estimated $7,050,000 in the revenue coffers.

The Thruway Authority said today the year had shown "a healthy and continuing rise in revenues and an excellent safety record."

Bertram D. Tallamy, the authority chairman, asserted that there was "substantial evidence" that the cross-state expressway had speeded growth of industry along the route.

HE SAW the thruway as "a major factor in the development of more than $150,000 worth of new and expanded factories, truck terminals, warehouses and similar enterprises." These businesses, he said, employed about 30,000 persons with an annual payroll of more than 100 million dollars.

The first stretch of the thruway, a 115-mile section between Rochester and Utica, was opened to toll traffic last June 24. The expressway now is open for 395 continuous miles, from Buffalo to Hillburn, near the New Jersey state line.

IN A REPORT summarizing the first year of toll operations, the authority estimated that toll revenue would amount to $7,050,000. The number of vehicle trips for the first year was placed at 8,700,000 and the number of miles logged on the highway at 522,000,000.

The authority reported also that the superhighway's fatality rate stood at 2.78 per 100 million miles of travel. This, it said, made the thruway "one of the world's safest roads."

THE SOUTHERNMOST terminus of the thruway will be extended one mile to Suffern by July 4, the authority said. Sometime this fall, the agency said, "probably in October," the road will be extended further across Rockland county, across the Tarrytown-Nyack bridge on the Hudson and into Westchester county.

The final stretch of the main route, into New York city, is slated for completion early in 1956. The New York-Buffalo route will run 427 miles.

Meanwhile, the authority reported, construction is progressing on the Niagara, Erie and New England sections of the thruway. It said construction of the Berkshire section, from a point south of Albany to the Massachusetts state line, would begin early next year.

Peron Pushes Drive on Opponents

Roundup Is Ordered Of All Rumormongers

Buenos Aires, June 23 (AP)—Backed by new pledges of military and political support, President Juan Peron pushed a dual campaign today against those who tried to overthrow him in last week's bloody revolt and persons spreading rumors of upsets still to come.

To counter one persistent rumor that Army Minister Franklin Lucero had supplanted Peron as Argentina's strong man, a government spokesman predicted last night that the President soon would end Lucero's special post-revolt powers as temporary chieftain of all armed services.

GEN. LUCERO himself in a broadcast last night saluted Peron as "the president of the nation and commander in chief of all the armed forces." The general called on the troops to "obey loyally and permanently the mandate of the sovereign people."

Statements pledging loyalty to Peron were issued yesterday by the six-million-member General Labor Confedration (CGT), the president's chief political bulwark, and by both the men's and women's Peronista parties.

The roundup of rumor mongers followed repeated statements by Luvera that numerous false reports were circulating and should be ignored.

Federal police announced 14 persons were arrested for spreading untruths in Buenos Aires province, which surrounds the capital city but does not include it.

THE PRO-GOVERNMENT newspaper La Epoca reported at least six arrests in the capital, one of them turned over to police by a taxi driver and another by a barber.

Saugerties Votes Centralization

Centralization was carried by 83 votes when the final vote was tabulated about midnight at Saugerties High School where the vote from 13 districts of the town of Saugerties was reported. The ballots showed 1,578 votes cast in favor of centralization and 1,495 votes against. There were 44 void ballots and one blank.

The 13 districts voting at SHS cast a total of 2,454 votes. The outlying districts cast 664 as follows: Katsban 78, Cedar Grove 49, West Saugerties 106, West Camp 91, Flatbush 115, Blue Mountain 102, Quarryville 60 and Saxton 63.

ALL OF THE districts had reported in at 10:30 o'clock following the closing of the polls at 10 p. m. and the count was completed shortly after midnight.

Robert N. Coughlin of the Bureau of Rural Administrative Services supervised the election for the State Education Department.

Two voters cast ballots marked both in favor and in opposition and there were numerous ballots which were declared void because the voter used a pen instead of pencil. There was only one blank.

Four Steel Girders Set On West Bridge Approach

Four heavy steel girders are now in place on the west-side approach of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, and two more girders, larger than the others have arrived, engineers said today.

Work was due to continue this week on the erection of a traveling derrick to haul the steel units in place, and construction is expected to move along faster when it is ready for full operation, probably next week.

The two larger girders which recently arrived in the north yard of the West Shore Railroad are 127 feet long. The four in place were 101 feet long. It took two flat cars each to ship the first four, and those which recently arrived required three cars each.

Work is progressing toward completion of final land-pier work on the west side, and is now well under way on the east side piers as well as on all piers in the river.

Taxpayer Party Oppos Village Bond Issue

Saugerties, June 22—The Saugerties Taxpayers Association represented by Louis P. Francello, local attorney, voiced its opposition Monday night at a public hearing on the $60,000 bond issue for the purchase of heavy equipment and road building materials.

The hearing held before the Village Board of Trustees in the municipal building began at 8 p. m. Due to the hearing the regular meeting of the board was postponed until Tuesday night.

The bond issue was recommended in order to carry out a long range street improvement program in the village. The project was proposed by Commissioner of Public Works Roy S. Helsmoortel and received unanimous approval of the board members who passed a resolution asking for the bond issue.

Francello in his plea suggested that the village rent the needed equipment as it had in the past and also questioned whether the village had shelter for all the equipment the bond issue would purchase.

He further said that his objection to the bond issue is based on the unanimous opinion of members of the Saugerties Taxpayers Association at its last meeting.

At this point Mayor Arthur F. Simmons, who presided, asked for the names of the officers of the taxpayers group and also about the extent of the membership of the group.

The mayor indicated that in order to form an opinion as to the extent of the objections raised he would have to know approximately how many members Francello represented.

Francello listed the officers but said he could not accurately approximate the membership of the group.

Frank Short, former village trustee, also voiced his objection to the bond issue citing that it would be cheaper to rent equipment and he also questioned where the village would store the equipment from the elements of weather.

As no other objections were raised the hearing was closed.

In the absence of any outstanding objections at the hearing the original resolution adopted by the board of trustees will stand as approved.

Had serious objections been raised against the bond issue the hearing may have affected the decision of the board. However under the law the final decision stands with the board and no referendum is required.

The board members themselves requested the hearing in order that both sides of the question could be heard.

Execution of the bond issue will furnish the money needed to purchase a street sweeper, motor grader, crawler shovel and backhoe, a tandam roller and 15-ton lowbed trailer. The equipment will cost approximately $50,000 and the other ten thousand dollars is to be used for blacktop and other materials.

The bond issue must be paid off in a period of five years.

Initial plans for street improvement will include work on Jane street, West Bridge street and Lighthouse drive.

Avow Improved Loans to Farmers

Better service to farm families who use the credit services of the Farmers Home Administration is the agency's target for the 1956 fiscal year, F. A. Norman, Farmers Home Administration county supervisor, said today at his office, 54 John street.

Mr. Norman and Madeline Reis, office secretary, have returned from a two-day conference, attended by all New York State Farmers Home Administration personnel at Oquaga Lake, where policies for the coming year were discussed.

County office personnel were instructed to emphasize the following policies in the regular lending programs during the coming year: 1. Make and handle loans in such a manner that farmers can obtain the resources that will lead to better farming; 2. Make the kind of loans that will help farmers increase the efficiency of their farm operation, obtain greater yields per acre and get higher production per animal; 3. Give farmers the kind of service that will help them pay their debts and make a better living; 4. Base all loans on the fact that the Farmers Home Administration deals in necessary but not competitive credit, and that it will make no loan unless it is aimed at helping the farmer advance, as quickly as possible, to private credit.

No major change in the basic loan programs is contemplated, Mr. Norman said. The current loan services include the supervised production and subsistence loans and the farm ownership loans that help operators and owners of family-type farms develop balanced systems of farming. Credit services also include the new soil and water conservation loans and the various emergency loans.

Emphasis on use of insured loan funds will continue in 1956. With the use of these funds, the farm ownership and soil and water conservation loan programs should continue the expansion that began in the 1955 fiscal year.

CONDUCTING realistic year-end analyses of families' progress to help borrowers make full use of land, equipment, livestock, and farming skills is to be an important part of the county supervisors' work during the year. Other points discussed at the Oquaga Lake meeting included better work organization and employee training.

Mr. Norman also said that Congress has authorized the lending of $122,500,000 for operating purposes and $19,000,000 for the purchase, enlargement and improvement of farms under the Farm Ownership program. There is also $70,000,000 of insured loan money available to be used in making Farm Ownership and Soil and Water loans.

Loans can be approved soon after July 1, 1955, and applications may now be filed at the Farmers Home Administration office, 54 John street, by farmers living in Ulster, Sullivan, Greene and Dutchess counties.

U.N. STILL SYMBOL OF HOPE

In the great flush of emotion that attended the close of World War II, the United Nations, newly born, became the symbol of hope for a bright new world from which war would be banished.

After ten of the most turbulent peacetime years in modern history, the U.N. is still that symbol. But there is a more realistic understanding of its limitations.

The U.N. is above all a forum where men of many lands may discuss their problems with one another, and their differences.

Often it has been stressed that the agency gives them this chance to talk. But what is really important is not just that they can talk but that they want to talk in the U.N.

As Walter Lippman has pointed out, no nation has resigned from the U.N. and many more would join if they could. Only Russia boycotted it briefly, returning quickly when it saw the handicap of being on the outside.

The U.N., of course, is a propaganda sounding board for many countries, most particularly the Communist lands. But it is also a unique outlet for the complaints of small nations against big. And it is the living embodiment of man's desire that nations hereafter shall get along with each other, somehow, without resort to major war.

In the U.N. negotiations never cease. They may halt for a time, but they always can be resumed. No diplomat is handed his passport and ordered home from U.N. headquarters when talks break down. Diplomats from all member nations can take part in discussions, no matter what offenses may be charged against their countries.

It is not just an association of like-minded peoples, but of peoples of many political and religious faiths. In this very basic sense it is a universal organization.

Because it has remained universal through all the titanic struggles of the cold war, it continues to symbolize men's hopes for peace. The moment it comes to represent only non-Communist lands its universality ends and it becomes in effect a mere alliance.

Astute statesmen on both sides of the Iron Curtain want to keep it universal. Especially since the great advances in nuclear weapons, they feel the insistent pressures of ordinary folk the world over against any course that should plunge the globe into war again.

The U.N. is their meeting ground. They fear to abandon it. For to do so would be to admit failure when such an admission might spell doom for all civilization.

This is why the U.N. has endured through the tumultuous years 1945-1955. This is why it has survived the disillusionments and disappointments of those who saw it at the start as some sort of magic preserver of the peace.

It is not a peace enforcement agency, and as now constituted cannot be. For the U.N. has no enforcement army of its own, and any of five great powers may veto punitive action against itself or any lesser nation dependent upon it.

Realistically, we of the free nations do not count on the U.N. to safeguard peace. The NATO pact and all the related defensive arrangements in the Middle and Far East serve that objective.

But we, like our adversaries in Moscow and Peiping, understand that armies and alliances are not enough today, that men yearning for peace demand that their hopes be given brighter substance.

The United Nations provides that substance.

CONVERTIBILITY

The problem of money and its value has long plagued the human race. There is no universal montetary standard. It used to be, in what appears to us now the very distant past, that gold was acknowledged as the base to which most currencies were related. But the world went off gold and never got right again.

The British were the first among the great marketing nations to open a free market for gold. The operation is still small and is in a few hands led by Samuel Montagu & Co., Ltd., an old and highly respected banking house in London. It is too early to say that the British are ready to restore the gold standard, but they are prepared to establish some system of convertibility, that is, for a free and more stabilized conversion of one currency to another.

Most of the continental European countries are opposed to convertibility because they presently manipulate their currencies to give them an advantage in world markets. Their general contention is that if they lose that advantage, they will not be able to compete with American goods which are produced by mass production methods and therefore more cheaply in huge quantities.

Continental European countries are not ready for mass production because they lack a home market to sustain this method. They cannot dispose of immense quantities say of automobiles. Most of those countries have too low a standard of living for vast mass production enterprises. They cannot sell to their own markets. Many of them will never be able to meet American productivity and economically should not be. In fact, the past years of supported prices would indicate that our productive capacity is so great that it is rapidly overcoming our ability to consume. This is particularly true of agricultural commodities and is beginning to be felt in the automobile industry. The limitation upon European production is the consumer's market; the limitations upon American production have been the number of machines used, the access to raw materials, and the cost of capital.

As long as each country insists upon making products which they cannot sell by normal trading methods, the manipulation of currency by governments seems to the Europeans to be an economic necessity and they will therefore continue to oppose convertibility which is the first essential step toward economic stabilization. Both Great Britain and the United States favor convertibility in principle.

It has long been hoped that an economic union might be established in Western Europe with a population as large as that of the United States. The European Coal and Steel Community was the first step in that direction and under the leadership of Jean Monnet, it has managed to do better than was expected for it. If the same principles of operation could be established for other commodities and embracing more countries, the way would be clear for an Economic United States of Europe.

Obviously the reason why the United States and Soviet Russia are economically so effective is that they have a broad base. Domestically, they have established, each according to its own economic system, a vast area for the consumption of goods and the supply of raw materials without tariffs or other similar impediments. Most European countries are not in a position to do that. Even Great Britain has to import from abroad most of its raw materials and many of the continental European countries are lacking in basic supplies within their own borders. If there were a free market, many of them would be forced to return to agriculture and to small, household industries.

However, if they were united into one large economic unit, say with a population of 160,000,000, and embracing the whole of Western Europe, they would be able to improve their situation considerably. Europe has lived too long on the American hand-out and has become accustomed to it. Furthermore, most Europeans have come to regard the American hand-out as a method of dumping and therefore accept manipulated currency as a protective of their system. As we dump on them, they would like to dump on us. And the best way to do that is to keep prices down by manipulated currency and a low wage scale that gives the appearance of being adequate.

These are a few of the reasons for Western European opposition to convertibility of currency.

INFLAMMATION OF THE MIDDLE EAR

Middle ear infection—otitis media—is an inflammation of the inner side of the ear drum and of the eustachian tube which carries air from the throat to the middle ear. It may be caused by exposure to cold, blocking of the nose, water getting into the eustachian tube when swimming or spraying the nose. There is usually pain in the ear when opening the jaws, loss of hearing, noises or ringing in the ear. In acute attacks, the pus may come into the throat or break the eardrum. The pain is worse at night and in children the pain causes the child to hold his head and scream. The pain may spread also to the large bone behind the ear—mastoiditis.

In the treatment of otitis media we are given some useful information from the Ear, Nose and Throat Clinic of the University of Basel, Switzerland. Research workers there studied three periods of time in which three different methods of treatment were used. The first was 1937 to 1940, before the advent of the sulfa drugs. During this period they treated 602 patients with otitis media of whom 38.5 per cent were operated upon. Death resulted from ititis media or its complications in 17 cases.

The second time period was from 1941 to 1944 during which time 505 patients were treated by sulfonamides alone. 26.3 per cent were operated upon and death resulted in 4 cases.

During the third period, 1949 to 1952, the period during which penicillin was used, 24.9 per cent were operated upon with not a single death from otitis media or its complications.

It was concluded from these three four-year periods with the different types of treatment that the ideal early treatment of acute otitis media should be an adequate dose of penicillin (that is, from the beginning one million units for adults and a correspondingly lower dose for children) for a sufficient length of time, definitely longer than two or three days. It has been found that the disease has a much milder course so that fewer patients require hospitalization. The death rate in acute otitis media was reduced to practically zero. Consequently, treatment with penicillin or other antibiotics should be begun as soon as pssible.

It was further found that of 47 patients with mastoiditis who were admitted to the clinic between 1949 and 1952, 29 had to be operated upon. None of these 29 had been given sulfas or penicillin. In 16 of the remaining 18 patients, sulfonamide or penicillin treatment had been begun too late or not with enough dosage.

It is no so many years ago that what we called "mastoid" was fairly common. Now it is said that some medical students are never given an opportunity to see mastoiditis because it is so rare—thanks to our new wonder drugs.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—For the first time in ten years, cautious fears are being expressed that maybe too much new housing is being built, instead of not enough.

Federal Reserve Board's monthly "Bulletin" and the Department of Commerce "Business Survey" have just come out with long analyses.

There are no recommendations for cut-backs on new home building, nor for tightening credit terms. The facts are just laid out for anyone to read and weep over, if he feels so gloomily inclined.

This sentiment reflects much cautious banking opinion.

"No one is competent to say that the present spread between the formation of households at 600,000 a year and new private housing starts at the rate of 1,400,000 a year is a safe and sound margin," says Homer Livingston, President of American Bankers' Association.

The born optimists in the real estate and home building fields have no such fears about the housing boom collapsing. They are largely supported by government home finance agency heads.

"We regard a high level of housing activity in this country as a good thing," Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole told the Association of Mutual Savings Banks the other day. But he admits that he never had so many different expert opinions to choose from.

CUPID GETS ALL MIXED UP with the statistics. This comes from a declining U. S. marriage rate over the past ten years.

There were a record 2,291,000 marriages in 1946. The figure dropped to 1,991,000 in 1947 and 1,811,000 in 1948. It has been in the 1,600,000 to 1,500,000 bracket from 1949 to 1953. Last year it was down to 1,475,000.

The prospect is that the marriage rate will keep on declining till 1960. This is the result of the lowered birth rates in the depression years from 1930 to 1940.

Here some of the home builders step into the picture to say that it is all wrong to base new housing demand on new family formation rates.

James R. Price, president of National Homes, Corp., Lafayette, Ind., which plans to build 30,000 homes this year, points out that newlyweds are poor prospects as house purchasers. They aren't settled and they just don't have the money.

This is supported by a Federal Housing Administration survey of 6500 of its home-buying customers last March. It showed that the average couple buying their first house had been married 10 to 12 years and had several children.

THIS WOULD SUPPORT the theory that many families in the new house market now were couples who were married in the post-war years when marriage rates were at record highs.

The more liberal terms under which both FHA and Veterans' Administration guaranteed mortgages are now available have of course contributed greatly to this housing boom. Perhaps the terms of nothing down and 30 years to pay at 4½ to 5 per cent interest are too liberal, as the mortgage bankers say.

These terms have been tightened recently to the extent of requiring closing costs to be paid cash in advance. But Federal Reserve Board has no authority whatever to control housing credit.

The FHA interest rate can be raised by the Federal Housing Commissioners, but the VA interest rate is set by Congress.

Another factor in the charge that there is too much building today is tied to the vacancy rates. One of the big insurance companies recently estimated that five per cent of the housing units were vacant today. It predicted the vacancy rate might go to 10 per cent by 1960 if present building rates continue.

U. S. CENSUS BUREAU is making a sample survey on vacancies, which will be completed this month.

FHA field offices report a spotty vacancy rate. The remedy FHA suggests is local action—as in Dallas—to cut down on speculative building until the vacancy rate is lowered.

Molotov 'Peace' Talk Ignores Red Misdeeds

By DAVID LAWRENCE

San Francisco, June 22—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov must have been laughing up his sleeve as he played his grim joke on the United Nations Assembly here with a speech which, for deliberate disregard of what the Communist have been doing in the last ten years, has few parallels in brazenness and effrontery.

With an air of innocence that seems incredible, Molotov solemnly told the delegates that the military bases being constructed by the Western powers in Europe have "nothing to do with defense" and that this "can be deduced from the mere fact that they are to be found thousands of miles away from the countries constructing them."

HAS MOLOTOV never heard of the jet plane and the speed with which modern bombers travel nowadays? Does he really think anybody will believe his bland statement that, because the United States is helping to defend Western Europe, it is thereby planning to "attack" Soviet Russia? He speaks of military alliances being made in smaller countries in the Near and Middle East "against the will of their peoples" as if Soviet Russia ever really cared about the "will of the people" anywhere in its orbit.

Thus, the Soviet Foreign Minister considers NATO and all the other "military groupings" not to be defensive at all but to be of an "aggressive character"—which, he says, is "well known." In fact, he says that if the "propaganda for a new war" and the "armament race" should be intensified and if the "building of military bases designed not for defense but to attack other countries" should continue, then "international tensions would increase still more."

All through his speech Molotov implies that the United States and its Allies would be the "attacker" in another war, and he plaintively cries out that the "people throughout the world do not want another war."

Mr. Molotov must have chuckled to himself often as he frequently used the phrase "peace-loving countries." Even the war in Korea, he says, was "terminated on the initiative of the peace-loving countries" and all that remains is to unite Korea. Presumably this would be done under a puppet government, which he thinks will establish "national unity in accordance with the will of the Korean people."

But Molotov has a convenient lack of memory. Only a year or so ago, he and the Chinese Reds at the Geneva Conference were, in public speeches, refusing to accept United Nations auspices as a means of unifying Korea through free elections. The Soviet leader knows that many of his listeners have short memories, too, and that words uttered today often mistakenly given a meaning without the background of yesterday.

Molotov had the nerve to refer to the Indochina fiasco at Geneva last year as a great success, becuse the settlement "conforms to the aspirations for national-liberation of the peoples living in that part of the world." But he ignores the daily news dispatches from North Viet Nam, where Communist colonialism has imposed a new tyranny.

EVEN YUGOSLAVIAN relations with Soviet Russia came in for the sugar-coated treatment by Molotov, though here he found it necessary to denounce the "groundless inventions circulated in the West to distort the meaning and belittle the significance of the Belgrade talks and of their results."

Nothing is omitted in Molotov's review to make up a picture of a peace-loving Communist partnership in Moscow and Peiping. Growing praise is given Mr. Nehru's visit to Moscow, and emphasis is placed on the Soviet plan to "normalize" relations with Germany and Japan.

The Soviet Foreign Minister even dares to say that "all the United Nations" have recognized the principle of the "enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all, irrespective of race, sex, language or religion." But maybe the word "recognized" is a free translation from the original Russian, as Molotov probably meant that all the nations had signed the charter—but this doesn't mean, of course, they live up to what they sign.

MOTOTOV, PAST MASTER of deception, doesn't hesitate to denounce the other powers, declaring that "those who pay lip service to the principle of peaceful co-existence sometimes tend to violate that principle flagrantly in practice." Then he proceeds boldly to argue about the "indisputable rights" of Red China to a seat in the United Nations and says the "situation is obviously unjust and unlawful."

NOT a word does Molotov utter about the formal resolution of the United Nations which in 1951 declared Red China an "aggressor," nor does he take into account that hundreds of thousands of persons were killed in that aggression by the Communists.

THEN MR. MOLOTOV comes up with the crowning insult of all. He says that "what we are all interested in today is not merely that certain principles be recognized or proclaimed but that concrete action be taken to serve the cause of maintaining and cementing international peace and security."

Maybe Molotov has been reading the speeches of President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles and other Allied statesmen, for the Soviet spokesman says, "All this means that we should pass from words to deeds and embark upon such steps as would lead to the establishment of the necessary trust among nations."

Mr. Molotov ignores completely past misdeeds and the continuance of Communist oppression in the satellite states as well as the attempts at subversion in France, Italy and other countries of the West. Foreign Secretary Macmillan of Great Britain an hour later was making a speech at another gathering declaring that Malaya was "one part of the world where subversion is being promoted by open violence—amounting to war." He blamed the Communists for the armed terrorism there.

All Molotov says he wants is the disarmament of the Western powers, the dismantling of their military bases and the withdrawal of Allied troops from Germany. This would be one of the "deeds" that he thinks would establish "the necessary trust." Mr. Molotov was even willing to make a concession—all countries could keep "the right to resort to those (atomic) weapons for purposes of defense against aggression" —but only "in exceptional cases" and "by decision of the Security Council," where the Soviets have the veto. How naive does Molotov think the Western statesmen are?

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Although Franklin D. Roosevelt professed to hate the rich, he had much traffic with them both in his youth and in the time of his long presidency. He called them, with bitter malice, "economic royalists" as his wife's Uncle Theodore had called them "malefactors of great wealth." Possibly Franklin did not invent the phrase "economic royalists" because he was a shameless plagiarist as shown in his cribbing of a very good article about the old Mauretania. But Theodore did have a knack for imagery and abusive combination of words.

Driven by curiosity and a desire to fill in another chink in history, I ventured to ask Vincent Astor some questions about F. D. Roosevelt's use of Astor's yacht, "Nourmahal," one of the most luxurious private cruising vessels in the world. The Astors had been economic royalists in a much more literal sense than most of the newly rich Americans of the period. They had run with royalty in Britain for many decades, had, in some cases, married Britons little below the rank of royalty, and had shown a preference for English aristocracy. As to Vincent, personally, this preference was less marked and his "Americanism" has been above reproach. Nevertheless, up to the time of Roosevelt's first term, he had been regarded as a member of the Republican element in our economic and social life.

So I wrote Mr. Astor to ask a number of questions about Roosevelt's use of "Nourmahal" and I have had an answer, which belongs, I think, among the footnotes of history.

"I do not want to impede the progress of any legitimate inquiry for purposes of journalism," said he. "However, I am sure you realize that some of the questions you ask verge on the personal. You are known as a zealous defender of the rights of individuals to resist scrutiny of any kind. Therefore, I feel that you will understand when I say that some of your questions, particularly as to motives and politics, do not seem a subject for legitimate inquiry. Your question as to whether any compensation was received in connection with the President's visits to 'Nourmahal' falls in a different category. I am glad to tell you that of course no compensation ever was received from Mr. Roosevelt or from the government.

"It also may be helpful to you to know that some of the questions you raise deal with matters of public knowledge. Mr. Roosevelt's half-brother was my uncle and we were neighbors in Dutchess county. I knew Mr. Roosevelt from my earliest boyhood days and until his death, regarded him as a close and loyal friend. I was always glad when my old friend was able to cruise aboard 'Nourmahal' as guest. We was treated in the same manner as was any other guest, except for certain precautionary measures imposed by his high office. Naturally I was proud to have the 'Nourmahal' fly the standard of the commander-in-chief in the same sense that I was proud, during the war, to have the privilege of wearing the uniform of the United States Navy."

With appropriate respect, I have to disagree with some points in this letter. I am not a defender of "the rights of individuals to resist scrutiny of any kind." I hold that the conduct of a President of the United States, before, during and after his presidency, deserves scrutiny. It follows, then, I submit, that if a very rich man of Republican

The problem of money and its value has long plagued the human race. There is no universal montetary standard. It used to be, in what appears to us now the very distant past, that gold was acknowledged as the base to which most currencies were related. But the world went off gold and never got right again.

The British were the first among the great marketing nations to open a free market for gold. The operation is still small and is in a few hands led by Samuel Montagu & Co., Ltd., an old and highly respected banking house in London. It is too early to say that the British are ready to restore the gold standard, but they are prepared to establish some system of convertibility, that is, for a free and more stabilized conversion of one currency to another.

Most of the continental European countries are opposed to convertibility because they presently manipulate their currencies to give them an advantage in world markets. Their general contention is that if they lose that advantage, they will not be able to compete with American goods which are produced by mass production methods and therefore more cheaply in huge quantities.

Continental European countries are not ready for mass production because they lack a home market to sustain this method. They cannot dispose of immense quantities say of automobiles. Most of those countries have too low a standard of living for vast mass production enterprises. They cannot sell to their own markets. Many of them will never be able to meet American productivity and economically should not be. In fact, the past years of supported prices would indicate that our productive capacity is so great that it is rapidly overcoming our ability to consume. This is particularly true of agricultural commodities and is beginning to be felt in the automobile industry. The limitation upon European production is the consumer's market; the limitations upon American production have been the number of machines used, the access to raw materials, and the cost of capital.

As long as each country insists upon making products which they cannot sell by normal trading methods, the manipulation of currency by governments seems to the Europeans to be an economic necessity and they will therefore continue to oppose convertibility which is the first essential step toward economic stabilization. Both Great Britain and the United States favor convertibility in principle.

It has long been hoped that an economic union might be established in Western Europe with a population as large as that of the United States. The European Coal and Steel Community was the first step in that direction and under the leadership of Jean Monnet, it has managed to do better than was expected for it. If the same principles of operation could be established for other commodities and embracing more countries, the way would be clear for an Economic United States of Europe.

Obviously the reason why the United States and Soviet Russia are economically so effective is that they have a broad base. Domestically, they have established, each according to its own economic system, a vast area for the consumption of goods and the supply of raw materials without tariffs or other similar impediments. Most European countries are not in a position to do that. Even Great Britain has to import from abroad most of its raw materials and many of the continental European countries are lacking in basic supplies within their own borders. If there were a free market, many of them would be forced to return to agriculture and to small, household industries.

However, if they were united into one large economic unit, say with a population of 160,000,000, and embracing the whole of Western Europe, they would be able to improve their situation considerably. Europe has lived too long on the American hand-out and has become accustomed to it. Furthermore, most Europeans have come to regard the American hand-out as a method of dumping and therefore accept manipulated currency as a protective of their system. As we dump on them, they would like to dump on us. And the best way to do that is to keep prices down by manipulated currency and a low wage scale that gives the appearance of being adequate.

These are a few of the reasons for Western European opposition to convertibility of currency.

INFLAMMATION OF THE MIDDLE EAR

Middle ear infection—otitis media—is an inflammation of the inner side of the ear drum and of the eustachian tube which carries air from the throat to the middle ear. It may be caused by exposure to cold, blocking of the nose, water getting into the eustachian tube when swimming or spraying the nose. There is usually pain in the ear when opening the jaws, loss of hearing, noises or ringing in the ear. In acute attacks, the pus may come into the throat or break the eardrum. The pain is worse at night and in children the pain causes the child to hold his head and scream. The pain may spread also to the large bone behind the ear—mastoiditis.

In the treatment of otitis media we are given some useful information from the Ear, Nose and Throat Clinic of the University of Basel, Switzerland. Research workers there studied three periods of time in which three different methods of treatment were used. The first was 1937 to 1940, before the advent of the sulfa drugs. During this period they treated 602 patients with otitis media of whom 38.5 per cent were operated upon. Death resulted from ititis media or its complications in 17 cases.

The second time period was from 1941 to 1944 during which time 505 patients were treated by sulfonamides alone. 26.3 per cent were operated upon and death resulted in 4 cases.

During the third period, 1949 to 1952, the period during which penicillin was used, 24.9 per cent were operated upon with not a single death from otitis media or its complications.

It was concluded from these three four-year periods with the different types of treatment that the ideal early treatment of acute otitis media should be an adequate dose of penicillin (that is, from the beginning one million units for adults and a correspondingly lower dose for children) for a sufficient length of time, definitely longer than two or three days. It has been found that the disease has a much milder course so that fewer patients require hospitalization. The death rate in acute otitis media was reduced to practically zero. Consequently, treatment with penicillin or other antibiotics should be begun as soon as pssible.

It was further found that of 47 patients with mastoiditis who were admitted to the clinic between 1949 and 1952, 29 had to be operated upon. None of these 29 had been given sulfas or penicillin. In 16 of the remaining 18 patients, sulfonamide or penicillin treatment had been begun too late or not with enough dosage.

It is no so many years ago that what we called "mastoid" was fairly common. Now it is said that some medical students are never given an opportunity to see mastoiditis because it is so rare—thanks to our new wonder drugs.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—For the first time in ten years, cautious fears are being expressed that maybe too much new housing is being built, instead of not enough.

Federal Reserve Board's monthly "Bulletin" and the Department of Commerce "Business Survey" have just come out with long analyses.

There are no recommendations for cut-backs on new home building, nor for tightening credit terms. The facts are just laid out for anyone to read and weep over, if he feels so gloomily inclined.

This sentiment reflects much cautious banking opinion.

"No one is competent to say that the present spread between the formation of households at 600,000 a year and new private housing starts at the rate of 1,400,000 a year is a safe and sound margin," says Homer Livingston, President of American Bankers' Association.

The born optimists in the real estate and home building fields have no such fears about the housing boom collapsing. They are largely supported by government home finance agency heads.

"We regard a high level of housing activity in this country as a good thing," Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole told the Association of Mutual Savings Banks the other day. But he admits that he never had so many different expert opinions to choose from.

CUPID GETS ALL MIXED UP with the statistics. This comes from a declining U. S. marriage rate over the past ten years.

There were a record 2,291,000 marriages in 1946. The figure dropped to 1,991,000 in 1947 and 1,811,000 in 1948. It has been in the 1,600,000 to 1,500,000 bracket from 1949 to 1953. Last year it was down to 1,475,000.

The prospect is that the marriage rate will keep on declining till 1960. This is the result of the lowered birth rates in the depression years from 1930 to 1940.

Here some of the home builders step into the picture to say that it is all wrong to base new housing demand on new family formation rates.

James R. Price, president of National Homes, Corp., Lafayette, Ind., which plans to build 30,000 homes this year, points out that newlyweds are poor prospects as house purchasers. They aren't settled and they just don't have the money.

This is supported by a Federal Housing Administration survey of 6500 of its home-buying customers last March. It showed that the average couple buying their first house had been married 10 to 12 years and had several children.

THIS WOULD SUPPORT the theory that many families in the new house market now were couples who were married in the post-war years when marriage rates were at record highs.

The more liberal terms under which both FHA and Veterans' Administration guaranteed mortgages are now available have of course contributed greatly to this housing boom. Perhaps the terms of nothing down and 30 years to pay at 4½ to 5 per cent interest are too liberal, as the mortgage bankers say.

These terms have been tightened recently to the extent of requiring closing costs to be paid cash in advance. But Federal Reserve Board has no authority whatever to control housing credit.

The FHA interest rate can be raised by the Federal Housing Commissioners, but the VA interest rate is set by Congress.

Another factor in the charge that there is too much building today is tied to the vacancy rates. One of the big insurance companies recently estimated that five per cent of the housing units were vacant today. It predicted the vacancy rate might go to 10 per cent by 1960 if present building rates continue.

U. S. CENSUS BUREAU is making a sample survey on vacancies, which will be completed this month.

FHA field offices report a spotty vacancy rate. The remedy FHA suggests is local action—as in Dallas—to cut down on speculative building until the vacancy rate is lowered.

Molotov 'Peace' Talk Ignores Red Misdeeds

By DAVID LAWRENCE

San Francisco, June 22—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov must have been laughing up his sleeve as he played his grim joke on the United Nations Assembly here with a speech which, for deliberate disregard of what the Communist have been doing in the last ten years, has few parallels in brazenness and effrontery.

With an air of innocence that seems incredible, Molotov solemnly told the delegates that the military bases being constructed by the Western powers in Europe have "nothing to do with defense" and that this "can be deduced from the mere fact that they are to be found thousands of miles away from the countries constructing them."

HAS MOLOTOV never heard of the jet plane and the speed with which modern bombers travel nowadays? Does he really think anybody will believe his bland statement that, because the United States is helping to defend Western Europe, it is thereby planning to "attack" Soviet Russia? He speaks of military alliances being made in smaller countries in the Near and Middle East "against the will of their peoples" as if Soviet Russia ever really cared about the "will of the people" anywhere in its orbit.

Thus, the Soviet Foreign Minister considers NATO and all the other "military groupings" not to be defensive at all but to be of an "aggressive character"—which, he says, is "well known." In fact, he says that if the "propaganda for a new war" and the "armament race" should be intensified and if the "building of military bases designed not for defense but to attack other countries" should continue, then "international tensions would increase still more."

All through his speech Molotov implies that the United States and its Allies would be the "attacker" in another war, and he plaintively cries out that the "people throughout the world do not want another war."

Mr. Molotov must have chuckled to himself often as he frequently used the phrase "peace-loving countries." Even the war in Korea, he says, was "terminated on the initiative of the peace-loving countries" and all that remains is to unite Korea. Presumably this would be done under a puppet government, which he thinks will establish "national unity in accordance with the will of the Korean people."

But Molotov has a convenient lack of memory. Only a year or so ago, he and the Chinese Reds at the Geneva Conference were, in public speeches, refusing to accept United Nations auspices as a means of unifying Korea through free elections. The Soviet leader knows that many of his listeners have short memories, too, and that words uttered today often mistakenly given a meaning without the background of yesterday.

Molotov had the nerve to refer to the Indochina fiasco at Geneva last year as a great success, becuse the settlement "conforms to the aspirations for national-liberation of the peoples living in that part of the world." But he ignores the daily news dispatches from North Viet Nam, where Communist colonialism has imposed a new tyranny.

EVEN YUGOSLAVIAN relations with Soviet Russia came in for the sugar-coated treatment by Molotov, though here he found it necessary to denounce the "groundless inventions circulated in the West to distort the meaning and belittle the significance of the Belgrade talks and of their results."

Nothing is omitted in Molotov's review to make up a picture of a peace-loving Communist partnership in Moscow and Peiping. Growing praise is given Mr. Nehru's visit to Moscow, and emphasis is placed on the Soviet plan to "normalize" relations with Germany and Japan.

The Soviet Foreign Minister even dares to say that "all the United Nations" have recognized the principle of the "enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all, irrespective of race, sex, language or religion." But maybe the word "recognized" is a free translation from the original Russian, as Molotov probably meant that all the nations had signed the charter—but this doesn't mean, of course, they live up to what they sign.

MOTOTOV, PAST MASTER of deception, doesn't hesitate to denounce the other powers, declaring that "those who pay lip service to the principle of peaceful co-existence sometimes tend to violate that principle flagrantly in practice." Then he proceeds boldly to argue about the "indisputable rights" of Red China to a seat in the United Nations and says the "situation is obviously unjust and unlawful."

NOT a word does Molotov utter about the formal resolution of the United Nations which in 1951 declared Red China an "aggressor," nor does he take into account that hundreds of thousands of persons were killed in that aggression by the Communists.

THEN MR. MOLOTOV comes up with the crowning insult of all. He says that "what we are all interested in today is not merely that certain principles be recognized or proclaimed but that concrete action be taken to serve the cause of maintaining and cementing international peace and security."

Maybe Molotov has been reading the speeches of President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles and other Allied statesmen, for the Soviet spokesman says, "All this means that we should pass from words to deeds and embark upon such steps as would lead to the establishment of the necessary trust among nations."

Mr. Molotov ignores completely past misdeeds and the continuance of Communist oppression in the satellite states as well as the attempts at subversion in France, Italy and other countries of the West. Foreign Secretary Macmillan of Great Britain an hour later was making a speech at another gathering declaring that Malaya was "one part of the world where subversion is being promoted by open violence—amounting to war." He blamed the Communists for the armed terrorism there.

All Molotov says he wants is the disarmament of the Western powers, the dismantling of their military bases and the withdrawal of Allied troops from Germany. This would be one of the "deeds" that he thinks would establish "the necessary trust." Mr. Molotov was even willing to make a concession—all countries could keep "the right to resort to those (atomic) weapons for purposes of defense against aggression"—but only "in exceptional cases" and "by decision of the Security Council," where the Soviets have the veto. How naive does Molotov think the Western statesmen are?

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Although Franklin D. Roosevelt professed to hate the rich, he had much traffic with them both in his youth and in the time of his long presidency. He called them, with bitter malice, "economic royalists" as his wife's Uncle Theodore had called them "malefactors of great wealth." Possibly Franklin did not invent the phrase "economic royalists" because he was a shameless plagiarist as shown in his cribbing of a very good article about the old Mauretania. But Theodore did have a knack for imagery and abusive combination of words.

Driven by curiosity and a desire to fill in another chink in history, I ventured to ask Vincent Astor some questions about F. D. Roosevelt's use of Astor's yacht, "Nourmahal," one of the most luxurious private cruising vessels in the world. The Astors had been economic royalists in a much more literal sense than most of the newly rich Americans of the period. They had run with royalty in Britain for many decades, had, in some cases, married Britons little below the rank of royalty, and had shown a preference for English aristocracy. As to Vincent, personally, this preference was less marked and his "Americanism" has been above reproach. Nevertheless, up to the time of Roosevelt's first term, he had been regarded as a member of the Republican element in our economic and social life.

So I wrote Mr. Astor to ask a number of questions about Roosevelt's use of "Nourmahal" and I have had an answer, which belongs, I think, among the footnotes of history.

"I do not want to impede the progress of any legitimate inquiry for purposes of journalism," said he. "However, I am sure you realize that some of the questions you ask verge on the personal. You are known as a zealous defender of the rights of individuals to resist scrutiny of any kind. Therefore, I feel that you will understand when I say that some of your questions, particularly as to motives and politics, do not seem a subject for legitimate inquiry. Your question as to whether any compensation was received in connection with the President's visits to 'Nourmahal' falls in a different category. I am glad to tell you that of course no compensation ever was received from Mr. Roosevelt or from the government.

"It also may be helpful to you to know that some of the questions you raise deal with matters of public knowledge. Mr. Roosevelt's half-brother was my uncle and we were neighbors in Dutchess county. I knew Mr. Roosevelt from my earliest boyhood days and until his death, regarded him as a close and loyal friend. I was always glad when my old friend was able to cruise aboard 'Nourmahal' as guest. We was treated in the same manner as was any other guest, except for certain precautionary measures imposed by his high office. Naturally I was proud to have the 'Nourmahal' fly the standard of the commander-in-chief in the same sense that I was proud, during the war, to have the privilege of wearing the uniform of the United States Navy."

With appropriate respect, I have to disagree with some points in this letter. I am not a defender of "the rights of individuals to resist scrutiny of any kind." I hold that the conduct of a President of the United States, before, during and after his presidency, deserves scrutiny. It follows, then, I submit, that if a very rich man of Republican aspect confers favors of substantial cash value on a Democratic President who is notoriously tight-fisted and is gunning for "economic royalists," it is permissible to inquire whether the rich man had any interests which might have been jeopardized by ill-will of that President. There are many examples of companies which tried to propitiate Roosevelt by financial favors to members of his family.

Meaning no insinuation, therefore, I do insist that it is fair to inquire whether Mr. Astor had any hidden motive. However, without knowledge of any questionable situation, we simply must accept his decisions to say nothing.

I would like to know what the payroll of this ship was and the cost of "finding" her when Roosevelt was flying his flag aboard her. Did Astor ever lend the whole layout to anyone else? Numerous questions flow from this line of curiosity which I deem reasonable.

I have read in a book called "The Astors," by Harvey O'Connor, who is known to me, that the intimacy between Astor and FDR ended when Roosevelt sent his "soak the rich" message to Congress in 1935 deploring "the disturbing effects on our national life that come from great inheritances of wealth and power." Roosevelt said "the transmission of great fortunes by inheritance is not consistent with the ideals of the American people." O'Connor says that was the end of a beautiful friendship, but how he knows I don't know.

Astor and Averell Harriman, of all people, founded a weekly political review called "Today" which did not catch on with the public. Ray Moley, the chief of Roosevelt's brain trust, was the original editor. The change in policy coincided, roughly, with Moley's decision to quit and oppose most of the New Deal.

Astor and Harriman folded "Today" and acquired "Newsweek," a civilized version of Henry Luce's "Time." Moley still carries on at Newsweek and I believe Astor is the owner, but as to Harriman in that respect I have no information.

As Pegler Sees It

aspect confers favors of substantial cash value on a Democratic President who is notoriously tight-fisted and is gunning for "economic royalists," it is permissible to inquire whether the rich man had any interests which might have been jeopardized by ill-will of that President. There are many examples of companies which tried to propitiate Roosevelt by financial favors to members of his family.

Meaning no insinuation, therefore, I do insist that it is fair to inquire whether Mr. Astor had any hidden motive. However, without knowledge of any questionable situation, we simply must accept his decisions to say nothing.

I would like to know what the payroll of this ship was and the cost of "finding" her when Roosevelt was flying his flag aboard her. Did Astor ever lend the whole layout to anyone else? Numerous questions flow from this line of curiosity which I deem reasonable.

I have read in a book called "The Astors," by Harvey O'Connor, who is known to me, that the intimacy between Astor and FDR ended when Roosevelt sent his "soak the rich" message to Congress in 1935 deploring "the disturbing effects on our national life that come from great inheritances of wealth and power." Roosevelt said "the transmission of great fortunes by inheritance is not consistent with the ideals of the American people." O'Connor says that was the end of a beautiful friendship, but how he knows I don't know.

Astor and Averell Harriman, of all people, founded a weekly political review called "Today" which did not catch on with the public. Ray Moley, the chief of Roosevelt's brain trust, was the original editor. The change in policy coincided, roughly, with Moley's decision to quit and oppose most of the New Deal.

Astor and Harriman folded "Today" and acquired "Newsweek," a civilized version of Henry Luce's "Time." Moley still carries on at Newsweek and I believe Astor is the owner, but as to Harriman in that respect I have no information.

Strike Authorized

Ansonia, Conn., June 23 (AP)—Members of Local 445, Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, independent, have authorized their union to strike the American Brass Co., a subsidiary of the Anaconda Copper Co. The local took the strike vote yesterday in support of wage and other demands.

Truck Tax Director

Albany, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—Louis A. Nolfo of Brooklyn has been appointed to the $10,000-a-year post of director of the State Tax Department's truck mileage tax bureau.

ESSAY WINNERS of the fifth grade at School No. 3 in a contest about the sinking of the battleship Maine in the Spanish American War received awards this week. Louise Rota (right) and Nancy Williams won first and second place in the contest. Edwin Schultz awarded them memorable souvenirs of the battle. First prize was an actual one-inch shell salvaged from the Maine, and second prize was a small cannon ball from the Spanish Fort Morro Castle in Cuba.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, June 22 — A combined meeting of the Ladies of LaSalette and the Holy Name Society of St. Francis de Sales parish was held in the Phoenicia parish hall on Monday night. Plans were formulated concerning the annual bazaar which will take place Aug. 20. Mrs. Edward Mullin and Judge William P. Malloy are co-chairmen of the bazaar. John del Santo was appointed chairman of children's activities. Arrangements will be made to have pony rides, games, fish ponds and other amusements for the youngsters. Mrs. Howard Umhey is publicity director and district chairman of the Mount Tremper-Mount Pleasant-Wittenberg area. Persons wishing to donate articles for sale at the bazaar are asked to contact Mrs. Umhey who will call for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ramsell called on Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carle Saturday afternoon.

John Callaghan spent Tuesday in New York.

Christine and Michael Poseluzny, children of Mr. and Mrs. John Poseluzny, received their first Holy Communion at the 9 o'clock Mass at Our Lady of LaSalette Church, Boiceville, Sunday morning. They were the only children receiving the sacrament at this time.

Invitations have been received locally for the wedding of Miss Louise Jablonski to Joseph O'Rourke at St. Mary's Church, Kingston, Saturday July 9. Miss Jablonski, who is music instructor at the Onteora Central School, will be married at a nuptial Mass.

Twenty-three members of the Carle family held their annual reunion at North Lake on Sunday. Those attending the all-day picnic included: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carle; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carle and children Linda, Lisa and Alan; Albert Carman of Rensselaer, Judge and Mrs. Frank Carle, Jr. and children Virginia and Terrence of Shokan; Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Spiers of Rensselaer and children, Janet, Laurel and Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. R. Allen Carle and son Robert, and Mrs. Walter Brooks of Roxbury and children, Diane and Steven.

The next regular meeting of Mt. Tremper Grange 1468 will take place in the Grange Hall on Monday at 8:30 p. m. Grange Master August May urges all members to attend as important plans will be discussed.

Aid We Offer Delinquents Today Only Frightens Them

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

We Americans want action on juvenile delinquency.

We are tired of the waste of children. We are tired of the waste of money. We are very tired of the politicians' promises and the reformers' talk of bigger basketball games and prettier playgrounds. For we know that when the children have finished the games and got their heads patted at the playgrounds, they go home to the screams and conflict.

We want action based on the ABC of social service. That ABC is: To get a helpless person to ask for help is your first step in teaching him responsibility for himself.

The screaming, irresponsible people who produce delinquent children are not asking for help because the only kind we offer frightens them.

That is our problem.

Up to now, what we offer is the mediation of the cop on the corner — and those hard-to-get services of overloaded private agencies which to thousands of people are either unheard of or associated with snoopy, patronizing "charity."

What slum child, made frantic by an ailing woman's nagging, is going to seek the corner cop for release of tension and understanding?

What ailing woman, overburdened by shame of her life's failures is going to seek out help she imagines to be snoopy "charity?"

The proof that such help isn't help is the fact that it is not sought. That's the reality. And until it's faced, we're going to continue making grand humanitarian speeches while we muddle along with public equipment as outgrown as horse cars and Lillian Russell's bustle.

We want a new public service, please. We want it staffed by people as skillful in winning human confidence as our firemen are with pulmotors. We want out from the 19th century and in to the 20th. We want a public family emergency to which an embattled child or his parents can appeal as trustfully as they'd call a hospital or the Fire Department.

Listen! The other day, the mother of a 12-year-old boy who had made himself a juvenile court record as a thief, truant and gangster was asked to explain it. She said, "My relief check is too small. It's terrible to have to say 'No' to your kid when he wants what other kids have."

She was saying: "I am a sick woman. I cannot tolerate restriction. I hate it so that I have infected my son — and driven him to steal what I have had to deny him."

If she had typhus, how fast we'd run! How the ambulance siren would shriek! We'd be there in her tenement in five minutes flat. The street would be cleared. Every special skill of our public health facilities would be rallied to the control of her disease.

But her disease is not typhus. It is moral disorder—and until her community can move upon it in emergency public health service, it will continue to spread its contagion to us all.

Backs Ike's Housing

Washington, June 23 (AP)—The House Banking Committee voted yesterday to recommend a low-rent public housing program of the size President Eisenhower has asked—35,000 units in each of the next two years. That is the rate currently authorized. In the Senate, however, the Democratic leadership pushed through a bill to authorize 135,000 new units in each of the next four years. The House committee has no yet sent its bill to the floor. It still is at work on other sections of the omnibus measure.

The Couples Club of Temple Emanuel will hold an outing Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at Lawton Park.

Harriman Blocks

Harriman said in his letter to Johnson:

"I recognize your responsibility for the safety and efficiency of the operations under your supervision. However, I wish to consider all aspects of this policy, including human factors involved in connection with the over-age employes."

Harrman, arriving in Massena later in the day, told a reporter he had ordered the policy shelved so he could 'review the entire situation."

Johnson said he had been away from Albany and did not know the policy was "coming out so soon." "It came out without a complete review," he added.

He told Johnson in a letter to report on the number of workers who would have been lopped form the payroll and the amount of retirement benefits each was eligible to receive through social security payments.

The dismissal policy was expressed in a memorandum dated June 16 from Warren S. Welch, public works personnel director, to division chiefs and district engineers. The memo set up a fixed schedule for dismissing the "over 70s." Welch said that a few exceptions would be made, upon recommendation of the chiefs and engineers.

The directive also urged that the department not hire employes 60 years old and over "for positions requiring manual effort that may involve physical exertion . . ."

A department spokesman said the policy was "motivated by safety considerations." He said there was a high accident rate among the department's older workers engaged in manual labor.

GIs Seized, Returned

Munsan, Korea, June 23 (AP)—Two American soldiers were seized by the Chinese Communists when they accidentally crossed the Korean truce line yesterday but the Reds returned them today, the United Nations command announced. The command said the two Americans reported they had been treated well. The Americans are Sgt. Robert L. Hartman of North Sacramento, Calif., and Pfc. James P. Dillon of Brooklyn.

Most Have Coverage

New York, June 23 (AP)—About two out of every three Americans—101,493,000 men, women and children—were covered by some form of voluntary health insurance at the last count. The record figure was announced yesterday by the Health Insurance Council, a group of nine associations in the insurance business.

MOST SENSATIONAL DISCOVERY IN 40 YEARS FOR BETTER BAKING AND FRYING!
FIRST ALL-NEW SHORTENING!
It's RICH! It's YELLOW!
Procter & Gamble's Golden Fluffo

What a cake it makes!
RICHER-LOOKING... BETTER-TASTING... MORE APPETIZING!

Yes, Fluffo cakes are the highest, lightest, most delicious golden-rich cakes you can possibly bake!

Why? Because fabulous, new, easy-to-mix Fluffo blends into smooth, rich batter never possible before with any other shortening! Glorifies yellow and chocolate cakes — gives delicate moist richness to your white cakes . . . yet leaves them white!

THIS BAKING CHAMPION OF ALL ALABAMA FAIR, Mrs. J. T. Portera, says:—

"You should see the white cake I made with this rich yellow shortening! Used my same old recipe—but changed from white shortening to Fluffo. My cake was absolutely wonderful—had such fine texture—tasted so rich! And still it was nice and white. And I used Fluffo in my icing. Talk about rich! This was the richest, easiest-spreading frosting I ever made!"

"No white shortening ever gave me a cake like this!" says this expert Southern cook who won prize blue ribbon for her baking.

Like cooking champions, you'll be truly excited about golden Fluffo! It gives you high, light, delicate cakes such as you've never been able to bake before . . . richer-looking and better-tasting, by far, than any you can get from white shortening!

That's because Fluffo is different! Even its color is different—yellow from pure carotene.

And Fluffo is such fun to work with! Use it in all your recipes that call for shortening—and see what happens! Without changing a single measurement, you'll get the flakiest, tenderest golden-brown pie-crust possible . . . wonderfully tender-crisp golden-brown fries that are so digestible!

Yet Fluffo costs no more than leading white shortenings! It's available in most areas. Get a can of Fluffo and use it for richer-looking, better-tasting cooking!

Rock Salt Blamed For House Blaze

Rock Salt, known to burn up ice in the winter, was the cause of a house fire last night.

Firemen were called at 7:08 p. m., to a four-family apartment house at 133 St. James street, where it was found that a damp bag of rock salt on three brass pipes at the rear of a basement apartment, had set up chemical reaction resulting in fire.

THE BLAZE CAUGHT to the bag containing the salt. Damage was slight otherwise.

The building is owned by Mrs. N. V. Osterhoudt, and occupants of the basement apartment were listed as Peggy Wilczyniski and Mary DiRico.

Wiltwyck station responded.

Central station was notified of a brush fire along the New York State Thruway at 12:16 a. m. It was reported about two and a half miles north of the city and the Sawkill company was dispatched there.

There are no clouds on Mars such as we know on Earth.

Hurley Man Gets Masonic Appointment

Claude Gorseline of Hurley was notified Tuesday evening of his appointment as Grand Representative of the State of Alabama near the Grand Council, State of New York, in the Masonic order.

The commission was presented by Philip E. Kearney, district deputy, representing Edward L. Flemming, grand master of the Grand Council, State of New York. Presentation was made at a special meeting of Ancient City Council 21, Royal and Select Masters, held at Masonic Temple, 31 Albany avenue.

Gorseline, in a brief response, thanked the Council for the honor conferred upon him and said it had come as a complete surprise.

Seeks Unified Germany

San Francisco, June 23 (AP)—French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay today called for a unified Germany, but declared the West must reject Soviet efforts to turn it into a neutral buffer. "German unity must be established with equal security for all," the French foreign minister told the UN's 10th anniversary session as it went into its fourth day.

MINOR INJURIES were suffered by James Dermody, 21, of Newburgh, when the 1951 sedan in which he was a passenger went out of control and turned over on Route 209 about a mile south of the Kingston city line about 10 p. m. Tuesday, according to state police of the Kingston Station. Dermody was treated at Kingston Hospital for contusions of the chest and released. Troopers said Walter Trowbridge, 18, of 530 Delaware avenue, operator of the vehicle, traveling south, lost control, went off the shoulder, then swung back into the northbound lane and turned over. Trowbridge was arrested by Trooper H. H. Ganss, who investigated, charged with driving at a dangerous rate of speed. He paid a fine of $5 when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Alton Boice. Decision on Jury System Reserved

Justice Harry E. Schirick today reserved decision in a taxpayers proceeding brought by Edwin C. Farrington and Mrs. Helen Garry Burns of Albany to determine the constitutionality of the law which sets up a uniform jury system in the state. The matter came before Justice Schirick on an order to show cause signed Monday which directed Elizabeth F. Pinckney, Albany county commissioner of jurors, and County Treasurer Jacob H. Herzog to show cause in court today why the law should not be declared unconstitutional.

UNDER A LAW passed by the 1954 Legislature a uniform jury law was set up for all counties in the state except the city of New York. The 1955 Legislature amended that law which relieved counties under 100,000 from complying with the uniform jury law and making it mandatory only for counties with population in excess of 100,000 to function under the county commissioner of jurors system. Counties with less than 100,000 may enter the uniform jury set-up but are not compelled to. This makes the uniform jury law mandatory in only 15 counties of the state.

The law is attacked on the grounds it invades the county Home Rule law by which the local authorities may elect to approve or reject a law, Harold Blodgett, attorney for petitioners, in whose office Mrs. Burns is employed, appeared and challenged the constitutionality of the law which is scheduled to become effective on July 1. He argued that the law violates the state constitution's Home Rule provision.

Arguing that the amendment enacted in 1955 has the effect of making it mandatory for only 15 counties, instead of all 57 counties of the state, outside New York city, to comply, Blodgett argued that it is actually a local law and must be requested by the local political subdivisions involved. He told the court no board of supervisors has requested the law and that, therefore, it violated the Home Rule provision of the constitution.

Arguing for the constitutionality of the law was Assistant Attorney General Manley who said he would rely on the law after briefly pointing out alleged "fallicies" of the petitioners' argument.

SINCE the matter will have to go directly to the Court of Appeals for final analysis, Justice Schirick said he would decide the matter as quickly as possible and that he intended to make a decision in time for the matter to be heard by the Court of Appeals on July 6 when that court meets to hand down decisions prior to the summer recess. Filing of affidavits was waived in order to get the matter decided here in time to have it heard by the Court of Appeals in July.

Walter Collins appeared for Albany county officials and Elmer M. Rasmussen for Rensselaer county.

Fifth Show Planned

The USO Holstein Club will hold its fifth annual Black and White Show at the Orange County Fairgrounds, Middletown, on Saturday, July 30. Samuel Slack, professor of animal husbandry at Cornell University, will be this year's judge. The show is open to owners of registered Holsteins, whether they are members of the club or not. The club area includes Ulster, Sullivan and Orange counties. Light lunch and refreshments will be sold on the grounds by the Ridge Raisers 4-H Club.

Is Scalded to Death

Schenectady, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—Scalding water in his bathtub caused the death of a 10-month-old boy last night. Joseph D. Schmalistig, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Schmalstig of nearby Rotterdam, was pronounced dead upon arrival at a hospital. Police said Mrs. Schmalstig was preparing to bathe the boy when the accident occurred. Authorities theorized that the child turned on the hot water faucet.

Records Are Refused

Washington, June 23 (AP)—A wealthy cap maker doing business with the government refused today to let Senate investigators see his records lest they find evidence that "might tend to incriminate me." This refusal under the Fifth Amendment by Sol Schlesinger of Freport, N. Y., drew threats of a contempt of Congress citation and a demand that the government promptly cancel his outstanding contract and bar him from holding any future ones.

Iraq is developing an industry which will make sugar from dates.

Target!

Mangum, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. D. O. Givens found a skunk in her chicken house but it wouldn't be scared away when she tossed rocks. Finally, she grabbed a pitchfork and from 15 feet out threw a perfect strike, killing the skunk.

SHEEP IN DUCK CLOTHING—An estimated 50,000 New Mexico sheep will be wearing 10-ounce duck jackets on the range next winter. They are the idea of J. R. Stauder, sheep and wool specialist of New Mexico A & M College at State College, N.M., shown demonstrating the garment, above. Last winter he conducted tests on the Victor-Perez ranch near Encino, N.M. Results showed that the fleeces from the jacket-wearing animals contained an average of four pounds each less dirt than the "bare" sheep. Elimination of dirt results in lower shipping charges because freight rates are based on gross weight; lower shearing charges because crews demand bonuses for shearing excessively dirty sheep.

Rock Salt Blamed For House Blaze

Rock Salt, known to burn up ice in the winter, was the cause of a house fire last night.

Firemen were called at 7:08 p. m., to a four-family apartment house at 133 St. James street, where it was found that a damp bag of rock salt on three brass pipes at the rear of a basement apartment, had set up chemical reaction resulting in fire.

THE BLAZE CAUGHT to the bag containing the salt. Damage was slight otherwise.

The building is owned by Mrs. N. V. Osterhoudt, and occupants of the basement apartment were listed as Peggy Wilczyniski and Mary DiRico.

Wiltwyck station responded.

Central station was notified of a brush fire along the New York State Thruway at 12:16 a. m. It was reported about two and a half miles north of the city and the Sawkill company was dispatched there.

Predicts Passage

Washington, June 23 (AP) — Rep. Brooks (D-La.) predicted today a revised version of President Eisenhower's stalemated military reserve program will pass the House next week "with no trouble." But Rep. Powell (D-N.Y.) declared the new measure is "worse than before" and faces another strong fight over racial segregation issues."

'Elizabeth' Sails

London, June 23 (AP)—The Queen Elizabeth sailed today for New York, carrying 1,315 passengers and hopes of the Cunard Line of breaking a three-week seamen's strike that has crippled Britain's luxury trans-Atlantic passenger fleet. The 83,000-ton "Lizzie," flagship of the Cunard Line, set out from Southampton fully manned.

Refuse Death Stay

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Justices Frankfurter and Burton of the Supreme Court refused today to stay the execution of Mack C. Lewis, 19-year-old Negro from Buffalo, N. Y., sentenced to death in Mississippi for the killing of a New Orleans businessman. Yesterday, Justice Black of the high tribunal likewise declined to interfere with the execution, which was scheduled for this afternoon.

Believe Children Start Attic Fire

A fire, believed to have been started by children, damaged a section of attic, some bedding and roof boards in the former Wood house, 82 Fair street (at Franklin street) this afternoon.

Firemen were called at 12:15 p. m., and men from Central and Wiltwyck stations used smoke masks to reach the blaze.

Deputy Fire Chief George Matthews said there "was no question" that the fire was set by children. Match books and cigarettes were found in the building. He notified police headquarters.

The building was purchased recently by a group headed by Walter Donnaruma, they plan to renovate it to house six apartments.

The fire did not break through the roof, Matthews said.

Following parliamentary custom, the president asked Scelba and his cabinet to stay on until a successor is found.

Brady Is Jailed For Wild Ride

Troy, June 23 (AP)—A 28-year-old man has been ordered jailed for six months and his woman companion given a six-month suspended term on charges stemming from a wild police chase that ended in a three-automobile smashup and injuries to five persons.

John J. Brady and Mrs. Helen Webster, 37, both of Troy, pleaded guilty to the charges yesterday before Peace Justice William H. Flubacher, Town of East Greenbush. Brady also was fined $50.

George E. Lee, 22, also of Troy, who was arrested with Mrs. Weber and Brady Monday, pleaded innocent to charges of resisting arrest and second-degree forgery. He waived examination and was ordered held for the Rensselaer county grand jury. The forgery charge involved an alleged worthless $50 check given to a Troy grocery store.

The chase early Monday began in East Greenbush and ended in Hudson. State Trooper Edwin J. Jones, driving one of the cars, was among the injured. The chase started when Jones investigated the trio's car, parked at a service station.

Graduation Exercises Held Monday Evening

Tillson, June 24—Graduation exercises for students of the eighth grade of the Tillson School were held in the school auditorium Monday night before a large audience.

Following the processional march, flag salute and the singing of the first stanza of the Star Spangled Banner, the invocation was given by the Rev. Culyer Thayer.

Judith Menzel recited the class poem, Memories of Tillson.

The salutatory address was given by Richard Segelken. Following this, Fred Bornemann gave the giftorian speech and then the Tillson Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Rosemarie Simard sang All Through the Night.

The guest speaker, Clifford Miller, principal of the MJM School, Kingston, was introduced by Principal George Fernandez. His talk was well received by both the students of the graduating class and those in the audience.

The class will was presented by Richard Segelken, class prophecy by Peggy Ellard, and Sandra Phillips, valedictorian, gave the valedictory address.

Several prizes were awarded the graduation class by Mrs. Mary Sutherland, president of the Tillson School Association. Diplomas and pins were awarded by Kenneth Clark, chairman of the board of trustees.

The glee club sang Commencement Song, followed by the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Thayer, and then the processional march. A graduate reception was held in honor of the graduating class following the graduation ceremony, sponsored by the seventh grade students for the graduates.

Members of the graduating class were Walter Born, Frederick Bornemann, Earl Brown, Peggy Ellard, Judith Menzel, Francis Osterhoudt, Sandra Phillips, Richard Segelken, Aguida Sardienis and Glenn Sutherland. Class motto was "Impossible...Is Un-American," class flower, the Yellow Rose, and class colors were maroon and gold.

Kerhonkson to Hold Graduation Services Sunday and Monday

The Kerhonkson Union Free School will hold its 29th Commencement exercises as a credited secondary school of New York Monday, June 27, at 8 p. m. in the Kerhonkson High School Auditorium.

Dr. Roger W. Bancroft, chairman of the Department of Education, State Teachers College at Cortland, will deliver an address entitled "Human Relations."

The 29th Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday at the KHS Auditorium at 8 p. m. The Rev. Paul Babitsch of Kerhonkson will be the officiating minister. The Rev. Mr. Babitsch will offer the prayer and benediction. The Rev. George Wood of Accord will read the scripture and deliver the sermon. Shalom Michaeli of Kerhonkson will give the invocation.

Both services will be open to the public. Reserved sections will be set aside for the graduates, their parents, members of the Board of Education and members of the teaching staff and guests.

Red Spy Sentenced

Karlsrhue, Germany, June 23 (AP)—The West German Supreme Court today sentenced Arthur Kaiser, 55, of Remagen, to a year and a half in prison for spying for the Soviets. Kaiser was convicted of spying on North Atlantic Treaty military officers from January to October, 1954. He provided names of officers and their assignments to the Soviet secret police, the court found.

Model to Die July 13

London, June 23 (AP)—Ruth Ellis was told today she is scheduled to be hanged July 13 for murdering her playboy lover. The 28-year-old model's lawyer said yesterday she would not appeal from the death sentence given her Tuesday at the conclusion of her two-day trial. She still has nine more days to change her mind.

Dust Stirs Battle

Marcus Hook, Pa., June 23 (AP)—A chemical dust which coated the streets of this southeastern Pennsylvania town so it looked like a snow city in June, has stirred a verbal battle between residents and officials of the Sun Oil Co. A spokesman for Sun, which opened a new gasoline-making plant here earlier this month, said "a dust was thrown into the air" from a catalyst used in the manufacturing process. But he denied rumors circulating through town that the the dust was dangerous or unhealthy.

Red Writers Jailed

Berlin, June 23 (AP)—Four employes of Communist East Germany's leading newspaper were reported behind bars today for printing an "error" which completely reversed the party line on peace. Their newspaper, the party organ Neues Deutschland, yesterday printed this statement: "From day to day, in all lands of the earth, the number of persons who have signed the Vienna (Communist) appeal for preparation of an atomic war is growing." What had actually been meant, the paper explained today, was "prevention" of an atomic war, not "preparation."

Says Presence Is Aid

Taipei, Formosa, June 23 (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek today told 170 Moral Rearmament Movement (MRA) visitors their presence "increases our confidence that we are not alone and that we shall win a final victory against communism." The MRA statesmen mission group, from 26 countries, were reception guests of President and Mme. Chiang. It includes John Fell Stevenson, 19-year-old son of Adlai Stevenson, and the Marquess of Graham, son of the Duke of Montrose.

Body Found in Trunk

East St. Louis, Ill., June 23 (AP)—Police found the body of J. Fred Koenig, convicted black marketeer and one-time St. Louis politician, stuffed in the trunk of his new Cadillac yesterday. He apparently had been slain elsewhere and then jammed into the trunk. Koenig's slaying followed by little more than a month the May 17 shooting here in which the cars of Birney T. (Chick) Havey Jr. and Kenneth Mueller were riddled with bullets. Mueller was wounded in this shooting.

Reports Red Buildup

Taipei, June 23 (AP)—The commander of Chinese Nationalist forces on Quemoy said today the Chinese Reds were stepping up their preparations for an attack on the offshore islands. Gen. Liu Yu-chang was quoted by the official Central News Agency as predicting that the Reds would launch a large scale invasion of the islands when they completed the buildup of air bases in Fukien Province.

Why We Say--

When people speak of a drowning man, they invariably speak of him "going down for the third time," although he may actually go down more or less times. The idea for the "third time" came about from Roman mythology where drowning involved the wrath of three gods, sky, air and water. They each pushed the victim down.

Speaker Stresses Early Detection In Cancer Fight

Dr. James W. Walton, president of the Orange County Unit of the American Cancer Society, stressed the vital role of early detection in the fight against cancer in an address before the fifth annual regional meeting of the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society at the Governor Clinton Hotel yesterday.

He explained the comparative ease of detection of cancer in women as compared with men, due to the accessibility of "site" in the majority of cases.

ABOUT 35 delegates from Ulster, Greene, Rockland, Dutchess, Delaware, Putnam and Orange counties attended the luncheon meeting.

Attending from Ulster county were Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck, Ulster county director of volunteer field services, Mrs. Alice MacDonough, Mrs. Herbert Derman, deputy director, of Kingston, Mrs. Edwin Shumate of Lomontville, Miss Agnes Ridgway of Stone Ridge, Mrs. Pearl Smith, chairman, of Marlborough; Mrs. Lillian Courter, chairman, of Thomasville, Mrs. Bernard Martin of Hurley Heights, Mrs. John Larkin of Kingston, who served as co-chairman of the entertainment committee.

THE REGIONAL meeting was under the direction of Mrs. Laurence Marble, New York state director of volunteer services, and Alan Stevenson, executive director of the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society.

Guests at the meeting, besides the speaker, were Dr. William Bush, president of the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society, and Charles Rinschler, Ulster county campaign chairman of the 1955 Cancer Crusade.

Jurors to Sponsor Boy at State Camp

The Ulster County Grand Jurors' Association will sponsor a boy for a one-week period at the New York State Conservation Department camp at DeBruce, it was announced today.

The department's camping program, in its seventh year of operation, is designed to provide youngsters of the state with the usual camp experience as well as to teach conservation practices.

Name of the recipient of the Grand Jurors' Association "campership" has not been announced.

Faces Murder Charge

Albany, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—An unemployed man was arrested today and charged with first-degree murder in the death of a man whose body was found floating in the Hudson river at the port of Albany. Police Chief John Tuffey said John C. Franklin, 23, of nearby Westmere, had admitted pushing Edward P. Kanaporis, 33, of Schenectady into the river on June 8 after stealing $15 from him. Franklin waived examination in police court and was held for grand jury action.

Boat Is Recovered

A rowboat described as "lifeboat" type, and owned by the Kingston Recreation Department, was reported cut loose from its mooring near Kingston Point beach last night. Police were notified at 8:20 p. m., that the boat was adrift in the river. It was recovered by Bertram Lewis of Grandview avenue, a member of the Kingston Powerboat Association, who reported that the bottom of his boat was damaged when it hit a plank as he was bringing back the rowboat.

Living Costs Unchanged

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Living costs remained unchanged in May while worker take-home pay rose sharply to a record high. Secretary of Labor Mitchell in announcing the new figures today said it continues the pattern of overall national stability in retail prices which has stopped paycheck-robbing inflation.

CANCER POSTER WINNERS at the Onteora Central School were (l-r) Carl Brema, Jr., Glenford, special award; Wendy Christiana, Woodstock, first prize, elementary and Claudette Bleignier, Mt. Tremper, first prize. Other winners included Janice Pearson, Big Indian, first, junior high; Elaine Shultis, Bearsville, junior high honorable mention and Faye Fichtner, Boiceville, elementary honorable mention. Asplund Charged With Car Theft; Trooper Praised

Through the alertness of Trooper D. P. Brosen of the Thruway patrol, the manager of Jax Car Wash, Albany avenue extension, was picked up and charged with grand larceny, second degree, about five hours after an alarm had been sent out. Carl Asplund, 44, of 1520 South Second avenue, Los Angeles, Calif., had disappeared together with a stationwagon owned by Jack Goldstein, owner of the car laundry, when notice was given the sheriff's office in Kingston.

AN ALARM was sent out and Trooper Brosen on duty from the Catskill station spotted the car near Athens, Greene county. The car was reported missing at noon by Goldstein, who operates the Hunter Electric Company and also the local car laundry. He had fired Asplund about a week ago.

Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh and County Investigator, who had sent out the teletype alarm, went to Greene county and brought Asplund to Ulster county where he was arraigned before Justice Harold Macholdt who held the defendant for Grand Jury action and committed him to jail.

Five From County Inducted June 21

Local draft boards 18 (city) and 19 (county) inducted five men into the U. S. Army June 21.

Charles H. Talleur, of 7 Patricia avenue, Albany was the only one inducted by local board 18.

The others, inducted by local board 19:

Manfred K. Thiele, Bloomington; James E. Gillernnan, Jr., 7 Maiden Lane, Ellenville, Joseph A. Reda, 20 Parwkay-North, Yonkers, and Donald C. Nevins, 20 Fiske Place, Brooklyn.

July 19 is the next induction date.

Miss Elaine Miller Becomes Engaged

MISS ELAINE MILLER

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Miller of 152 North Walnut street, Beacon, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elaine, to Leonard E. Lessick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lessick of 100 Pearl street, this city. Plans are being made for an August wedding.

The bride-elect, a graduate of South Avenue and Beacon High School, is an operator in the Beacon exchange of the New York Telephone Company. A member of the Shaw Motors Bowling team, she holds membership in the Women's Bowling Association.

Mr. Lessick, a graduate of Kingston High School, served in the Army and spent 14 months in Korea with a Korean Military Advisory Group. Active in bowling, he is a member of the Good Neighbor Bowling League. He is with Montgomery Ward and Company in Poughkeepsie.

Miss Marilyn Gadd To Teach in Fall

MISS MARILYN GADD

Miss Marilyn Ruth Gadd received her bachelor of arts degree, with a major in English and a minor in French, from New York State College for Teachers at Albany, Sunday, June 12, at the 110th commencement exercises.

Miss Gadd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gadd of 95 Wilson avenue, is a graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula, class of 1951.

She has accepted a teaching position at Highland Central School in September.

Firm to Deliver Six Homes Weekly

A work schedule calling for delivery of approximately six homes a week beginning in the fall has been adopted by the Barclay Heights Development Corporation, according to Jack Davis, president.

Families will start moving into the first section of 53 homes in September, Davis said. The total development will have 173 homes.

"When the pace is set and tempo reached," Davis said, the six-homes-a-week schedule is expected to be increased to 10 a week.

AT PRESENT, bull-dozers are cutting roads, lots are being marked out and areas cleared for concrete foundations and footings.

"As soon as this operation is completed, an army of workmen will take over for the next stages, and will work to a strict time schedule . . . so that all trades involved can dovetail, and no loss of time is experienced," Davis said.

Three Capitals

During their existence as such, the Confederate states had three capitals. First was Montgomery, Alabama, whence it was moved to Richmond, Virginia. Finally, it was moved to Danville, Virginia, which was the last capital of the Confederacy.

Senate Passes Pay Bill

Washington, June 23 (AP)—The Senate today passed and sent to the House a compromise bill raising pay of 1,073,262 federal employes 7½ per cent retroactive to March 1. The House is expected to pass the measure and send it to President Eisenhower. Congressional leaders in both branches say they are certain he will sign the bill.

Drouth Broken

Portales, N. M. (AP) — Ab French, head of Roosevelt county's drouth committee, had about all the water he could use. A hail and rain storm broke off all his fence-post rain gauges and he had to use buckets to measure the water. He said he'd "swear to between five or six inches of rain, and I think we had more."

Plattekill

Plattekill, June 22—A son, born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Garcia, has been named Michael Joseph.

The Misses Constance and Teresa Duch, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Duch of the Forest road, in this section, were among members of the graduating class of the State Teachers College at New Paltz. At the commencing of the fall term of school sessions, Teresa will teach art at the Shodach Central School, Castleton-on-Hudson, and Constance will teach at Columbia High School, East Greenbush.

Miss Gertrude Kopaskie, a senior at the State Teachers College in New Paltz, has been awarded a scholarship to attend State Grange leadership training school at Morrisville, this summer.

Local members of the public health nursing committee of the town of Plattekill attended the annual picnic Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Frank M. Coy in Modena.

Teen-age dances in the Plattekill Grange Hall have been omitted during June owing to school activities and graduation exercises.

Mrs. Robert R. Hollis gave a recital of sacred and classical music following dedication ceremonies for the new electric organ which was installed in the Rossville Methodist Church, associate parish of Plattekill, recently.

Misses His Fins

Miami, Fla. (AP)—Chua Choon Liong, a contractor and builder from Singapore, stayed in a plush oceanfront hotel during a Miami vacation, but avoided the dining room. He ate every meal in Chinese restaurants. "Only one complaint," he observed. "They don't serve shark fin soup, my favorite dish." There are plenty of sharks in Florida waters, too.

Combine Norway Sardines With Vegetable Salad

NORWAY SARDINES combined with a cooked vegetable salad provides a substantial hot day meal.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

The Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, N. Y., has a large Scandinavian population. That's why it's a good place to go for smorgasbord, kippers and other delicacies Norsemen favor.

There we talked with Mrs. Matilda Johnson, born in Norway. She gave us two welcome recipes for those delicate sardines from her native land. She said that her Irish son-in-law, a Dodger fan, is a fan for her Norwegian summer salads, too. So everyone is happy in Bay Ridge.

Norway Sardines and Cooked Vegetable Salad

To prepare 8 portions, use 1 pound of each of the fresh vegetables, or if you prefer canned vegetables, use 2½ size cans. One (3¾-ounce) can Norway sardines, green peas, carrots, sliced; whole baby string beans, baby Lima beans, 4 radishes, crisp lettuce leaves, mayonnaise.

If fresh vegetables are used, cook and allow to cool. Make a bed of lettuce leaves in a bowl and arrange cooked vegetables on lettuce separately. Decorate the salad with a cross of whole Norway sardines, which will also serve to divide the vegetables. Arrange 4 radish rosettes in the center. Serve with mayonnaise on the side.

Stavanger Salad
(3 servings)

One (3¾-ounce) can Norway sardines, 3 tomatoes, 3 hard-cooked eggs, 1 stalk celery, diced; half head of lettuce, shredded; 3 green olives, salt and pepper to taste.

Drain oil from sardines and mash all but 12 of the sardines. Blend mashed sardines with diced celery and season to taste. Split tomatoes in 4 parts, slicing them from top to about ¼-inch from the bottom. Fill the tomatoes with the sardine-celery mixture. Garnish tomatoes with the remaining whole sardines and top with green olives. Cover serving dish with shredded lettuce. Arrange tomatoes on lettuce bed with sliced hard-cooked eggs. Top tomatoes with dash of mayonnaise, or serve mayonnaise on the side.

Note: A 3¾-ounce can of Norway sardines contains an average of 20 to 22 sardines.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: (For a hot night) Norway sardines and cooked vegetable salad, hot boiled potatoes, dark rye bread, sweet butter, blackberries, light cream, assorted cheese, coffee or iced tea, milk.

There are 25,000 U. S. communities that depend entirely on highways for transportation.

Industrial Leaders Plan on Prosperity to Reach New Peaks

Consumer Buying Encourages Firm Expansion Moves

New York, June 23 (AP)—Once more the sights are being raised on the business boom. This time business is feeding on its own growing confidence.

Consumers led the way with purchases that more than made up for the drop in government spending for defense. Now industrial leaders are aiming higher than a few months back and their spending for new plants and modernized equipment is pushing general prosperity to new peaks.

SUMMER WITH its heat and vacations may slow the economy down for a spell. But now, almost daily, come reports of new records in autos, steel, aluminum, machine tool ordering, shoe making, in construction, incomes, stock prices, in industrial output in general.

Businessmen's own spending is now backing up the gains in consumer spending, the Department of Commerce reports. Fed by higher incomes, the willingness of Americans in general to spend more this year has given businessmen the confidence necessary to plan for increased capacity to produce.

General Motors, for example, has just announced a new 500 million dollar expansion program for more floor space, new machine tools and presses.

In the past Durocher has said repeatedly that "when I'm through with the Giants I'm through with baseball."

He admitted there probably would be some news out of Minneapolis during his visit, but strongly hinted it would deal with players.

THE COMMERCE and Labor Departments join in boosting their previous guesses on total construction expenditure this year. They now think the total will come to about 42 billion dollars, a record for any year, and at least 11 per cent above last year's mark, the previous record. About 21 per cent more will be spent for new homes this year. The departments note "a trend toward larger and more expensive homes."

Spending on new commercial buildings will be up 30 per cent, on industrial plants up 8 per cent, and on private utilities up 4 per cent.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce is even more optimistic than the two government departments. It sees the speed-up in construction assuring that current good times will last well into 1956.

SOME SOLID backing for the optimism comes from current industrial reports.

Steel masters this week are turning out the greatest tonnage of any week in history. Blast furnaces making pig iron also report a record—the steel making ingredient poured from the furnaces in May at a record total of 6,804,935 net tons.

Aluminum, despite production gains, is selling so well that the Office of Defense Mobilization says that demand will top supply this summer, even though 200 million pounds is being diverted from shipment to the government stockpile.

THE NATIONAL Machine Tool Builders Assn. in Cleveland reports that in May new orders for machine tools rose to a 21-month high. They were 43 per cent higher than a year ago.

Auto makers have already turned out their four millionth new car this year. In their previous record year it took them until August to reach that mark.

Shoe makers expect this to be their top year. They report that orders for fall lines are running 10 to 40 per cent ahead of last year. Some think output may hit 550 million pairs, up 26 million from last year.

THE WIDESPREAD confidence that good times are going to be with us for awhile is reflected in the stock market, where new all-time highs are being set regularly of late.

How long can it last? Well, there are some who caution against over confidence. One, Henry H. Heimann, executive vice president of the National Assn. of Credit Men, warns:

"One mistake that could set us back for quite some time would be to assume that business can continue without pause at its present high speed. Or that the stock market can go in only one direction—up. Or that debt is illimitable."

Driver Class Set

A summer Adult Driver Education class will be conducted during the period of July 5 to Aug. 12 at the Onteora Central School, Boiceville. The course is open to all regular and summer residents of the area. Registrations for the class will be accepted by Frank Andreone, driver instructor, at the Onteora Central School.

SCOLARSHIPS won by qualified students play a large part in the increased number of Kingston High School seniors planning to attend college next fall. Thirty-seven seniors have been awarded $50,240 in scholarship aid. Refused were duplicate awards which amounted to $12,000. Among the seniors who will enter college in the fall are: First Row, 1 to r—Jacqueline Foure, Annette Evans, Joan Glass, Cynthia Haver, Hilde Flamm, Arlita Davis.

SCHOLARSHIPS are given annually in the area by Kiwanis, Kingston Branch American Association of University Women, Lions, Ulster County Medical Auxiliary, Prisma, Leaders Club with a special scholarship, new this year, for a future teacher given by Oil Dealers Association in Ulster County. Industry recruiting for trained personnel, the increased number of state supported institutions, and the student's willingness to earn a great part of his education, are also among the reasons for the high figure of college-bound KHS seniors. Among them are: First Row, 1 to r—Ada Cates, Adeline Cates, Barbara Barkley, Maija Avenins, Madeline Barnovitz.

Shokan

Shokan, June 22—Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sperling, Kingston were Sunday callers at the home of Mrs. Sperling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elson Oakley of the Church Hill neighborhood of Shokan.

Mrs. John Valland and son, John, of New York are now at their summer home on the reservoir road.

Small boys are included among successful fishermen in the mountains this season: Douglas Faulkner, 12, hooked a 2-lb., 16½-inch trout along the shore line of Lake Switzerland and Steven Valk, 8, pulled a 21-inch pickerel from the brook at Meeker's Rock below Margaretville.

Joseph Pucino of Newburgh spent some time in the village center Monday.

William Miller of Lake Hill was a caller here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merrihew and Nettie VanBuren of Brodhead were callers here Thursday. The three west side people are former residents of the Olive Bridge area.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens and family are occupying their new home adjoining the Reformed Church grounds which for many years has been the Edmund Gearon summer place. The couple sold their house to E. Duffy who has come to reside there. The Gearon house, built in waterworks years as a parsonage, is a commodious dwelling with spacious grounds featuring a large flower garden.

Actress, Mate to Part

Hollywood, June 23 (AP)—Actress Vivian Blaine and her husband, Manny Frank, her business agent, are separating. They called it a trial separation, however, and both said yesterday that "there are no plans for divorce." They predicted they would have their troubles smoothed out by the time builders complete their new Beverly Hills home in the late summer. Miss Blaine and Frank were married in Los Angeles Jan. 10, 1945.

He admitted there probably would be some news out of Minneapolis during his visit, but strongly hinted it would deal with players.

THE COMMERCE and Labor Departments join in boosting their previous guesses on total construction expenditure this year. They now think the total will come to about 42 billion dollars, a record for any year, and at least 11 per cent above last year's mark, the previous record. About 21 per cent more will be spent for new homes this year. The departments note "a trend toward larger and more expensive homes."

Spending on new commercial buildings will be up 30 per cent, on industrial planis up 8 per cent, and on private utilities up 4 per cent.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce is even more optimistic than the two government departments. It sees the speed-up in construction assuring that current good times will last well into 1956.

SOME SOLID backing for the optimism comes from current industrial reports.

Steel masters this week are turning out the greatest tonnage of any week in history. Blast furnaces making pig iron also report a record—the steel making ingredient poured from the furnaces in May at a record total of 6,804,935 net tons.

Aluminum, despite production gains, is selling so well that the Office of Defense Mobilization says that demand will top supply this summer, even though 200 million pounds is being diverted from shipment to the government stockpile.

THE NATIONAL Machine Tool Builders Assn. in Cleveland reports that in May new orders for machine tools rose to a 21-month high. They were 43 per cent higher than a year ago.

Auto makers have already turned out their four millionth new car this year. In their previous record year it took them until August to reach that mark.

Shoe makers expect this to be their top year. They report that orders for fall lines are running 10 to 40 per cent ahead of last year. Some think output may hit 550 million pairs, up 26 million from last year.

THE WIDESPREAD confidence that good times are going to be with us for awhile is reflected in the stock market, where new all-time highs are being set regularly of late.

How long can it last? Well, there are some who caution against over confidence. One, Henry H. Heimann, executive vice president of the National Assn. of Credit Men, warns:

"One mistake that could set us back for quite some time would be to assume that business can continue without pause at its present high speed. Or that the stock market can go in only one direction—up. Or that debt is illimitable."

Driver Class Set

A summer Adult Driver Education class will be conducted during the period of July 5 to Aug. 12 at the Onteora Central School, Boiceville. The course is open to all regular and summer residents of the area. Registrations for the class will be accepted by Frank Andreone, driver instructor, at the Onteora Central School.

SCOLARSHIPS won by qualified students play a large part in the increased number of Kingston High School seniors planning to attend college next fall. Thirty-seven seniors have been awarded $50,240 in scholarship aid. Refused were duplicate awards which amounted to $12,000. Among the seniors who will enter college in the fall are: First Row, l to r—Jacqueline Foure, Annette Evans, Joan Glass, Cynthia Haver, Hilde Flamm, Arlita Davis.

SCHOLARSHIPS are given annually in the area by Kiwanis, Kingston Branch American Association of University Women, Lions, Ulster County Medical Auxiliary, Prisma, Leaders Club with a special scholarship, new this year, for a future teacher given by Oil Dealers Association in Ulster County. Industry recruiting for trained personnel, the increased number of state supported institutions, and the student's willingness to earn a great part of his education, are also among the reasons for the high figure of college-bound KHS seniors. Among them are: First Row, l to r—Ada Cates, Adeline Cates, Barbara Barkley, Maija Avenins, Madeline Barnovitz.

Shokan

Shokan, June 22—Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sperling, Kingston were Sunday callers at the home of Mrs. Sperling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elson Oakley of the Church Hill neighborhood of Shokan.

Mrs. John Valland and son, John, of New York are now at their summer home on the reservoir road.

Small boys are included among successful fishermen in the mountains this season: Douglas Faulkner, 12, hooked a 2-lb., 16½-inch trout along the shore line of Lake Switzerland and Steven Valk, 8, pulled a 21-inch pickerel from the brook at Meeker's Rock below Margaretville.

Joseph Pucino of Newburgh spent some time in the village center Monday.

William Miller of Lake Hill was a caller here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merrihew and Nettie VanBuren of Brodhead were callers here Thursday. The three west side people are former residents of the Olive Bridge area.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens and family are occupying their new home adjoining the Reformed Church grounds which for many years has been the Edmund Gearon summer place. The couple sold their house to E. Duffy who has come to reside there. The Gearon house, built in waterworks years as a parsonage, is a commodious dwelling with spacious grounds featuring a large flower garden.

Actress, Mate to Part

Hollywood, June 23 (AP)—Actress Vivian Blaine and her husband, Manny Frank, her business agent, are separating. They called it a trial separation, however, and both said yesterday that "there are no plans for divorce." They predicted they would have their troubles smoothed out by the time builders complete their new Beverly Hills home in the late summer. Miss Blaine and Frank were married in Los Angeles Jan. 10, 1945.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 23 (AP)—The stock market advanced cautiously today with plenty of losers in the list.

Most changes either way were small. Trading was brisk in the first hour when prices were at their best, but the volume tapered off when prices began to slide away from their tops.

RAILROADS and steels were leaders on the rise. Steels later turned mixed while railroads maintained their headway.

Airlines did well together with movie issues, chemicals, and coppers.

Merger Is Hailed

Columbus, Ohio, June 23 (AP)—The merger of two Protestant denominaations has been hailed by leaders of both churches as one of the most important unions of Protestant sects in the country's history. The merger of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Congregational Christian Church was announced here yesterday following a three-day meeting of both groups. The two churches have a combined membership of more than two million.

Several Are Injured

New York, June 23 (AP)—Several persons were injured today when a careening fire engine cut off by a private car at 52nd street and Broadway, struck two taxicabs and a southbound Broadway bus, and set off a chain of accidents that caused damage to at least four other private cars.

EXCURSION STEAMER GROUNDED—The excursion steamer Pilgrim Belle, baskground, her lower and second decks awash at stern after she was purposely grounded on Spectacle Island near Boston June 22. The vessel struck an unidentified object in a heavy fog. Ship's captain, James Goodwin, lower right. Quincy, Mass., instructs helsman of tug to proceed toward his vessel. The removal of 272 passengers was accomplished in 25 minutes. (AP Wirephoto).

UP FROM THE DEEP—This sketch, made for Mechanix Illustrated, shows a jet plane zooming skyward after being launched from an atomic-powered submarine. According to the magazine, A-bomb-carrying jets could be carried under water by the subs in special hangars below deck. After a mission, planes would land in the water on skis and be retrieved by the sub.

EFFICIENCY EXPERT—This "temporary employe" of Egypt's Ministry of Finance is at work reorganizing the Archives Section's files in Cairo. When regular employes fled after encountering five snakes in the files, authorities summoned snake charmers. By whistling, cooing and tugging these experts managed to clear the files of extraneous serpentine matter.

IT'S A WEDDING—This unusual scene shows the first wedding in the new, modernistic chapel at Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge. Newlyweds are Pfc. Banke Bos, formerly of The Hague, Holland, and Mary Lynn Smoot, of Cambridge. The nondenominational chapel is circular and windowless. Light and sound baffles hang behind the altar, from the skylight, main source of light.

New Arterial

the spur.

It might connect with Albany avenue at a different point than originally planned and with the thruway interchange at a point further northward than originally indicated.

The arterial plan also calls for adding parts of Broadway, Wurts, McEntee and other streets to the system. They would be state-maintained streets.

IT IS EXPECTED that Taylor street would be made part of the arterial system on either a temporary or permanent basis. It is also expected that the Esopus creek bridge would be built a short distance to the west or east of the present span. It probably will not be determined for some time whether the "rotary" or traffic circle will extend to an area west of Taylor street, where surveys are known to have been made.

The Common Council last year sanctioned the arterial route plan as tentatively presented and with the provision that it may be altered in whole or part.

Due Warning

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP)—The sign above the driver's license application desk in the Kent county sheriff's department asks: "Are you next?" It also directs the applicants attention to an adjoining chart and 23 grisly photographs of fatal auto smash-ups.

Baschnagel told police that he had been pulled from the car by the two, who beat him before they drove away.

STATE POLICE located the girl at the West Park tavern and she was brought to police headquarters where she described the two young men. The Baschnagel car was later reported found in the West Park area.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John said today that Detective Brophy, supplied with a description of the two, did a good job in the investigation which led to the arrests yesterday.

Taylor . . .

passed en route to Washington.

Ridgway, approaching retirement age, was not chosen by President Eisenhower for a second two-year term as commander of the army. The general's views about the need for a continuing big army conflicted with those of Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson. The President and defense chief decided to continue reduction in army manpower. Ridgway made speeches insisting that the advent of atomic age weapons required more, not fewer soldiers.

THE WHITE HOUSE and Defense Department picked a successor to Stevens with alacrity yesterday, notifying Wilber M. Brucker of his nomination as army secretary almost within minutes of the arrival of a formal resignation from Stevens. Brucker has been general counsel of the Defense Department.

Rumors of Stevens' resignation had persisted for more than a year, ever since he fell into the prolonged and often sharp wrangle with Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) over the latter's charges that Communists were being "coddled" in the army. However, the administration apparently waited for the Stevens resignation until most of the fire had gone out of the dispute.

THERE WAS expression of regret both from the White House and Wilson, matched by Stevens' statement that he was "extremely sorry" that compelling personal reasons forced him to leave the administration.

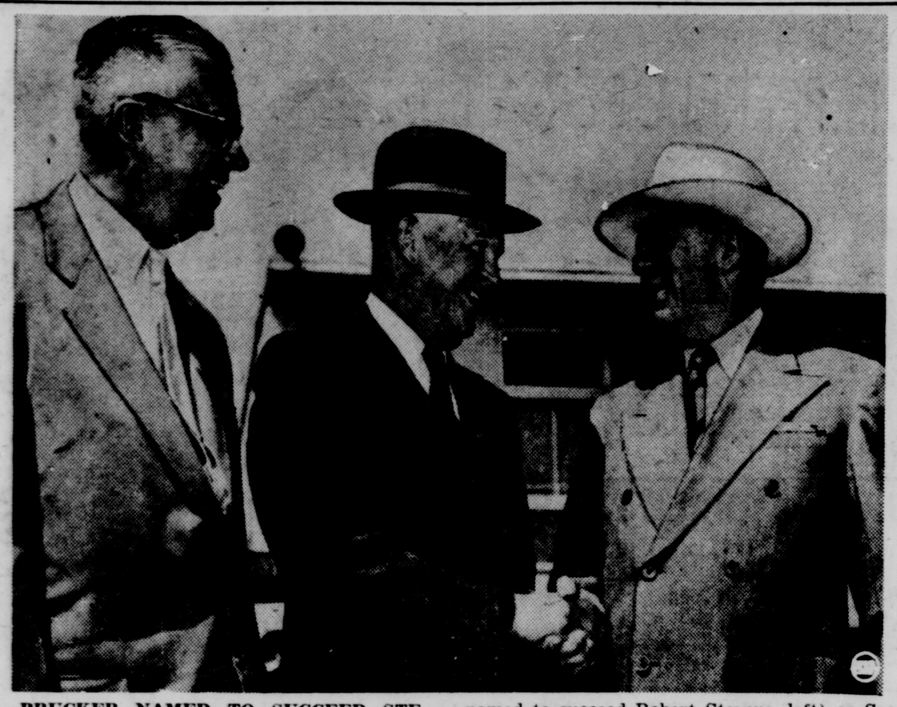
Even before the White House disclosed that the President had chosen another commander for the army, Eisenhower had dropped a broad hint that Ridgway was out of favor. At a news conference, the President referred to the general's "parochial" outlook on the question of army manpower.

BRUCKER, in a talk with newsmen yesterday afternoon, was asked if he felt there was any disadvantage in not being in a position to have a say in selecting a new army chief of staff. He replied he was delighted with the choice of Taylor, the supreme commander in the Far East.

An honor guard, composed of troops from the crack 3rd infantry regiment at nearby Ft. Myer, Va., was assigned for the welcoming ceremony for Taylor, together with the army band to play the traditional Ruffles and flourishes and the "General's March." A battery was ordered to the airport to fire the 21-gun salute for the new chief.

Taylor left Tokyo June 5. Since then he has stopped in South Korea, Formosa, Hong Kong, Burma, India and other places on his way to take up his new task.

In Asia, girls comprise only 27 per cent of the high school enrollment and in Africa, 28 per cent.



BRUCKER NAMED TO SUCCEED STEVENS — President Eisenhower, preparing to leave Washington for a trip to New England, congratulates Wilbur M. Brucker, whom he named to succeed Robert Stevens left) as Secretary of the Army. Stevens submitted his resignation because of "compelling personal reasons." (NEA Telephoto).

float and many local organizations and industries have indicated they will also be in the parade line.

It was reported that many old automobiles would also be in the parade. Also in line will be the color guards of Ellenville's veterans organizations. Father Knickerbocker is expected to arrive in town Friday and remain for the parade.

Town Clerk Edward Mance, co-chairman of the Mardi Gras committee, announced that several bands and orchestras, perhaps as many as six or seven, would play for dancing and "listening," Monday evening, July 11, when the big block dance and Mardi Gras is held on Liberty Square. The entire square is to be closed to traffic. The sesquicentennial queen will also be crowned at that time.

Trabert Easy Winner

Wimbledon, England, June 23 (AP)—Top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, ace of the U. S. Davis Cup team, gave Hugh Stewart of Los Angeles a tennis lesson and a 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 beating today in the third round of the Wimbledon championships. Trabert, American champion in 1953, needed exactly one hour to demonstrate court tactics and power hitting to the big Californian on Wimbledon's famed center court.

Many professional baseball players could raise their earning power if they wore glasses, says the Better Vision Institute.

rested for complicity in the revolt. It announced that "numerous" marines, conscripts, noncommissioned officers and officers who had been performing their duties at the Navy Ministry when the fighting broke out had been freed yesterday. The ministry was the headquarters for the Revolutionists, who mainly were navy personnel.

There was no announcement so far of how many persons had been found guilty of participating in the plot or what punishments had been allotted.

Police yesterday arrested four U. S. correspondents who were taking pictures of a church burned after last week's revolt. They were released after two hours.

16 Firemen Injured

New York, June 23 (AP)—Sixteen firemen suffered minor hurts fighting a four-alarm fire early today in a rubber warehouse on Park Place near city hall. Ten of them were treated for smoke poisoning, five for cuts and lacerations, and one for exhaustion. The smoky blaze was confined to the building of the Carlyle Rubber Co. Damage was estimated at $250,000 by fire officials.

Purchase Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore J. Aprea today announced the purchase of the cigar, stationery, and luncheonette business known as the Scafidi Cigar Store at 42 North Front street. They will continue the business under the name of Aprea's. Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Scafidi have conducted the business for more than 20 years.

The hottest thing this summer won't be the weather...

...it'll be sales! Do you know that people buy more in Summer months than most other months of the year? No wonder, since, as surveys show, more than 90% of the people are at home on an average day during the Summer! Predictions are that people this Summer will spend far above the 43 billion retail dollars they laid out so freely last Summer.

Don't miss these sales! Somebody's going to get the business...why not you? Whatever you sell, make sure you plan to promote your product or service all Summer long. Not to a few of your customers—but to everybody in the area who can possibly buy!

That, of course, means in newspapers.

There's no Summer replacement for the newspaper! People keep on reading the newspaper all Summer long. They go on buying 54 million or more copies of their newspapers daily through June, July and August.

The surest way to reach the most customers, most often, most effectively, is in the newspaper. If you haven't already planned a steady series of Summer selling ads—call us today!

NameCommitteeHeads For Library Fair

Woodstock, June 23 — New committee heads for the Library Fair, whose names have not previously been announced, are: Balloons, Kenneth Downer; Hats for Fun, Mrs. Anthony J. DeLisio and daughters, Elizabeth and Sharon; Millinery, Mrs. Lorenz Stowell and Mrs. Dorothy Wolven, and Puppets, Mrs. Rudolph Wetterau and Mrs. Walter Seaton. This brings the total to 28 for the various department heads who will help to make this the biggest and best Library Fair in its 28-year history. It will be held on its customary date, the last Thursday in July—the 28th. All have begun preparations for the event under the 1955 fair chairman, Mrs. Henry Morton Robinson, and co-chairman, Miss Anita Smith. Houston Richards will be master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Robinson reminded residents of the area to search their attics and other storage places for any articles that might be refurbished for sale at the Fair. The collection center is open in the new fair building behind the Woodstock Library from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m., Mondays.

Three Free Days At Art Gallery

Woodstock, June 23 — The Woodstock Artists Association announces that there will be three days a week when the Art Gallery will be open to the public free of charge. Until this time there has been a small charge for admission each day and a slightly larger amount for the opening parties. The free days will be Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The opening parties, for which there will continue to be an admission, are held on Saturday afternoons every two weeks during the summer.

By establishing two free days during the week and one day on the weekend, the membership hopes for increased public participation in its season's exhibitions. Dividing the week into paying and non-paying days is partially an experiment to determine the effects, if any, of the admission charge.

Another innovation this year is the opening of the gallery on Saturday from 7 to 9 p. m., affording weekend visitors an opportunity to see the exhibitions.

The jury of admissions met Wednesday, June 15, to look at the work of applicants for admission. The following people were accepted as exhibiting members on the basis of paintings they had submitted: Robert McKinney, painter; Herbert Lent, sculptor; Benjamin Karp, sculptor; Judy Small, painter; Selma Gubin, painter; Beatrice Ericson, painter; Philip Held, painter; Rose Hertzberg, painter and Marguerite Evans Isaacs, painter.

For those who did not submit at this time, but would like to become active members, there will be two more jurying dates. The next one will be July 13, and the last August 10. Each applicant should submit three paintings before noon on the dates above mentioned.

Artists Association Opens 1955 Show

Woodstock, June 23—The All Membership Show, the first of the 1955 season of the Woodstock Artists Association at the Art Gallery, opened last Saturday afternoon. Among the widely diversified works on view are Robert Angeloch's effective "Woods", Elizabeth C. Baker's sensitive portrait of a young woman; Elfriede Borkmann's skillfully handled "Flowers"; and Anslie Burke's brisk impression of "Sail Boats."

There is appeal and warmth in William J. Eisner's "Harvest Time" and a refreshing quality in William Goudaket's angular "On The Waterfront," candid charm in Mollie Higgins Smith's "Betsy" and characteristic whimsy in Sally Jacobs "The Family." Rodney Lethbridge has contributed an authentic and carefully handled painting of "Birds." Although small of stature, "An Old Fashioned Girl," a ceramic figure by Mrs. J. A. Stagg is arresting in its simplicity. "Winter Morning" by Lois Wilcox is an engaging scene.

Group Show Opens Zena Gallery

Woodstock, June 23—The Zena Gallery will open its second season, Saturday, June 25, with a group show of paintings. All of Woodstock and environs are included in the invitation to attend the opening party, admission free. Refreshments will be served from 4 to 6 p. m.

Exhibiting in the first show will be Lynfield Ott, Lillian Lent, Robert Angeloch, Herbert Lent, Carol Summers, Louis Tavelli and Eugene LaCasse, all members of the gallery. Also showing with this group will be paintings by Bruce Dorfman, a young Woodstock artist and Jay Hannah of New York. These two painters have been especially invited to exhibit in this show.

As a specal feature, Jack Ruggles, a Woodstock artist of great merit, whose work is seldom seen will be given a display of watercolors in part of the newly remodelled print and drawing room.

Also in the back room will be shown a small group of drawings, prints, watercolors and small caseins by the members.

Mt. Tobias Auxiliary Sponsors Dance, July 2

Woodstock, June 23—The Ladies Auxiliary of the Mt. Tobias Sportsmen's Club will sponsor a dance to be held Saturday, July 2 at 9 p. m., at the Odd Fellows Hall in Bearsville. Music for round and square dancing will be provided by the Saddle Tramps.

Democratic Club Picnic, June 25

Woodstock, June 23 — The Woodstock Democratic Club will have a picnic at Louis Lewis' Saturday, June 25, at 7 p. m. All members of the club are cordially invited to attend. During the picnic a service auction will be held.

Stockholders Meeting

Woodstock, June 23—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Artists' Realty Company, Inc., will be held Friday, July 8, at 8 p. m. at the Woodstock Art Gallery. Three directors will be elected for a term of three years. Reports of officers and committee chairmen will also be read.

Papers on Bus

Starting Friday, June 24, and continuing until September, copies of The Freeman for residents in the Woodstock and Bearsville areas will leave Kingston aboard the Pine Hill bus at 3:30 p. m. In September, when school buses resume operations, papers for these two areas will leave Kingston at 3 p. m.

Card Party

Woodstock, June 23—The Zena Country Club will hold a card party, Saturday, June 25, at 8:15 p. m. Refreshments will be served. Residents are invited to come with their families and friends.

Village Notes

Woodstock, June 23 — George I. Hopper underwent surgery at Benedictine Hospital Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alpern celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary Monday.

Hans Goldschmidt of New York has purchased the Kermit Schwarz property in Lake Hill and plans to make his summer home there.

Children's Day

Woodstock, June 23 — Children's Day and closing of the Sunday school for the summer at the Woodstock Methodist Church will be on Sunday, June 26, at 10:45 a. m.

Say Hopes Dampened

London, June 23 (AP)—British officials said today Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's speech at San Francisco had dampened hopes for progress at next month's Big Four talks. The officials said the Molotov proposals add up to a rehash of the old Kremlin program—with the same gimmicks—which the West found unacceptable before.

New Polio Cases Drop

Washington, June 23 (AP)—New polio cases reported over the nation last week dropped to 266 from 300 in the week before. It was the lowest total for the comparable week since 1951. The 266 cases in the week ended June 18 compared with 421 in the corresponding 1954 week. This put the total number of cases since April 1 behind the comparative 1954 figures for the first time in some weeks.

Increased Need For UJA Pledges Seen by Chairman

A warning and plea issued by the United Jewish Appeal, was echoed today by Herman G. Rafalawsky general chairman of the local drive.

The national headquarters of the drive appealed to all communities in raising funds of UJA, asserting this year's campaign may control the destinies of hundreds of thousands of refugees all over the world and particularly in Tunisia and Morocco.

THESE REFUGEES national headquarters said, are being readied for assimilation in and emigration to the State of Israel, an herculean task which involves educating them in the art of living like human beings again, in curing them from all manner of terrible diseases, and in providing the cost of the foregoing and of their relocation in Israel.

Mr. Rafalowsky said a similar opportunity existed not many years ago. "An opportunity," he said, "existed for delivering from bondage and cruel death, many, many millions of Jewish unfortunates who were prisoners in Nazi Germany, and who were fated for the gas chambers and other horrible torture racks. We failed those millions and Hitler and his ghoulish followers had a field day. This was a monumental crime in which we all participated by our apathy and our attitude, which summed up, amounted to, 'Let John do it.' Now, we are faced with a similar humanitarian opportunity, an opportunity which may never again be presented. We must not err again; and we must act quickly and expeditiously."

HE SAID that he would appeal to all those who have already pledged and those who have not given to reexamine the need for funds, and increase the pledge "as members of an army dedicated to extricate these forgotten members of the human race.

Pledges, he said, should be sent to Norman Rafalowsky, treasurer, 71 Albany avenue.

Uranium Trouble

Carrizozo, N. M. (AP)—Uranium prospectors are getting in the hair of at least one oldtimer here. He recently wrote the Lincoln County News he had paid taxes on his homestead for more than 30 years. "Received patent from the U. S. government in 1921. There was no demand for this land at that time. I fenced the land and built tanks for stock water. Now the uranium hunters have taken my place over, bulldozed holes all over the place and spooked the cattle away from water tanks. Just what can the poor homesteader expect from good old Uncle Sam?" (Modern homesteaders acquire only surface rights to their land).

New Hurley

New Hurley, June 22—The Oakwood Youth Conference will begin Sunday, June 26 at 4 p. m. Some young people are planning to go from here.

The Missionary Society June tea will be held in the New Hurley Reformed Church Thursday, June 30, at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Paul Arnold will be the guest speaker. Neighboring societies are invited to attend.

Moving up day will be observed in the New Hurley Sunday school next Sunday at 10 a. m. All groups will meet in the church for a joint worship service.

The Classis of Orange met in special session Sunday evening at Callicoon Center to ordain Warren Martens and install him as pastor of the Callicoon Center and Youngsville Reformed Churches. The Rev. John W. Tysse, pastor of the New Hurley Reformed Church, is president of the Classis.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell called at the home of John Emeneker and family at Leptondale on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Myra Dolan and Miss Bertha Sutton called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hall at Grahamsville on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Beatty and daughter Irva of New Paltz called on Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Beatty recently.

Mrs. Libbie Terpening, Mrs. Doris Warren and children of Highland called on Mrs. Floyd Beatty on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beatty of Clintondale, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Terpening of Highland called on Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Beatty on Sunday.

Junior choir rehearsal will be held on Thursday at 6:45 p. m. and senior choir at 7:30 p. m. at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schoonmaker are the parents of a daughter born Tuesday at St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh. She has been named Marty Lynn.

Mrs. Mary Murgittroyd entertained relatives at her home on Saturday afternoon.

Boy Deputy

Louisville, Ky. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who visited here as national Selective Service director, was a deputy sheriff when he first visited Louisville 42 years ago. His father, he said, was sheriff of a northern Indiana county. "The office wasn't big enough for two men, and too large for one, so my father put a boy in the job of deputy," he said.

Increased Need For UJA Pledges Seen by Chairman

A warning and plea issued by the United Jewish Appeal, was echoed today by Herman G. Rafalawsky general chairman of the local drive.

The national headquarters of the drive appealed to all communities in raising funds of UJA, asserting this year's campaign may control the destinies of hundreds of thousands of refugees all over the world and particularly in Tunisia and Morocco.

THESE REFUGEES national headquarters said, are being readied for assimilation in and emigration to the State of Israel, an herculean task which involves educating them in the art of living like human beings again, in curing them from all manner of terrible diseases, and in providing the cost of the foregoing and of their relocation in Israel.

Mr. Rafalowsky said a similar opportunity existed not many years ago. "An opportunity," he said, "existed for delivering from bondage and cruel death, many, many millions of Jewish unfortunates who were prisoners in Nazi Germany, and who were fated for the gas chambers and other horrible torture racks. We failed those millions and Hitler and his ghoulish followers had a field day. This was a monumental crime in which we all participated by our apathy and our attitude, which summed up, amounted to, 'Let John do it.' Now, we are faced with a similar humanitarian opportunity, an opportunity which may never again be presented. We must not err again; and we must act quickly and expeditiously."

HE SAID that he would appeal to all those who have already pledged and those who have not given to reexamine the need for funds, and increase the pledge "as members of an army dedicated to extricate these forgotten members of the human race.

Pledges, he said, should be sent to Norman Rafalowsky, treasurer, 71 Albany avenue.

Uranium Trouble

Carrizozo, N. M. (AP)—Uranium prospectors are getting in the hair of at least one oldtimer here. He recently wrote the Lincoln County News he had paid taxes on his homestead for more than 30 years. "Received patent from the U. S. government in 1921. There was no demand for this land at that time. I fenced the land and built tanks for stock water. Now the uranium hunters have taken my place over, bulldozed holes all over the place and spooked the cattle away from water tanks. Just what can the poor homesteader expect from good old Uncle Sam?" (Modern homesteaders acquire only surface rights to their land).

New Hurley

New Hurley, June 22—The Oakwood Youth Conference will begin Sunday, June 26 at 4 p. m. Some young people are planning to go from here.

Soup's On

Des Moines, Iowa (AP)—A male customer was browsing through a grocery. The company's courtesy campaign was on. A cashier asked if she could help. He wanted to know where the can openers were kept. She showed him, and went to other duties. He picked up a can opener, went to the soup counter, selected a can, opened it, drank it, put the can opener back, went to the cashier's counter, paid for the soup—and asked the cashier to dispose of the empty can.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Baseball and all other games are played according to rules. Toss out the rules,—no baseball, nor other games.

Freedom of Enterprise has been played according to the rules of the Constitution. Toss them out: What have we left?

Mr. Hutton

We have the highest batting average ever known under the Constitutional rules of Free Enterprise for 164 years, less twenty years of New Deal deals. Now we are facing galloping Socialism,—which is perfumed Communism, to cover up the stench. Unless it is checked, Uncle Sam is finished!

The Socialistic tide is rising. The Federal Government controls and operates about 45 billion dollars' worth of manufacturing, merchandising, banking and other activities. It is deeper in the insurance business than all our insurance companies put together. It is competing with its own taxpayers. It is a little known fact that the Federal Government owns one-fourth of all the land in the 48 states, paid for by your tax money and deficit financing.

Neighbor, you could go on to tell me that "All this is foolish and unsound, but must be accepted as the established way of life."

Stop kidding! Let's return to the sound fundamentals of this Republic. Let's play ball according to rules. Let's conduct the Free Enterprise System according to Constitutional regulations —EQUALITY OF JUSTICE BEFORE THE LAW,—not INEQUALITY.

If you don't like the way things are going, and will end, tell your Congressmen, neighbor! You are a part of his pay check; tell him so.

TROOP 90

Having fulfilled all the membership requirements 17 girls were invested as Senior Scouts of Troop 90 at the final meeting of the school year. Mrs. Frank Graney was guest speaker for the ceremony which was held in the Living Center of the Vocational Building at the high school. After the Investiture, refreshments were served.

The program committee in charge of planning the Investiture were Carol Kinkade, Nancy Dewitt, Mary Ann Richards, Kathleen Byrne, Carolee Leware, Mary McDermott, Gail Pieper.

The following girls received their Senior Scout pins—Elaine Svenet, Gail Pieper, Emily Bight, Carol Rylance, Kathleen Byrne, Carolee Leware, Nancy Dewitt, Lorraine Etienne, Betty Marina, Gayle Keator, Carolyn Scism, Mary Ann Richards, Alma Senor, Carol Kincade, Kari Storhaug, Mary McDermott, Helen McDermott.

Carol Rylance, Kingston High School student and member of the troop, who has been chosen as an exchange student to spend the summer abroad was given a farewell gift.

BROWNIE TROOP 72

Brownie Troop 72, Church of Comforter, held a Fly-Up Ceremony on Tuesday night, June 14, at which Bonnie Abbott, Bonnie Bellowes, Joan Demskie, Linda Rhymer, Ruth Ann Stephens were awarded their wings by Mrs. Howard Stephens, assistant leader. An Investiture was then held by Mrs. Donald Wood, leader of Intermediate Troop 62, who presented them with their Girl Scout pins and welcomed them into her troop. Year pins were presented to Bonnie Abbott, Linda Baechtle, Joan Demskie, Linda Hornbeck.

TROOP 62

Year pins presented by Miss Ruth Kelley to Elaine Baechtle, Kathryn Bollen, Sharon Carney, Lucille Clark, Loretta Coale, Linda Conlin, Lois Gibbs, Nancy Glennon, Anne Hallinan, Alma Hatcher, Toine Lefsen, Jeanne McElrath, Joyce McElrath, Beatrice Melbert, Leonalds Palmer. Five year pins presented to Joan Dunbar, Judy Van Bramer.

Presentation of badges by Mrs. Donald Wood: Lucille Clark, Joan Dunbar, Anne Hallenan, clothing, troop dramatics; Judy Van Bramer, clothing, clerk; Lois Gibbs, group musician; Loretta Coale, clothing; Linda Conlin, clothing.

It was announced that Judy VanBramer would be leaving Intermediate Scouting to enter the senior troop. Senior Scout Nancy DeWitt was present to welcome Judy as a new member.

Several songs were sung by the Scouts and a one act play was presented by Lucille Clark, Joan Dunbar and Ann Hallenan.

Title Prediction?

Cherry Grove Beach, S. C. (AP)—After Hurricane Hazel struck here last October there was little left of the Cherry Grove Hotel and a 700-volume library maintained for guests. Recently the owners, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Pfaff, were supervising work on the sand dunes around the rebuilt hotel and noticed the corner of a water-soaked book, all but buried. The title "Gone With the Wind."

Beaten-Up Car

Greenville, S. C. (AP)—When a customer brought a well-battered car to a dealer and asked for a price on it in exchange for a new one, the dealer looked, winced and named a rock-bottom price. To the dealer's amzement, the customer replied "I'll take it." Seems he had become angry at the running eccentricities of the car and had beaten the windows out of it with a baseball bat.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Discard Better Than Ruff Trick

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

West's energetic bidding in today's hand was perfectly proper and sound. At worst he could hope to take his six diamonds and a heart or two, and he had honors to reduce the loss at his sacrifice bid of five diamonds. If he had been doubled at five diamonds, he would have been set only two tricks, thanks to his partner's queen of hearts, and the loss would have been only 200 points.

South didn't expect to collect much with his black two-suiter against West's announced red two-suiter. Hence South boldly went on to five spades. West then passed, knowing that he had pushed the enemy to the danger point.

West opened the king of diamonds, holding the first trick, and continued with the ace of diamonds. It was at the second trick that South had the chance to show whether or not he was a bridge player.

South rose to the occasion by discarding a low heart on the ace of diamonds. Now West could not profitably lead a third diamond, since dummy would save the day by ruffing with the five of spades. No matter what else West led, declarer could win, draw all of the trumps, and then run the clubs. There was no way for the defenders to defeat the contract.

South's play at the second trick cost him nothing, of course. No matter how the hand developed, South was sure to lose a heart trick sooner or later. The important point of the play was that it allowed declarer to keep all four of his trumps.

If South had ruffed the ace of diamonds at the second trick, he would have been defeated. With only three trumps left, he couldn't draw East's trumps. The hand would collapse, and South would have to play carefully to go down only one trick.

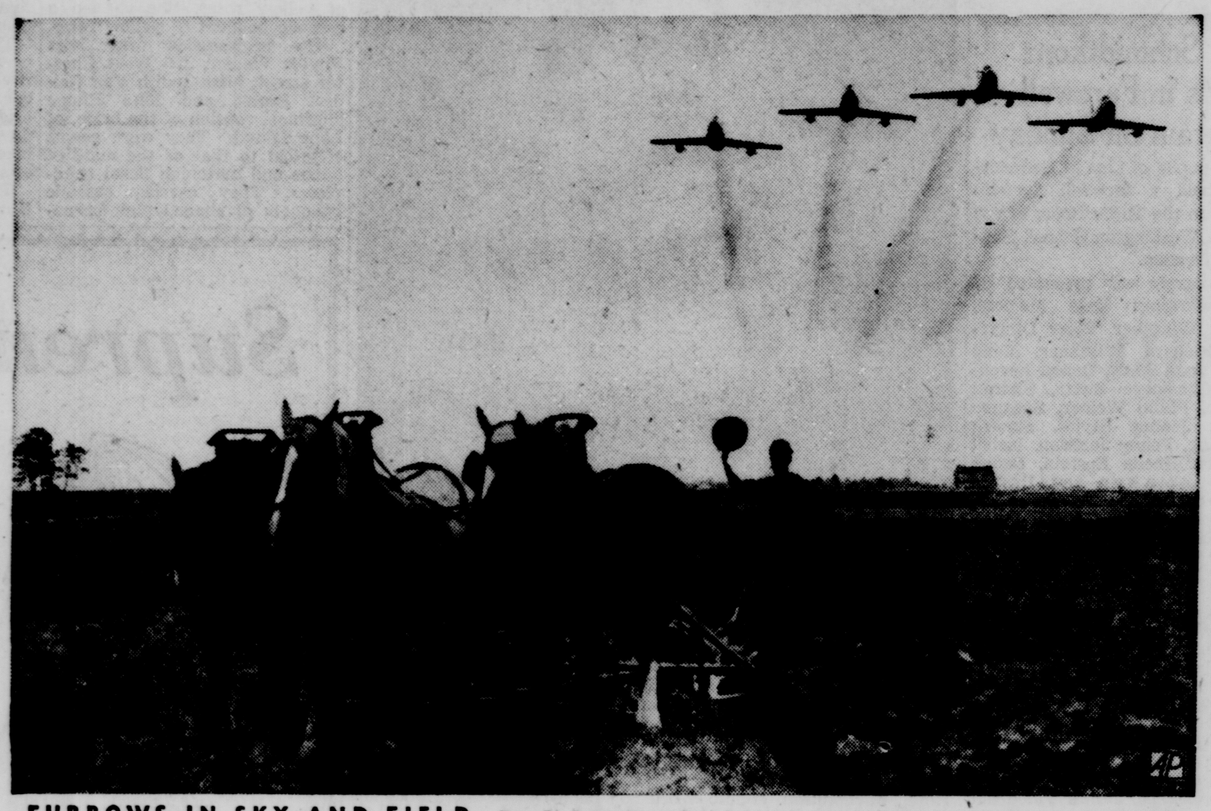
COMING DOWN HARD— With one bump behind him after hitting a hill crest, motorcyclist R. McIntyre has a rougher one coming up in a race on Britain's Isle of Man.

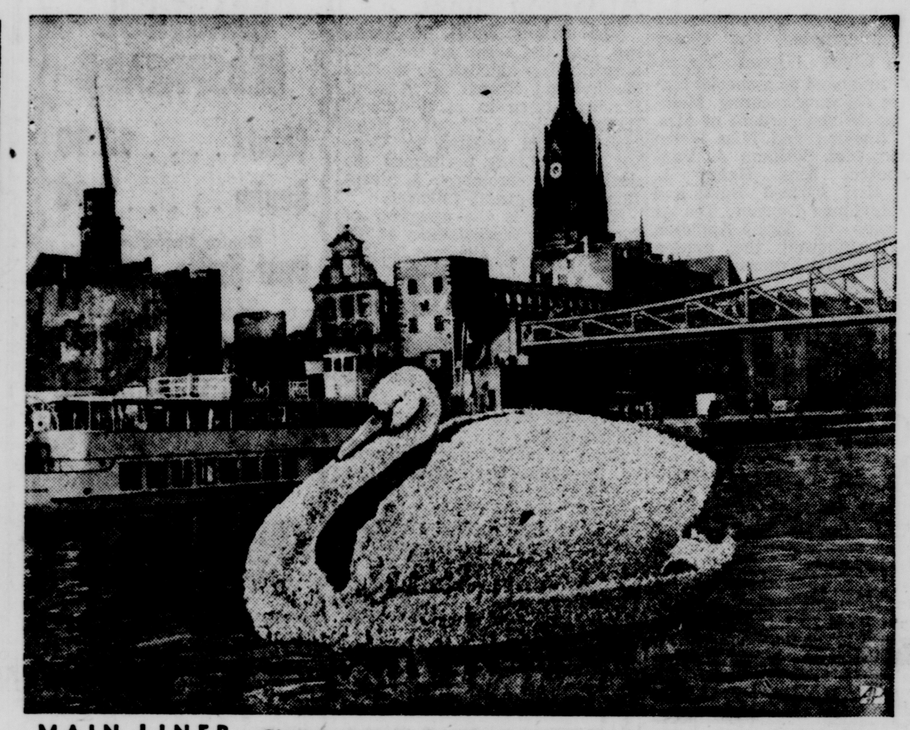


FURROWS IN SKY AND FIELD— Four U. S. Air Force F-86 Sabrejets skim over the countryside near Chaumont, France, leaving smoke trails similar to the furrows of the farmer's plow below. Planes are from Statue of Liberty Air Wing.

STOVEPIPE BRIGADE— Bazookas form chimney-like pattern as Italian troops carry weapons in Rome during parade marking ninth anniversary of Italian Republic.

OPTICAL ILLUSION— Figure of St. Anthony of Padua in a painting appears to be watching Costante Crovatto select stones for a mosaic in his College Point, N. Y., workshop.

JEWELED HAT—Diamond sunburst pin set within a pink flower mounted on a bandeau of black organza is the key feature of a tiny hat shown in Paris, France.



MAIN LINER— Giant swan made of artificial flowers and mounted on a river boat floats down the Main River in Frankfurt, Germany, to advertise an Austrian flower festival.

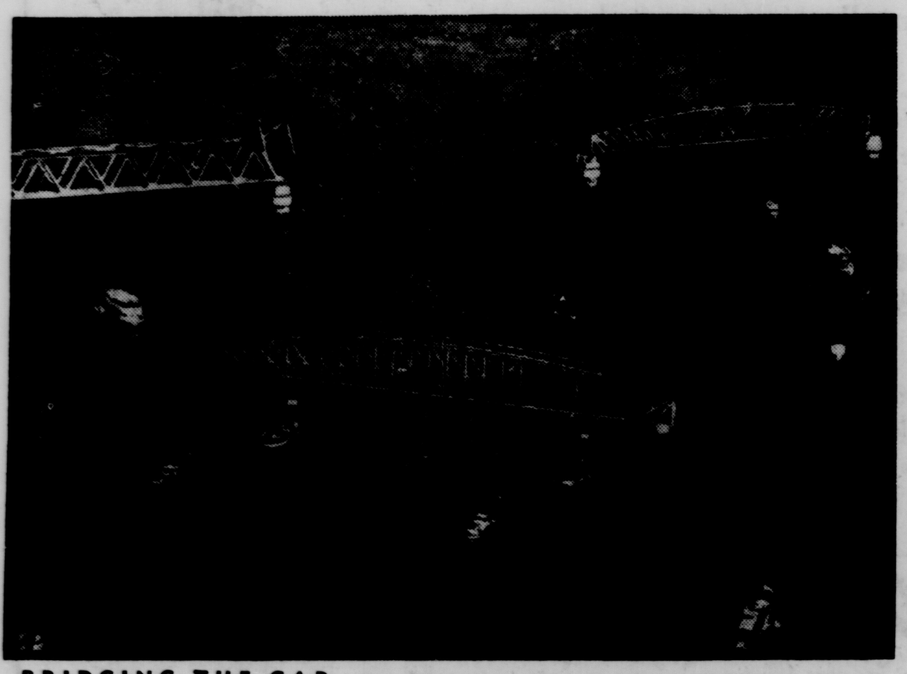
TOOLED TOUCH— Madrid craftsman Ignazio Montoya fashions leather helmet to be worn by actor Richard Burton for film "Alexander the Great" on location in Spain.

ONE AMONG MANY— Helen Humphreys of Hollywood, sole female undergraduate among 1,072 men in the University of Southern California's School of Engineering, prepares solution for chemistry laboratory experiment in Los Angeles.

COPIED FOR MOVIE— Reproductions of two Berlin landmarks, the Brandenburg Gate, background, and facade of Adlon Hotel, are built for a new West German film. Real Brandenburg Gate could not be used because it borders Russian zone and is in dilapidated condition.

GOTHAM'S GAL— Barbara Wilkin holds her crown in New York after being chosen over 23 other Broadway actresses as Queen of New York City 1955 Summer Festival.

RARE PERFORMANCE— Comedian Jerry Lewis and his wife, a former performer who retired after marriage, sing duet at Loch Sheldrake, N. Y., during impromptu hotel show.



BRIDGING THE GAP— Rebuilding of the Moerdyk railway bridge over Holland's Diep River nears completion as a span is towed into place in the gateway to Belgium and France.

GUARDED GUARDIAN— A highly-trained scout dog and its U. S. Army handler wear gas masks while on the alert during mock gas attack in West Germany maneuvers.

CALL TO ARMS— Trumpeters lead a procession through Pisa, Italy, street prior to the annual "bridge contest," a mock battle fought on the Central Bridge over the River Arno.

Miss Werbalowsky, Robert Ronder Wed At Granit Hotel

The Granit Hotel, Kerhonkson, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Marilyn A. Werbalowsky and Robert A. Ronder, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel assisted by Cantor Julian Lohre performed the double ring ceremony. A reception for 220 guests followed.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Isadore Werbalowsky of 109 Hone street and the late Isadore Werbalowsky. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Ronder of 85 Johnston avenue and Woodstock.

Art Kahn and his Nevele orchestra provided traditional wedding music. A canopy of pink and white gladioli and ferns and plants were the decorations in the hotel.

Given in marriage by her brother, Seymour Werbalowsky, and her mother, the bride wore a gown of white Skinner satin and Chantilly lace fashioned with a fitted bodice and hoop skirt which terminated in a train. A veil of French silk illusion was attached to a crown with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a Bible covered with white orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Charles Ronder, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, of 261 Pearl street, was matron of honor. She wore a cocktail length gown of peacock green silk shantung with fitted bodice and full skirt, and a matching headpiece of yellow roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Phyllis Weiner, 106 West Chester street, Miss Judith Van Gelder, Bronx, and Miss Elaine Hoffman, cousion of the bride, of Long Island. They wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor and matching floral headpieces. They carried cascade bouquets of shaded pink carnations and roses.

Howard Honig of 309 Albany avenue served as best man. The ushers were Seth Dubin, New York city, Jay Kravitsky, New Jersey, Barry Grandeau, Poughkeepsie, and Walter Steindler, cousin of the bridegroom of Long Island.

The couple left for Burmuda by plane where they will spend twelve days at the Castle Harbor Hotel. For traveling, the bride chose a blue print sheath dress with matching jacket and black accessories with a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1951, and of New York State College for Teachers, Albany, class of 1955. She was president of Alpha Epsilon Phi and Sigma Phi Sigma, social sororities at the college.

Mr. Ronder graduated from New York Military Academy, Cornwall, in June, 1949, and from Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, in June, 1953, where he was active in school government. He is a senior at Columbia Law School, New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronder will spend the summer at 85 Johnston avenue, leaving for New York city in the fall where the bridegroom will continue school.

Miss Werbalowsky, Robert Ronder Wed At Granit Hotel

The Granit Hotel, Kerhonkson, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Marilyn A. Werbalowsky and Robert A. Ronder, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel assisted by Cantor Julian Lohre performed the double ring ceremony. A reception for 220 guests followed.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Isadore Werbalowsky of 109 Hone street and the late Isadore Werbalowsky. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Ronder of 85 Johnston avenue and Woodstock.

Art Kahn and his Nevele orchestra provided traditional wedding music. A canopy of pink and white gladioli and ferns and plants were the decorations in the hotel.

Given in marriage by her brother, Seymour Werbalowsky, and her mother, the bride wore a gown of white Skinner satin and Chantilly lace fashioned with a fitted bodice and hoop skirt which terminated in a train. A veil of French silk illusion was attached to a crown with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a Bible covered with white orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Charles Ronder, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, of 261 Pearl street, was matron of honor. She wore a cocktail length gown of peacock green silk shantung with fitted bodice and full skirt, and a matching headpiece of yellow roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Phyllis Weiner, 106 West Chester street, Miss Judith Van Gelder, Bronx, and Miss Elaine Hoffman, cousion of the bride, of Long Island. They wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor and matching floral headpieces. They carried cascade bouquets of shaded pink carnations and roses.

Howard Honig of 309 Albany avenue served as best man. The ushers were Seth Dubin, New York city, Jay Kravitsky, New Jersey, Barry Grandeau, Poughkeepsie, and Walter Steindler, cousin of the bridegroom of Long Island.

The couple left for Burmuda by plane where they will spend twelve days at the Castle Harbor Hotel. For traveling, the bride chose a blue print sheath dress with matching jacket and black accessories with a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1951, and of New York State College for Teachers, Albany, class of 1955. She was president of Alpha Epsilon Phi and Sigma Phi Sigma, social sororities at the college.

Mr. Ronder graduated from New York Military Academy, Cornwall, in June, 1949, and from Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, in June, 1953, where he was active in school government. He is a senior at Columbia Law School, New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronder will spend the summer at 85 Johnston avenue, leaving for New York city in the fall where the bridegroom will continue school.

CONFERENCE-BOUND — Vacations will have to wait—these Y members have a conference to attend to first. Leaving for Bridgeport, Conn., Sunday for a week-long YWCA Y-Teen summer conference are, seated on floor, Jackie Wiegert, seated on couch, Susan Parmelee, Mrs. John Overdurf, So-Y'se club advisor; Karen Byrne and Myrna Donaldson. (Freeman photo)

Four Y-Teens Leave Sunday for Summer Y Conference

Four Y-Teens of the Kingston YWCA will leave Sunday for the Y-Teen Summer Conference. This year the conference is being held at the University of Bridgeport, Conn.

Other delegates, 250, will come from YWCA Associations located in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and New England.

The theme of the Y-Teen Summer Conference will be, "It's Our World Tomorrow," a peaceful world, an understanding world, a friendly world, a healthy world, and a happy world.

Both adult leadership and teen-agers helped in evolving the theme, with planning meetings. At the conference, delegates will work in discussion groups to apply these objectives to their own club groups, associations, and finally to carry them into their community life, thereby becoming more responsible citizens, and members of the community in which they live.

Delegates from Tri-Hi will be Jackie Wiegert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Wiegert Sr., and Myrna Donaldson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Todd.

Delegates from So Y'se will be Karen Byrne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Byrne, and Susan Parmelee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Parmelee.

Accompanying the girls as adult leader, will be Mrs. John Overdurf, advisor to the So Y'se Club.

Mrs. Overdurf has accepted the conference responsibility of discussion group leader. The topic assignment for this group will be "Club Clinic." The purpose of the club clinic is to provide Y-Teen delegates with an appropriate and informal setting where they can talk over their club activities and exchange ideas with girls from other associations about program, club problems, and ways of work. It is also a time for girls to become more familiar with the YWCA and its total program, and for them to know each other better.

Parker Lansdale, Boy's Worker of the New Haven, Conn. YMCA will be the main speaker throughout the conference. Mr. Lansdale is well known throughout the area and the state for his work with teen-agers and for his understanding of their needs and concerns.

The music director for the conference will be Miss Capitola Dickerson of Summit, N. J. Miss Dickerson has worked for several years with music groups at the Summit YWCA. She will lead all group singing at assemblies and conduct the music workshop.

Mrs. Yee-ling Fong, former Teen-age Program Director at the Hong Kong, China, YWCA will be the international guest, and will be on campus for the duration of the conference. She and her husband live in New Haven where he attends Yale University. They arrived in the United States this year.

The conference will close at 9:30 a. m. Friday, July 1.

H. E. Timmerman Graduation Speaker At William and Mary

H. E. TIMMERMAN

The Norfolk Division of the College of William and Mary held its 25th commencement exercises Monday, June 13. The principal address was delivered by H. Edgar Timmerman, West Shokan, director of the division.

Mr. Timmerman came to the Division in 1930 at the request of Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, then president of the College of William and Mary. He remained until 1932 at which time he moved to New York city. He accepted the position of Dean of Students at James Monroe High School.

In World War 2, Mr. Timmerman served in the army for four years as a major in the military intelligence division. Since 1950, when he retired from academic life, Mr. Timmerman has resided in West Shokan, New York where he is a practicing attorney. He is also Acting Deputy Director of Civil Defense for Ulster county. (Lipgar photo)

MRS. WILLIAM JAMES MILLS, the former Janet Shirley Haines of this city, whose wedding took place Sunday afternoon at New Central Baptist Church. (Photo Workshop photo)

Miss Janet Haines, William J. Mills Nuptials Are Held

The wedding of Miss Janet Shirley Haines and William James Mills was solemized Sunday at 2 p. m. in New Central Baptist Church. The Rev. Oscar Palmer, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Thomas Haines of 57 Gill street and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Eva Daniels of Hasbrouck avenue.

The soloist, Miss Dorothy Marable, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Jeannette Washington accompanied the soloist on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of rosepoint lace, styled with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her bouffant floor length skirt of nylon tulle was trimmed with tiers of matching lace. Her matching bridal cap trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins secured her fingertip length French illusion veil. Che carried a Bible covered with white roses.

Mrs. Joan Marshall of 54 Ann street was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a gown of mimosa yellow in crystallette nylon net fashioned with a draped bodice, bouffant floor length skirt, and a bustle back. A draped stole and a large picture hat completed her ensemble. She carried a nosegay.

The bridesmaids were Miss Vergie Harris of 43 Gage street, Miss Rosetta Jackson, 11 Sycamore street, Miss Rose Crispell, 61 Van Buren street, and Mrs. Maggie Burris, 581 Broadway. They wore ballerina length gowns of blue, lavender, pink and mint with matching picture hats and carried nosegays.

The flower girl was Miss Debra Ann Marshall, niece of the bride, who wore a frock of pink lace over nylon net with a bouffant floor length skirt. She carried a nosegay.

Alfonso Williams, brother of the bridegroom, of Meadow street, served as best man. The ushers were Lester Hymes, 8 Martin Lane, Curtis Van De Mark, 31 East Union street, David Lindsey, 58 Meadow street, and Robert Marshall, 54 Ann street.

A reception was held at the Lawton Park clubhouse for 300 guests following the ceremony.

For the wedding trip to New York city, the bride chose a blue and avocado dress with white and avocado accessories. On their return they will make their home at 57 Gill street, with the bride's father.

The bride, a Kingston High School graduate, class of 1952, is employed in the office of Barclay Knitwear, Co., Inc.

Miss Julia Gambino, Walter Lane Wed In Saugerties Rites

Saugerties, June 23 — Miss Julia Gambino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gambino of Second street, Saugerties, was united in marriage to Walter Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Lane of Lebanon, Pa., Sunday, June 19 at 2 p. m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Matthew F. Malloy, former assistant pastor at St. Mary's Church. Father Malloy is now serving a parish in Yonkers.

John Keeley, Jr., soloist, sang "Mother At Thy Feet Is Kneeling" and "Mother Beloved" to the accompaniment of Mrs. William C. Plimley, organist who also played the traditional nuptial refrains.

The bride given in marriage by her father was attired in a gown of white satin and lace with a long train. Her headpiece consisted of a crown of rhinestones and pearls in blossom design which supported a fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Sister of the bride, Mrs. Mary Salisbury, served as matron of honor and wore a satin gown of shrimp with net ruffles, silver flowers and hoop. Her headpiece consisted of a matching crown and she carried a bouquet of shrimp colored roses.

The bridesmaids included Miss Lorraine Salisbury of Saugerties; Miss Dolores Guido of East Kingston; Miss Mary Priest of East Kingston and Miss Virginia Hazzard of Catskill. All wore gowns of fine ruffles with hoops and matching crown headpieces, one in baby blue with a bouquet of dark blue carnations, one in lavender with matching bouquet, one in yellow with matching bouquet and one in aqua with matching bouquet.

Nephew of the bride, Stephen Salisbury served as child ringbearer and wore a white jacket with black trousers.

Niece of the bride, Diana Gambino served as flower girl and wore a nile green dress with ruffles and a crown headpiece and shoes to match.

Brother-in-law of the bride, Elting Salisbury served as best man and the ushers included Harry France, Joseph Mains, Frank Gambion, Peter Zimerack, John Gambion Jr. and Joseph Gambion Jr. All the men in the bridal party wore white jackets and black trousers.

Following the ceremony a reception for 300 guests was held in the VFW Hall on Livingston street.

For the wedding journey to Niagara Falls and Canada the bride chose for her traveling ensemble a white nylon dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Th bride attended Saugerties High School and is employed with Robert Friedman Frocks in Saugerties.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Lebanon High School, Lebanon, Pa., is employed with Blue Ribbon Cleaners in Saugerties.

Says Faith Only Hope

San Francisco, June 23 (AP)—The Christian faith is the only hope for world unity, said Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) last night to delegates of the 16th biennial convention of the International Young People's Luther League. Judd said any unity based on a fear of communism would pass if communism collapsed, so there must be another answer to world peace.

Fraternal Youth League Opens 4th Season Monday at Stadium

Rotary Opposes Police; Newell to Face Corkery

Seven Teams Set For 1955 Season

The Rotary meets the Kingston Patrolmen's Association in the fourth annual opener of the Fraternal Youth Baseball League Monday at 6:15 at Dietz Memorial Stadium.

Appropriate ceremonies, including a parade of the baseball players, will be held in conjunction, President Lou Sapp has announced.

THE FYL, which produced the National Junior champions at the Bridgeport tournament last season, will again operate with seven teams.

The field includes the two-time champion Elks Club, Volunteer Firemen, Kiwanis, Kingston Patrolmen's Association, Rotary, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Secondary openers are carded Tuesday between VFW and Kiwanis; American Legion vs. Volunteer Firemen on Wednesday and Police against the Elks Club on Thursday.

MANAGER LOU Sapp of Rotary is expected to start his ace right hander, Terry Corkery against the KPA's southpaw ace, Glen Newell.

Bill Mahoney assists Sapp as coach of the Rotary squad. Len Ellsworth will manage the Police squad, with Joe Kivlan as coach.

The personnel of the Rotary squad includes Charlie Baxter, Terry Corkery, Joe Avnet, Tom Oulton, Terry Kelly, Tom Mickney, Bill Kelly, Ronnie Quarantino, Don Juhl, Lee Kias, Ray Spadafora, Anthony Teece, John Senkowitz, James Dickson and James Massa.

THE POLICE team will go with Ronald Pratt, Richard Marrus, Abe Levy, Darrel Myers, Ronnie Prosser, Bob Hoffman, Norm Heppner, Bill Ryan, Mark Dean, Gene Spada, George Norton, Gene Nagele, Glen Newell and Frank Weishaupt.

The schedule for the first two weeks:

June 27—Rotary vs. Police.
June 28—Vets vs. Kiwanis.
June 29—Legion vs. Elks Club.
July 5—Vols vs. Rotary.
July 6—Vets vs. Legion.
July 7—Elks vs. Kiwanis.

Moore Earns Shot at Marciano With 3rd Round Kayo

IBC President Says Heavyweight Title Fight Next

Combination Punch Demolishes Olson

The 38-year-old light heavyweight champion wrote "success" to his long campaign for a crack at the undefeated Brockton blaster with three punches. The right, right and left to the jaw demolished middleweight king Bobo Olson in 1:19 of the third round at the steaming Polo Grounds last night and set aging Archie on the path to a September title scrap.

"I guess that's it, the end of my long campaign," said the teeth-flashing Moore. "They can't duck me now. Marciano is a great fighter. But any man I can hit, I can lick—and there's not a man I can't hit. That goes for Marciano. I think I can beat him and knock him out."

THERE'S STILL a little dickering to do before a Marciano-Moore fight is signed and sealed but promoter Jim Morris left no doubt as to what's coming next:

"It's got to be those two," said the president of the International Boxing Club, "it will draw three-quarters of a million dollars. I'll sit down and talk to Al Weill (Marciano's manager) and Charley Johnston (Moore's manager) in the next few days."

Marciano, who watched the fight on television at his Brockton home, said "there's no question that arrangements will be made for me to defend my crown against Moore in September."

WHILE MOORE was looking ahead to the "climax fight of my career," crestfallen Bobo, beaten for the first time in over three years, moved back into his own division. He didn't even wait around long enough to talk to newsmen, but rushed from the ballpark to Idlewild Field for a plane to San Francisco.

The first real hard blow of the fight started the blown-up middleweight king on the way out. It was a jarring right to the jaw that shook Bobo from head to heels. Another swift right thudded against Bobo's jaw and then a left hook dropped the jiggling Hawaiian on his back.

HE TURNED sideways and tried desperately to get to his feet. But his brain was numbed and his legs wouldn't respond as Referee Ruby Goldstein tolled the full count.

Nothing much had happened in the first two rounds except that Olson, heaviest of his career at 170¼ pounds, backed and sidestepped away instead of piling on the pressure as he normally does. Archie went after him, but he didn't catch him real good until the fatal third.

It appeared an easy win for the 175-pound Moore, but he said "No, it wasn't. It was experience that did it. I trapped him. It was the fruit of my 20 years of experience."

It was the second knockout loss of Olson's career and his seventh defeat in 70 fights. Moore ran his victory streak to 21. His record is 120-19-5 with 82 kayos.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have eight bachelors — Bob Friend, Nick Koback, Jack Shepard, Bob Clemente, Jerry Lynch, Gene Freese, Dick Groat and Tom Saffell.

Herdegen Memorial's Second Round Slated at Shawangunk

49 Players Tee Off In Saturday Round

Second round action in the Herdegen Memorial golf tournament starts Saturday at 12 noon at the Shawangunk Club in Ellenville with 48 golfers in pursuit of Clarence "Dubby" Raichle, the first round leader.

Raichle put together nines of 34 and 35 to take a two-stroke lead over runnerup Bill Van Aken in the opening round at the Woodstock Country Club.

The 18-hole finals are carded Sunday at 10 a. m. at Twaalfskill. The low 27 players qualify for the finals.

The revised schedule for Saturday:

Babe Didrickson Due Back in September

Galveston, Tex., June 23 (AP)—Golfer Babe Didrickson Zaharias, 41, today was expected to return to golf in about three months following an operation to remove a damaged spinal disc.

The Babe was resting comfortably following the 3½-hour surgery at John Sealy Hospital yesterday.

Her doctor, S. R. Snodgrass, said, "the disc was removed and no fusion was needed, which means she will be able to get back to her golfing in about three months."

Dr. Snodgrass emphasized that the spinal surgery was in no way connected with the successful cancer operation she underwent in 1953.

Mrs. Zaharias is thought to have injured her back pushing a stuck auto about three months ago.

Van Aken Leads Hole-in-One for Cancer Campaign

Bill Van Aken's mark of 3 feet 1 inch continued to lead the men's division of the Hole-In-One tournament today for the benefit of the Cancer Drive at Kessman's driving range. The tournament ends tonight with the awarding of prizes.

Last night's driving produced a shot of 9 feet 8 inches by Rodney Osterhoudt. Joe Ausanio and Hal Nelson had drives of 9 feet 9 inches.

THE WOMEN'S DIVISION was led last night by Mrs. William Vozdik with 19 feet 4 inches and Mrs. Gabe Vozdick with 20 feet 4 inches.

Mrs. Ruth Vozdik leads the distaff department with 11 feet 2 inches.

Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill pro, gave a half-hour demonstration last night, and Dave McMeeker, Wiltwyck's new pro, and Clarence "Dubby" Raichle, currently leading the Herdegen Memorial tournament will give exhibitions tonight at 8 oclock, according to Charles Rinschler of the Cancer committee.

Grayson Sure of DP: Durocher to Cards, Rigney to Giants

NEA Writer Says Leo Definitely Finished at PG

Figures Resignation To Take Cardinal Post

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor ..

New York, June 23 — Leo Durocher definitely is out as manager of the Giants.

A good bet is that Durocher, controversial man of many baseball lives, once more will land right side up, this time as manager of the Cardinals.

Bill Rigney, bespectacled former shortstop who has the New York club's Minneapolis farm club out in front in the American Association, is expected to be named the Giants' new manager any day now. It was more than the exhibition game between the Giants and Millers that took Horace C. Stoneham to Minneapolis.

DUROCHER IS friendly with August A. Busch, Jr., who is as dissatisfied with the St. Louis club as Stoneham is with the shocking decline in New York.

Busch seeks an established major league manager, was vastly impressed with Durocher's manipulating and World Series performance last season. Gussie goes for The Lip's flamboyancy and Hollywood touch. Sometime back it was reported that Durocher was to land an agency for the beer brewed by the Red Bird's owner.

When Harry Walker succeeded Eddie Stanky as the Cardinal's pilot not long ago, nothing was said about Dixie's kid brother being anything more than a stop gap.

IT WOULD not be surprising to see Durocher resign his post at the Polo Grounds. That would give everybody an out and enable The Lip to negotiate with Busch.

Durocher has a rich St. Louis background, formerly resided there and it was at Sportsman's Park, now Busch Stadium, that he played his finest shortstop for the celebrated Gas House Gang of 1934.

Concern about a long hard summer at the Polo Grounds prompted Stoneham to move. The Giants have drawn 480,000 to date, but far in the ruck and flirting with the second division, two remaining series—six games—with the Dodgers is about all the front office has to look forward to in the way of Harlem turnstile spin. Once again Brooklyn fans have to come to the rescue of the Giants.

DUROCHER'S trouble in a great measure stems from the fact that he treats baseball as though it were a part-time job. As the result of their smashing success in 1954, too many of the Giants have too many outside interests. Durocher is seen on television and subway advertisements every time you turn around.

When the Giants are home, Durocher is at the park early enough, but sits at his desk and holds court for Hollywood friends. He doesn't bother to go on the field until shortly before game time. He doesn't watch the opposition's batting practice or that of his own players. Other managers watch for a newcomer's faults, etc.

AFTER A GAME, Durocher dresses quickly, makes a couple of telephone calls—and disappears.

He talks with baseball writers, but gets it over quickly. It's the same story on the road. Once gone, no one associated with baseball sees Durocher until the next day.

Not once during the entire training season in Phoenix did the man who should have been most concerned show up at press headquarters, which was filled by big league officials and scouts. Instead, Leo's version of fraternizing with people with whom he makes a living was pitching a fantastic party at his Beverly Hills home. The prime purpose of the shindig was to show the Giants off to Hollywood pals.

CASEY STENGEL'S telephone number and that of Walter Alston and every other major league manager are in the books of baseball writers. It would be easy to get Durocher's—but it strikes you as a number not to use. Working hours for him you see, seem to be strictly the length of a ball game.

The club standings clearly show the bitter disappointment of Owner Stoneham, a true fan. The sparkling club of last fall went completely to pot.

Rankling Stoneham particularly was Durocher calling Sal Maglie lazy when the faithful righthander excusably failed to cover first base on a ball that was headed for the outfield until it struck an umpire.

DUROCHER, whose two-year contract expires this season, could have used more tact in resting Willie Mays, and it was when he saw the most valuable player of 1954 humiliated in the dugout that Horace Stoneham decided it was time for a change. Mays seemed destined to restore the Giants' prestige, lift them from last in New York to first.

Now if Willie Mays brings this about, he will do it without the genius of Leo Durocher.

Jockey Ken Churck is called "The Prince" by rival riders because of his blond, wavy hair and good looks.

Stoneham Denies Rumor Durocher To Quit Giants

Minneapolis, June 23 (AP)—Rumors that he would leave the New York Giants to manage the St. Louis Cardinals followed Leo Durocher to Minneapolis today where his team meets the Millers in an exhibition game.

"It just has to be no comment," Durocher said when asked if he had heard reports circulating in New York that he was going to leave the Giants.

"I've had thirty or forty calls from all over the country, and that's what I've told all of 'em. What's the use of trying to say anything else. One story would just start another one, so I'm just saying nothing."

THE REPORT was that Bill Rigney, a Giant infielder for eight years and manager of the Minneapolis club—a Giant farm—would move into Durocher's post at the Polo Grounds.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, is supposed to be in Minneapolis for tonight's exhibition game. In New York last night he said:

"There is absolutely nothing to the story. I have never mentioned Leo's name to any of the officials of the Cardinals except in the usual course of baseball chit-chat."

RIGNEY ALSO said he was in the dark.

"I haven't heard a thing," said the 35-year-old Minneapolis pilot at Charlestown, W. Va., where the Millers played a doubleheader last night.

"I think the rumor is a phony. The only thing I'm concerned about now is who's going to pitch the first game of tonight's doubleheader."

THE 1954 world champions defeated Cincinnati last night to snap a six game losing streak. With pitcher Johnny Antonelli ineffective, Willie Mays in a slump, and Davey Williams nursing a bad back, the Giants are in fourth place, 16½ games back of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

IT IS EXPECTED the Giants will call up an infielder, perhaps Bill Gardner, or Foster Castleman.

Durocher became manager of the Giants July 16, 1948, resigning as pilot of the Dodgers in a switch that startled the baseball world.

Eddie Stanky was fired as the Cardinals' manager May 28, and was replaced by Harry (The Hat) Walker, manager of the Cardinals' Rochester farm club.

Rigney ended his active playing days with the Giants in 1953. He then succeeded Freddie Fitzsimmons as manager at Minneapolis.

Yonkers Track Stays Despite Thruway Work

Yonkers, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—Yonkers Raceway says it definitely will run its Aug. 1 to Nov. 15 meeting on the home track and that construction of the New York State Thruway will not require it to move.

A spokesman said today that Yonkers could use the Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island under a reciprocal arrangement but no use of Roosevelt is contemplated this year.

Fear that Roosevelt might be needed for the Yonkers meet caused cancellation of the 114-year-old Mineola fair. Sponsors of the late September event said they searched for an alternate site in vain.

Apprised of the Yonkers statement, however, J. Alfred Valentine, chairman of the fair's board, said the cancellation stands. He said the Yonkers-Roosevelt agreement has been in effect for some years but conditions this year were more "uncertain."

"We can't run a fair on short notice," he added.

Tom Ashdown Gives Up 3 Hits As Dodgers Beat Red Sox, 4-0

Tom Ashdown was a busy youngster in the American Little League last night. He pitched a three-hit shutout game for the Sprague Dodgers, struck out 10 and blasted a home run. More than enough for the Dodgers to rack up a 4-0 victory over the Moose Red Sox.

His four-ply drive was his second of the season.

Mike Carpino, the losing pitcher, fanned 13. One of the three hits given up by Ashdown was a double by Dick Whiston. It was the fifth straight win for the Dodgers.

Robin Roberts may be the only pitcher in baseball who figures to be around for the second inning after getting clobbered for three home runs and blowing a 3-0 lead in the first.

That's Robin's way. He gets hit the hardest, yet wins the most.

Even so, the ace of Philadelphia Phils' staff must give Manager Mayo Smith fits.

LAST NIGHT at St. Louis, Roberts trailed 4-3 after the Cards whacked him for three homers, two in succession, in the first frame. Yet he stayed around and wound up with his 13th complete game and 10th victory of the season, 9-6.

That put the Phils back in fifth place, a percentage point ahead of Cincinnati in the National League. The Redlegs lost 4-3 to the New York Giants, who ended a six-game losing streak. First place Brooklyn edged Chicago 3-2, leaving the Cubs a half game ahead of the third-place Milwaukee Braves, who whipped Pittsburgh 6-0.

IN THE AMERICAN, the New York Yankees held their two-game lead by beating Kansas City 6-1. Runnerup Chicago trimmed Washington 3-0 and third place Cleveland rapped Baltimore 5-0 Fast climbing Boston defeated Detroit 12-7, leaving the Red Sox just a game short of the fourth place Tigers.

Getting back to Roberts. He got a three-run rally going in the seventh that decided the game, leading off with a double. In all, the Phils had 14 hits—three by Roberts—off six St. Louis pitchers.

The Cards got 10 from Robin, including another homer—second of the night for Stan Musial, who also tripled.

THE DODGERS did it without Don Newcombe yesterday, winning behind Ed Roebuck's relief work after scoring an unearned run in the eighth on an error by Hal Jeffcoat, who lost in relief. The Brooks now lead by 13.

Home runs by Hank Thompson and Bobby Hofman broke a 2-2 tie for the Giants in the ninth as Sal Maglie beat Gerry Staley for his eighth straight victory. The Giants hadn't had such a slump since they lost eight straight in late 1953.

Mickey Mantle hit his 18th homer with a man on and Yogi Berra lined a bases loaded single as both drove home two Yankee runs in support of Ed Ford, who scattered nine Kansas City hits. Art Ditmar was the loser.

Melton poked a timely homer in the seventh with one on to give Mazzola the margin.

Big Don Minnick scattered six Elmira hits as he blanked the visiting Pioneers 5-0 and registered his 10th straight mound victory for the Reading Indians.

Cal Houge hurled a six-hitter for the league leading Williamsport, dumping the Schenectady Blue Jays 7-2.

Lefty Gomez still holds the best won and lost record ever turned in by a Yankee pitcher. In 1934 he won 25 and lost five.

Good Pitching Marks Eastern League Wins

(By The Associated Press)

Allentown has pulled one notch ahead in the Eastern League at the expense of Binghamton's pitching ace Jim Coates.

Coates, who had given up only one earned run in his last 43 inings, was knocked out of the box in the fifth last night as Allentown blasted the host Triplets 10-5.

The victory boosted the Red Birds into third place, only two percentage points behind Binghamton.

Good pitching marked other games last night. Wilkes-Barre rightander Jim Mazzola turned in a five-hitter at Wilkes-Barre and topped the last-place Albany Senators 2-0. Rightfielder Tony

Grayson Sure of DP: Durocher to Cards, Rigney to Giants

NEA Writer Says Leo Definitely Finished at PG

Figures Resignation To Take Cardinal Post

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor ..

New York, June 23 — Leo Durocher definitely is out as manager of the Giants.

A good bet is that Durocher, controversial man of many baseball lives, once more will land right side up, this time as manager of the Cardinals.

Bill Rigney, bespectacled former shortstop who has the New York club's Minneapolis farm club out in front in the American Association, is expected to be named the Giants' new manager any day now. It was more than the exhibition game between the Giants and Millers that took Horace C. Stoneham to Minneapolis.

DUROCHER IS friendly with August A. Busch, Jr., who is as dissatisfied with the St. Louis club as Stoneham is with the shocking decline in New York.

Busch seeks an established major league manager, was vastly impressed with Durocher's manipulating and World Series performance last season. Gussie goes for The Lip's flamboyancy and Hollywood touch. Sometime back it was reported that Durocher was to land an agency for the beer brewed by the Red Bird's owner.

When Harry Walker succeeded Eddie Stanky as the Cardinal's pilot not long ago, nothing was said about Dixie's kid brother being anything more than a stop gap.

IT WOULD not be surprising to see Durocher resign his post at the Polo Grounds. That would give everybody an out and enable The Lip to negotiate with Busch.

Durocher has a rich St. Louis background, formerly resided there and it was at Sportsman's Park, now Busch Stadium, that he played his finest shortstop for the celebrated Gas House Gang of 1934.

Concern about a long hard summer at the Polo Grounds prompted Stoneham to move. The Giants have drawn 480,000 to date, but far in the ruck and flirting with the second division, two remaining series—six games—with the Dodgers is about all the front office has to look forward to in the way of Harlem turnstile spin. Once again Brooklyn fans have to come to the rescue of the Giants.

DUROCHER'S trouble in a great measure stems from the fact that he treats baseball as though it were a part-time job. As the result of their smashing success in 1954, too many of the Giants have too many outside interests. Durocher is seen on television and subway advertisements every time you turn around.

When the Giants are home, Durocher is at the park early enough, but sits at his desk and holds court for Hollywood friends. He doesn't bother to go on the field until shortly before game time. He doesn't watch the opposition's batting practice or that of his own players. Other managers watch for a newcomer's faults, etc.

AFTER A GAME, Durocher dresses quickly, makes a couple of telephone calls—and disappears.

He talks with baseball writers, but gets it over quickly. It's the same story on the road. Once gone, no one associated with baseball sees Durocher until the next day.

Not once during the entire training season in Phoenix did the man who should have been most concerned show up at press headquarters, which was filled by big league officials and scouts. Instead, Leo's version of fraternizing with people with whom he makes a living was pitching a fantastic party at his Beverly Hills home. The prime purpose of the shindig was to show the Giants off to Hollywood pals.

CASEY STENGEL'S telephone number and that of Walter Alston and every other major league manager are in the books of baseball writers. It would be easy to get Durocher's—but it strikes you as a number not to use. Working hours for him you see, seem to be strictly the length of a ball game.

The club standings clearly show the bitter disappointment of Owner Stoneham, a true fan. The sparkling club of last fall went completely to pot.

Rankling Stoneham particularly was Durocher calling Sal Maglie lazy when the faithful right-hander excusably failed to cover first base on a ball that was headed for the outfield until it struck an umpire.

DUROCHER, whose two-year contract expires this season, could have used more tact in resting Willie Mays, and it was when he saw the most valuable player of 1954 humiliated in the dugout that Horace Stoneham decided it was time for a change. Mays seemed destined to restore the Giants' prestige, lift them from last in New York to first.

Now if Willie Mays brings this about, he will do it without the genius of Leo Durocher.

Jockey Ken Churck is called "The Prince" by rival riders because of his blond, wavy hair and good looks.

Stoneham Denies Rumor Durocher To Quit Giants

Minneapolis, June 23 (AP)—Rumors that he would leave the New York Giants to manage the St. Louis Cardinals followed Leo Durocher to Minneapolis today where his team meets the Millers in an exhibition game.

"It just has to be no comment," Durocher said when asked if he had heard reports circulating in New York that he was going to leave the Giants.

"I've had thirty or forty calls from all over the country, and that's what I've told all of 'em. What's the use of trying to say anything else. One story would just start another one, so I'm just saying nothing."

THE REPORT was that Bill Rigney, a Giant infielder for eight years and manager of the Minneapolis club—a Giant farm—would move into Durocher's post at the Polo Grounds.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, is supposed to be in Minneapolis for tonight's exhibition game. In New York last night he said:

"There is absolutely nothing to the story. I have never mentioned Leo's name to any of the officials of the Cardinals except in the usual course of baseball chit-chat."

RIGNEY ALSO said he was in the dark.

"I haven't heard a thing," said the 35-year-old Minneapolis pilot at Charlestown, W. Va., where the Millers played a doubleheader last night.

"I think the rumor is a phony. The only thing I'm concerned about now is who's going to pitch the first game of tonight's doubleheader."

THE 1954 world champions defeated Cincinnati last night to snap a six game losing streak. With pitcher Johnny Antonelli ineffective, Willie Mays in a slump, and Davey Williams nursing a bad back, the Giants are in fourth place, 16½ games back of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

IT IS EXPECTED the Giants will call up an infielder, perhaps Bill Gardner, or Foster Castleman.

Durocher became manager of the Giants July 16, 1948, resigning as pilot of the Dodgers in a switch that startled the baseball world.

Eddie Stanky was fired as the Cardinals' manager May 28, and was replaced by Harry (The Hat) Walker, manager of the Cardinals' Rochester farm club.

Rigney ended his active playing days with the Giants in 1953. He then succeeded Freddie Fitzsimmons as manager at Minneapolis.

First place Brooklyn edged Chicago 3-2, leaving the Cubs a half game ahead of the third-place Milwaukee Braves, who whipped Pittsburgh 6-0.

IN THE AMERICAN, the New York Yankees held their two-game lead by beating Kansas City 6-1, Runnerup Chicago trimmed Washington 3-0 and third place Cleveland rapped Baltimore 5-0 Fast climbing Boston defeated Detroit 12-7, leaving the Red Sox just a game short of the fourth place Tigers.

Getting back to Roberts. He got a three-run rally going in the seventh that decided the game, leading off with a double. In all, the Phils had 14 hits—three by Roberts—off six St. Louis pitchers.

The Cards got 10 from Robin, including another homer—second of the night for Stan Musial, who also tripled.

THE DODGERS did it without Don Newcombe yesterday, winning behind Ed Roebuck's relief work after scoring an unearned run in the eighth on an error by Hal Jeffcoat, who lost in relief. The Brooks now lead by 13.

Home runs by Hank Thompson and Bobby Hofman broke a 2-2 tie for the Giants in the ninth as Sal Maglie beat Gerry Staley for his eighth straight victory. The Giants hadn't had such a slump since they lost eight straight in late 1953.

Mickey Mantle hit his 18th homer with a man on and Yogi Berra lined a bases loaded single as both drove home two Yankee runs in support of Ed Ford, who scattered nine Kansas City hits. Art Ditmar was the loser.

Melton poked a timely homer in the seventh with one on to give Mazzola the margin.

Big Don Minnick scattered six Elmira hits as he blanked the visiting Pioneers 5-0 and registered his 10th straight mound victory for the Reading Indians.

Cal Houge hurled a six-hitter for the league leading Williamsport, dumping the Schenectady Blue Jays 7-2.

Lefty Gomez still holds the best won and lost record ever turned in by a Yankee pitcher. In 1934 he won 25 and lost five.

Tom Ashdown Gives Up 3 Hits As Dodgers Beat Red Sox, 4-0

Tom Ashdown was a busy youngster in the American Little League last night. He pitched a three-hit shutout game for the Sprague Dodgers, struck out 10 and blasted a home run. More than enough for the Dodgers to rack up a 4-0 victory over the Moose Red Sox.

His four-ply drive was his second of the season.

Mike Carpino, the losing pitcher, fanned 13. One of the three hits given up by Ashdown was a double by Dick Whiston. It was the fifth straight win for the Dodgers.

Good Pitching Marks Eastern League Wins

(By The Associated Press)

Allentown has pulled one notch ahead in the Eastern League at the expense of Binghamton's pitching ace Jim Coates.

Coates, who had given up only one earned run in his last 43 inings, was knocked out of the box in the fifth last night as Allentown blasted the host Triplets 10-5.

The victory boosted the Red Birds into third place, only two percentage points behind Binghamton.

Good pitching marked other games last night. Wilkes-Barre rightander Jim Mazzola turned in a five-hitter at Wilkes-Barre and topped the last-place Albany Senators 2-0. Rightfielder Tony

Seixas Shoulder Injury May Mean Last Davis Match

Wimbledon, England, June 23 (AP)—Lawn tennis fans at Wimbledon speculated today on whether Vic Seixas has played his last Davis Cup match for the United States.

The 31-year-old Philadelphian pulled a shoulder muscle in the French Championships and the injury has had him in trouble ever since.

Seixas withdrew from a Brussels tournament because of the injury and later showed substandard form in a Wimbledon tuneup tournament at London's Queens Club. Yesterday he came up with more shoulder trouble and lost his men's singles match to Gil Shea of Los Angeles.

AFTER LOSING to Shea, Seixas and his wife, Dolly, were non-commital saying only "we hope the shoulder pulls around."

Seixas is paired with Tony Trabert of Cincinnati in the Wimbledon men's doubles championship and the Philadelphian will be anxious to prove that he's still in the top flight and ready for another Davis Cup round. The pair meet Britain's young team of Bobby Wilson and Tony Pickard today in a second-rounder on the No. 1 court.

THE U. S. HAS NO ready made successor to Seixas. Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., was the third player on the team in last year's Davis Cup competition, but he was eliminated in the first round at Wimbledon by Sweden's Sven Davison.

Meanwhile Trabert is showing the fans why he's the favorite for the men's singles title. Tony is playing at the top of his form.

The Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals required 4 hours and 39 minutes to play 14 innings on April 16.

It's a Winner! This 9 lb. Brown Trout, caught in the Chateaugay River by Arthur Olsowsky of Angelica, won 1st prize in that division in the May Louis A. Wehle New York State Fishing Contest.

Subway and Mirons Win In City Softball Games

Last Night's Results
Subway 14, Local 259, 6
Wimpy's 8, Perry's 8
Miron 2, Chez Emile 1

Pitching fortunes in the City Softball League are sometimes unpredictable. Ron Freer of Chez Emile two-hit Miron Lumber last evening, but still lost the ball game, 2-1.

Neither of the hits went for extra bases as Bob Felton and Frank Nadal singled.

Bud Scheffel picked up two of the six Chez hits.

A 27-HIT barrage, including 10 doubles highlighted other action.

The cannonading came in the Subway-Local 259 game, won by Subway, 14-6. W. Cragan blasted three of the extra-base wallops, and J. Scholar turned in two. Bill Haber, Frank Spada, Bosco Thomaszewski, J. Benincase and J. Pino also hit for extra bases. F. Fede poled a triple for Subway.

There was one mishap when Al Hunt, Subway hurler, was knocked out when Bill Haber hit him in the head while throwing to first base.

Wimpy's and Perry's wound up in a 8-all deadlock as Tony Musto homered. That game produced 24 hits.

Yanks Win 1st Game in Esopus LL

The virtue of patience paid off for the Yankees of the Esopus American Legion Little League last night as they produced their first victory of the season, defeating the Dodgers, 9-7.

Bombing three Dodger pitchers for 13 hits, the Yankees came up with a four-run cluster in the second frame as a Dodger rally fell short in the fifth inning and the game was called because of darkness. Curtis King came in to put out the fire and save the game for Bob Robinson.

A "3 for 4" night by John Reinhardt who poled two doubles helped the Yankees cause as the winners pounded out 13 hits.

Standings in the City Baseball League remain unchanged today after Nadler Motors and Ferraro's Bowlodrome went down the wire to a 2-2 tie called because of darkness at the Athletic Field last evening.

The stalemate left both clubs still without a win. The sidelight of the contest was the banishment of Managers Davis and Gardner for disputing the umpire's decision.

FERRARO'S SCORED A run in the first frame when R. Watzka doubled Parise home.

Two walks and a single by Lyons loaded the bases for Nadler's in the fifth, and Engle hit into a force play at home. Dunham fanned, the catcher missing the third strike, retrieving and making the force-out at home.

Ferraro's loaded the bases in the fifth, and Decker was caught at the plate on an attempted steal. An attempted pick-off went awry, but Parise popped up to second for the inning-ending out.

THE SEVENTH INNING produced Nadler's tallies when two walks and a wild throw placed runners on first and third. Engle singled to left scoring Lyons and Schroeder.

It was evened up in the same frame when Herzog walked, went to second on a wild throw and scored on Felipe's single.

Rochester ABC Tournament Assured With End of Strike

Rochester, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—An official of the American Bowling Congress says that the settlement of a carpenters strike here will enable the ABC tourney to be held here next year as originally scheduled.

Edwin M. Wildey, of Rochester, an executive director of the ABC, made the statement last night when informed that the Carpenters District Council, AFL, and the Mason-Carpenter Contractors Assn. had reached an agreement in a wage dispute.

MANY OF the carpenters and other building trades workers returned to their jobs today and all were expected to be back at work by Monday.

Earlier this week, ABC officials expressed fears that the Community War Memorial, where the 90-day tourney will be held, would not be ready in time and that the tourney would have to be moved elsewhere.

The ABC expected to begin construction of alleys in the memorial in February.

Opening date for the tourney has reportedly been set for mid-April.

Long Distance Swim

Buffalo, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—A stunning, blue-eyed blonde will plunge into Lake Erie at nearby Angola July 4 in an attempt to swim the 15 miles to Crystal Beach, Ont. Greta Patterson, who graduates from Batavia High School next week, said yesterday she hoped the swim would be a warm-up for the 32-mile grind across Lake Ontario to the Canadian National Exposition later in the summer.

Six of the 10 winners of the Sapling Stakes at Monmouth Park have gone on to win more than $100,000 in purses.

Seixas Shoulder Injury May Mean Last Davis Match

Wimbledon, England, June 23 (AP)—Lawn tennis fans at Wimbledon speculated today on whether Vic Seixas has played his last Davis Cup match for the United States.

The 31-year-old Philadelphian pulled a shoulder muscle in the French Championships and the injury has had him in trouble ever since.

Seixas withdrew from a Brussels tournament because of the injury and later showed substandard form in a Wimbledon tuneup tournament at London's Queens Club. Yesterday he came up with more shoulder trouble and lost his men's singles match to Gil Shea of Los Angeles.

AFTER LOSING to Shea, Seixas and his wife, Dolly, were non-commital saying only "we hope the shoulder pulls around."

Seixas is paired with Tony Trabert of Cincinnati in the Wimbledon men's doubles championship and the Philadelphian will be anxious to prove that he's still in the top flight and ready for another Davis Cup round. The pair meet Britain's young team of Bobby Wilson and Tony Pickard today in a second-rounder on the No. 1 court.

THE U. S. HAS NO ready made successor to Seixas. Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., was the third player on the team in last year's Davis Cup competition, but he was eliminated in the first round at Wimbledon by Sweden's Sven Davison.

Meanwhile Trabert is showing the fans why he's the favorite for the men's singles title. Tony is playing at the top of his form.

The Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals required 4 hours and 39 minutes to play 14 innings on April 16.

It's a Winner! This 9 lb. Brown Trout, caught in the Chateaugay River by Arthur Olsowsky of Angelica, won 1st prize in that division in the May Louis A. Wehle New York State Fishing Contest.

Subway and Mirons Win In City Softball Games

Last Night's Results
Subway 14, Local 259, 6
Wimpy's 8, Perry's 8
Miron 2, Chez Emile 1

Pitching fortunes in the City Softball League are sometimes unpredictable. Ron Freer of Chez Emile two-hit Miron Lumber last evening, but still lost the ball game, 2-1.

Neither of the hits went for extra bases as Bob Felton and Frank Nadal singled.

Bud Scheffel picked up two of the six Chez hits.

A 27-HIT barrage, including 10 doubles highlighted other action.

The cannonading came in the Subway-Local 259 game, won by Subway, 14-6. W. Cragan blasted three of the extra-base wallops, and J. Scholar turned in two. Bill Haber, Frank Spada, Bosco Thomaszewski, J. Benincase and J. Pino also hit for extra bases. F. Fede poled a triple for Subway.

There was one mishap when Al Hunt, Subway hurler, was knocked out when Bill Haber hit him in the head while throwing to first base.

Wimpy's and Perry's wound up in a 8-all deadlock as Tony Musto homered. That game produced 24 hits.

Yanks Win 1st Game in Esopus LL

The virtue of patience paid off for the Yankees of the Esopus American Legion Little League last night as they produced their first victory of the season, defeating the Dodgers, 9-7.

Bombing three Dodger pitchers for 13 hits, the Yankees came up with a four-run cluster in the second frame as a Dodger rally fell short in the fifth inning and the game was called because of darkness. Curtis King came in to put out the fire and save the game for Bob Robinson.

A "3 for 4" night by John Reinhardt who poled two doubles helped the Yankees cause as the winners pounded out 13 hits.

Darkness Halts 2-All Tie in City League

Nadlers	0	1	.000
Ferraro's	0	2	.000

Standings in the City Baseball League remain unchanged today after Nadler Motors and Ferraro's Bowlodrome went down the wire to a 2-2 tie called because of darkness at the Athletic Field last evening.

The stalemate left both clubs still without a win. The sidelight of the contest was the banishment of Managers Davis and Gardner for disputing the umpire's decision.

FERRARO'S SCORED A run in the first frame when R. Watzka doubled Parise home.

Two walks and a single by Lyons loaded the bases for Nadler's in the fifth, and Engle hit into a force play at home. Dunham fanned, the catcher missing the third strike, retrieving and making the force-out at home.

Ferraro's loaded the bases in the fifth, and Decker was caught at the plate on an attempted steal. An attempted pick-off went awry, but Parise popped up to second for the inning-ending out.

THE SEVENTH INNING produced Nadler's tallies when two walks and a wild throw placed runners on first and third. Engle singled to left scoring Lyons and Schroeder.

It was evened up in the same frame when Herzog walked, went to second on a wild throw and scored on Felipe's single.

Rochester ABC Tournament Assured With End of Strike

Rochester, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—An official of the American Bowling Congress says that the settlement of a carpenters strike here will enable the ABC tourney to be held here next year as originally scheduled.

Edwin M. Wildey, of Rochester, an executive director of the ABC, made the statement last night when informed that the Carpenters District Council, AFL, and the Mason-Carpenter Contractors Assn. had reached an agreement in a wage dispute.

MANY OF the carpenters and other building trades workers returned to their jobs today and all were expected to be back at work by Monday.

Earlier this week, ABC officials expressed fears that the Community War Memorial, where the 90-day tourney will be held, would not be ready in time and that the tourney would have to be moved elsewhere.

The ABC expected to begin construction of alleys in the memorial in February.

Opening date for the tourney has reportedly been set for mid-April.

Long Distance Swim

Buffalo, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—A stunning, blue-eyed blonde will plunge into Lake Erie at nearby Angola July 4 in an attempt to swim the 15 miles to Crystal Beach, Ont. Greta Patterson, who graduates from Batavia High School next week, said yesterday she hoped the swim would be a warm-up for the 32-mile grind across Lake Ontario to the Canadian National Exposition later in the summer.

Six of the 10 winners of the Sapling Stakes at Monmouth Park have gone on to win more than $100,000 in purses.

Western Open Finds Pros Par Happy Again

Portland, Ore., Jun 23 (AP)—Most of America's top golfers were expected to resume their par-smashing habits with the start of the Western Open championship today after a week of frustration in the National Open at San Francisco.

The field of 175 includes nearly all of the leading professionals who played on the narrowed, rough fairways of San Francisco's Olympic Club course. No one matched the 72-hole par there.

So the pros were happy when they reached the straight, well-groomed 6,604-yard Portland Golf Club layout. The par is 72 here but in practice sessions many have been several strokes under. Favorite in this tournament, blasted out a 64. So did Tommy Bolt.

This is a $15,000 event. There will be $2,400 for the winner and $1,800 for the runner-up.

Bob Smith Rolls 627 In Summer Mixed Loo

Anchoring Smith's Store, Bob Smith rolled games of 212-214 for a tremendous 627 triple last evening in the Summer Mixed League at Ferraro's.

Tom Graham posted a 584 on a middle game of 25, the high single effort for the night.

Larry Petersen, Jr., fired a 569.

The scores: Smith's Store 2, Roseland 1; Greco Motors 2, Buster's 1; Worf's Rest 2, Spatz 1; Chas Ramsey Corp. 2, No. (7) 1; No. (4) 3, DeCicco's 0; Alpine 3, Petersen Construction 0; Oehler's Mt. Lodge 2, Central Lunch 1.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, BY THE GRACE OF GOD FREE AND INDEPENDENT, TO:

RALPH T. JONES, 155 Edgerton St., Rochester, N. Y., WILLIAM COLLINS WIRTH, 206 Seneca Road, Richmond, Va., RICHARD MARTIN WIRTH, 611 Euclid Ave., Elmira, N. (address unknown), a great nephew of deceased, the said Colin Wirth, Jr. being a son of Colin Wirth, deceased, a son of Aletta Upright Wirth, deceased; if the said Byron Wirth and/or the said Colin Wirth, Jr. are living, and if either or both are dead to his executors, administrators and all distributees, legatees and devisees of the said Byron Wirth and/or of the said Colin Wirth, Jr. and all persons who by purchase or inheritance or otherwise, have or claim to have an interest in the above entitled matter, derived through the said Byron Wirth and/or the said Colin Wirth, Jr. or his or their executors, administrators, distributees, legatees, devisees or through any of them, which heirs, executors, administrators, distributees, legatees, devisees and other persons, if any there be, and their names and post office addresses are unknown to petitioner and also all persons who are or make any claim whatsoever as executors or administrators of any person who may be deceased and who if living would have any interest in the above entitled matter derived through any or all of the above named people or their distributees, devisees, legatees and which persons, if any there be, and their names and post office addresses are unknown to petitioner,

GREETING:

YOU AND EACH OF YOU ARE HEREBY CITED TO SHOW CAUSE at a Surrogate's Court to be held in and for the County of Ulster at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Kingston, N. Y., on the 18th day of July, 1955, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why a certain instrument in writing, dating March 15, 1939, relating to both real and personal estate, presented to said Surrogate's Court, should not be proved, admitted to probate and recorded as the last Will and Testament of Howard D. Upright, late of the City of Kingston, Ulster County, deceased, upon the petition of the Valley National Bank of Wallkill, Ulster County, N. Y., the successor of The First National Bank and Trust Company of Walden, N. Y., the Executor named therein.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have caused the seal of said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed. WITNESS,
[L. S.] HON. JOHN B. STERLEY, Surrogate of our said County of Ulster, at Kingston, N. Y., this 6th day of June, 1955.

Western Open Finds Pros Par Happy Again

Portland, Ore., Jun 23 (AP)—Most of America's top golfers were expected to resume their par-smashing habits with the start of the Western Open championship today after a week of frustration in the National Open at San Francisco.

The field of 175 includes nearly all of the leading professionals who played on the narrowed, rough fairways of San Francisco's Olympic Club course. No one matched the 72-hole par there.

So the pros were happy when they reached the straight, well-groomed 6,604-yard Portland Golf Club layout. The par is 72 here but in practice sessions many have been several strokes under. Favorite in this tournament, blasted out a 64. So did Tommy Bolt.

This is a $15,000 event. There will be $2,400 for the winner and $1,800 for the runner-up.

Bob Smith Rolls 627 In Summer Mixed Loo

Anchoring Smith's Store, Bob Smith rolled games of 212-214 for a tremendous 627 triple last evening in the Summer Mixed League at Ferraro's.

Tom Graham posted a 584 on a middle game of 25, the high single effort for the night.

Larry Petersen, Jr., fired a 569.

The scores: Smith's Store 2, Roseland 1; Greco Motors 2, Buster's 1; Worf's Rest 2, Spatz 1; Chas Ramsey Corp. 2, No. (7) 1; No. (4) 3, DeCicco's 0; Alpine 3, Petersen Construction 0; Oehler's Mt. Lodge 2, Central Lunch 1.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, BY THE GRACE OF GOD FREE AND INDEPENDENT, TO:

RALPH T. JONES, 155 Edgerton St., Rochester, N. Y., WILLIAM COLLINS WIRTH, 206 Seneca Road, Richmond, Va., RICHARD MARTIN WIRTH, 611 Euclid Ave., Elmira, N. (address unknown), a great nephew of deceased, the said Colin Wirth, Jr. being a son of Colin Wirth, deceased, a son of Aletta Upright Wirth, deceased; if the said Byron Wirth and/or the said Colin Wirth, Jr. are living, and if either or both are dead to his executors, administrators and all distributees, legatees and devisees of the said Byron Wirth and/or of the said Colin Wirth, Jr. and all persons who by purchase or inheritance or otherwise, have or claim to have an interest in the above entitled matter, derived through the said Byron Wirth and/or the said Colin Wirth, Jr. or his or their executors, administrators, distributees, legatees, devisees or through any of them, which heirs, executors, administrators, distributees, legatees, devisees and other persons, if any there be, and their names and post office addresses are unknown to petitioner and also all persons who are or make any claim whatsoever as executors or administrators of any person who may be deceased and who if living would have any interest in the above entitled matter derived through any or all of the above named people or their distributees, devisees, legatees and which persons, if any there be, and their names and post office addresses are unknown to petitioner.

GREETING:

YOU AND EACH OF YOU ARE HEREBY CITED TO SHOW CAUSE at a Surrogate's Court to be held in and for the County of Ulster at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Kingston, N. Y., on the 18th day of July, 1955, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why a certain instrument in writing, dating March 15, 1939, relating to both real and personal estate, presented to said Surrogate's Court, should not be proved, admitted to probate and recorded as the last Will and Testament of Howard D. Upright, late of the City of Kingston, Ulster County, deceased, upon the petition of the Valley National Bank of Wallkill, Ulster County, N. Y., the successor of The First National Bank and Trust Company of Walden, N. Y., the Executor named therein.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have caused the seal of said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed. WITNESS, [L. S.] HON. JOHN B. STERLEY, Surrogate of our said County of Ulster, at Kingston, N. Y., this 6th day of June, 1955.

RED CROSS OFFICIALS attending the annual dinner of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, Wednesday night were seated (l-r) Mrs. Herbert Schwartz, secretary to the board; Miss Gwen O'Neal, director of services in Veterans Hospitals, Eastern area, who was the guest speaker; Frederick Hoffman, Chapter chairman and Mrs. William H. Merrill, vice-chairman; rear (l-r) Oscar Lawatsch, treasurer; Walter T. Tremper, vice-chairman; Mrs. Walter Jeghers, vice-chairman; Mrs. Walter K. Hubbard, executive director and the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, board member. (Freeman photo) ed by Chairman Hoffman, who presided at the meeting, and the award to Mr. Hoffman, who has served as a member of the board of directors, the executive committee and as county chairman, was made by Vice-Chairman Walter T. Tremper.

Miss Gwen O'Neal, director of Services in Veterans Hospitals, Eastern Area, was the guest speaker and spoke on "Red Cross as a World Wide Movement." She reviewed the activities of Red Cross and spoke of its world wide scope. Not only does Red Cross serve in war and peace but it is constantly on the alert throughout the world to bring together the peoples of all nations in a better understanding of world problems she said. In time of disaster it stands ready to help and through the cooperation of nation members it brings about a better world wide understanding of the problems of every nation, the guest speaker added.

Saugerties Boy Hurt When Hit by Auto

Richard Edwards, 3, of Route 1, Saugerties, was injured about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday when he was struck by an automobile on Old Kings Highway near Saugerties, state police reported.

The boy was taken to Benedictine Hospital by ambulance after receiving treatment from Dr. B. W. Gifford for concussion, a slight scalp laceration, chest and back injuries, state police said. His condition was listed as "fair" at the hospital today.

Trooper Raymond Kowalski, who investigated, reported that Richard ran from behind a hedge into the path of an automobile operated by William H. Trompbour, 24, of Saugerties. Trompbour was not held.

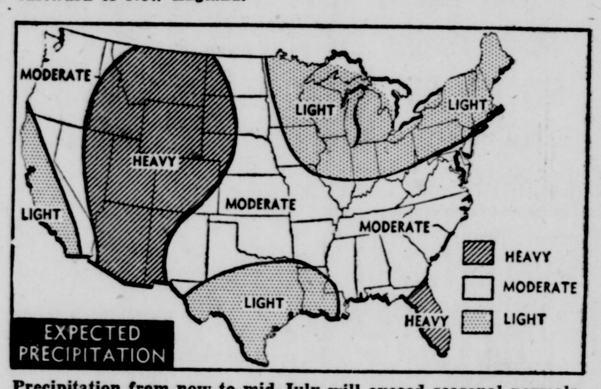
Temperatures up to mid-July will average above seasonal normals over the northern half of the nation from the northern Plains eastward to New England.



Precipitation from now to mid-July will exceed seasonal normals in the western Mountain and Plateau states. Subnormal rainfall is expected over northeast quarter of nation.

Decision Is . . .

should be suspended and vaccine manufacture halted until a "less virulent" strain of polio virus was substituted for that now used.

At that time, Dr. Thomas M. Rivers of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York, said "It would be tragic if we stopped now.

DR. SALK expressed no opinion at the hearing but later told newsmen he saw no reason for halting the present program. However, he said his vaccine might eventually be developed along the lines Dr. Sabin suggested.

Voting with Francis and Shannon for continuing the inoculation program were Dr. Rivers, Dr. Daniel Bergsma, New Jersey commissioner of health; Dr. Joseph E. Smadel, Army Medical Services Graduate School, Walter Reed Army Center, Washington; Dr. Colin Macleod, Bellevue Medical Center, New York; Dr. Frank L. Horsfall Jr., Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research; and Horace L. Hodes, pediatrician-in-chief, Mount Sinai Hospital, New York.

After this vote, the panel gave unanimous backing to the view by Dr. Sabin that "attenuated" (weakened) strains of polio virus should be substituted as soon as practical for the more virulent strain now used in making the vaccine. Sabin had argued that the "Mahoney virus" now used is too unpredictable for safety.

Sorosis Holds Picnic

The June meeting of Sorosis took the form of a picnic with Mrs. Herbert V. Darrow of High Falls as hostess. A delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Darrow and the picnic committee. A short business meeting was held at which the 1955-56 program was presented. A social hour followed.

Canal Shipments Up

Albany, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—Shipments on the state Barge Canal system this year are running about 42 per cent ahead of the 1954 rate, the state Public Works Department reported today. The department said that as of June 17, the end of the second month of the navigation season, tonnage shipped on the canal system totaled 1,232,087. This compared with 862,826 tons transported during the first two months of the 1954 season.

Patrol Bomber Crashes

Fairbanks, Alaska, June 23 (AP)—A navy patrol bomber crashed on remote St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea yesterday and air force fliers reported they spotted four injured men near the wreckage. It was not known here whether any other men were aboard. The wreck scene is six miles off Southwest Cape near the community of Gambell.

has been pushing. They were all among Molotov's demands in yesterday's speech.

There was no immediate comment here, but it was difficult to see how these moves could help create the proper atmosphere for success at the summit talks of the Big Four in Geneva in July.

It was generally expected that India's V. K. Krishna Menon, who speaks tomorrow afternoon, would refer to the Nehru-Bulganin declaration.

3. Called for admission to the UN of "all states which are qualified for membership in terms of the charter."

4. Acclaimed the results of the Asian-African conference at Bandung, Indonesia last April.

5. Welcomed the advent of Austrian independence.

6. Noted "signs of improvement in the general international situation" and "lessening of tension in the Far East" but warned that the causes of friction still remained in the Far East. Red China's failure to get Formosa and a UN seat were the only causes cited.

7. Agreed to promote and strengthen economic, cultural and scientific relations between India and Russia.

8. Hailed improvement of relations between Russia and Yugoslavia.

(In Washington, the State Department said it would have no immediate comment on the Nehru-Bulganin declaration. Secretary of State Dulles and other top officials in San Francisco for the UN anniversary celebration could not be reached last night.)
